

Chapter 1121 Venomous Ants

Bohumil and the other men around him were used to being arrogant and domineering anywhere they went.

Moreover, they were in front of Cristina now. How could they possibly bow down to Trevor that easily?

"Damn it! How dare you talk to me like that! You must be courting death!" Bohumil shouted angrily. He then rushed to Trevor, wanting to slap Trevor in the face.

The atmosphere became tense in an instant. The other men also took action, preparing to besiege Trevor.

However, the fight ended very quickly.

"Ahhh!"

The men screamed in pain one after another. Trevor kicked them away effortlessly, and they now lay on the ground, groaning.

Trevor stepped on Bohumil's stomach, clapped his hands, and asked with a smile, "Will you pay for it now?"

They were all full of hatred. But the pain in their bodies made them unable to stand up and fight back. Bohumil could only beg for mercy. "Please, stop it! I'll pay for it. I'll pay for it now."

After getting the money as compensation for the record, Trevor didn't bother to argue with them anymore. He waved his hand and said, "Get lost!"

The men helped each other in a panic and retreated a little far away awkwardly.

But since they already hated Trevor to the core, how could they let him go? They must take revenge.

They didn't leave the mountain top. Instead, they laid a picnic cloth on the open space nearby, glancing at Trevor with resentment from time to time.

"Damn you, Levi! I must kill you today!" Bohumil said through clenched teeth. He looked at the other men beside him and began to discuss with them.

"That guy is a little weird. We don't have any chance of winning if we fight with him head-on. Why don't we think of other ways to take revenge on him?"

"Well, I have an idea. I just found a nest of fire ants nearby. I heard that those ants bite people."

"Ha-ha! That's a good idea! Let's take some ants secretly and throw them to Levi."

They came up with such a mean trick.

Bohumil and the man who found the nest immediately went to check on it. Sure enough, there were many fire ants in it. With sinister smiles, they stretched out their hands, opened the ant nest, and took some ants.

Then they secretly threw them behind Trevor and the girls.

"Ha-ha! It's done. I'm sure those girls will scream in fear." Bohumil and the other man ran back quickly, scratching their hands while talking.

When they were picking up the fire ants just now, the two of them were inevitably stung by them.

They didn't know much about fire ants, so they didn't take it seriously.

They watched as Ivanna and the members of Purple Band saw the ants and yelled.

They smiled wickedly.

Cristina looked at them with a twisted smile on her face. She gritted her teeth and said, "They only deserve it. I hope those ants bite them to death."

At this moment, Trevor noticed the small fire ants crawling on their picnic cloth. His eyes narrowed slightly.

Of course, he knew that those were the fire ants.

And he also knew that the stings of these ants had strong toxicity. It would often cause people's skin to turn red and swollen. And in severe cases, people could be in shock.

"Everyone, get out of the picnic cloth now!" After taking the girls away from the picnic cloth, Trevor turned to Cristina and looked at her with narrowed eyes.

He was certain that Cristina and her friends did this.

But he didn't immediately approach them to ask for an explanation. Instead, he took out the silver needles he carried with him and found wild herbs in the bushes for treatment.

Alicia was bitten by a few ants, so he needed to treat her.

Trevor smeared the herb juice on her leg while comforting her, "Don't worry, the treatment is very timely. Your condition is not serious, and there will be no scars left."

However, Cristina, who was not far away, mocked loudly, "Ha-ha! What a fuss! She's just bitten by ants, and she already makes a big fuss."

When Ivanna saw Cristina and the men not far away laughing, she snapped, "It must be them who did it."

Trevor's face darkened. After treating the members of Purple Band, he walked towards Cristina step by step.

He asked coldly, "Did you do it? Do you know that being bitten by these ants may lead to serious consequences?"

Cristina and the men had a very shallow understanding of the ants.

They all gloated and denied it.

"Don't talk nonsense. Do you have any evidence? How can you prove it was us? You are exaggerating. They were only bitten by ants. What serious consequences can there be?"

However, after Cristina said this, Bohumil and the other man who took the ants felt itchy.

They looked down and found that their hands were covered with red and swollen blisters.

The blisters even began to spread on their wrists, and they looked extremely terrifying.

Chapter 1122 In Danger

"Damn it! What the hell is going on? What is happening to my hands? Fuck! My hands!"

The two young men screamed in horror, showing fear on their faces.

Trevor sneered, "You said you didn't do it, right?"

But Bohumil was still stubborn. He argued, "I didn't do it! Did you see me do it?"

Trevor looked down at their red and swollen hands, smiled coldly, and said, "Then wait for your death."

Bohumil and the other man were severely stung by the fire ants. And they were injected with a lot of toxins. Otherwise, it would not have caused a large area of skin festering.

Cristina glared at Trevor and said arrogantly, "Get lost! We don't need an alarmist here. I'll take them down the mountain and find a doctor now. You have no right to talk nonsense here."

Trevor just shrugged his shoulders. With the two men's status, it was still a question if they could hold on until they arrived at the foot of the mountain.

But he didn't bother to say anything more. He turned around and went back to his group to take care of Alicia and the girls.

Sure enough, the men who had just set off to the foot of the mountain for treatment ran back in panic in less than five minutes.

Bohumil and the other man's faces had turned red, and their lips were faintly purple. It could also be seen that their breathing became rapid.

"Help us! My friends are dying. Please help. Please save them." A fat man ran towards Trevor, crying and shouting. This was no trace of arrogance in him at all.

Bohumil and the other man didn't care about their faces anymore. They ran over in horror. "Save us! Please help us."

Bohumil pleaded, "Please help me. I can't breathe anymore. I feel like dying. My body is itchy and sore."

The two gabbled on in a panicky way.

Tears welled up in their eyes, and there was an undisguised terrified expression on their faces.

There was no trace of arrogance in them anymore. In their current situation, could they still dare to be arrogant? They even felt like dying now. And the only person who could save them now was Trevor.

"Please, save me with those needles and herbs. I don't want to die yet. I can give you money. A lot of money!"

Trevor smiled indifferently and said calmly, "Just now, Cristina said that I was an alarmist, right?"

When the men heard this, they became furious.

This was all Cristina's fault. If not because of her, they wouldn't have a conflict with Trevor.

At this moment, they had no time to flirt with Cristina anymore. They turned around and looked at her with fierce and violent expressions.

The look on Cristina's face drastically changed. She shouted in horror, "Wait! Bohumil, what are you doing? Calm down. Levi is trying to sow dissension among us. Ahhh! Don't hit me!"

The men didn't hesitate to punch and kick Cristina, hoping that, by doing this, Trevor could forgive them.

Trevor watched how they beat Cristina up. Her hair was disheveled, and she screamed in pain. But he just ignored her and didn't show mercy, thinking she only deserved it.

Since she relied on these men to deal with him just now, she had to bear the consequences of his counterattack.

After those men finished beating Cristina, she limped down the mountain in a hurry.

It was only then that Trevor nodded coldly. Then he roughly treated Bohumil and the other man.

But since they missed the best time for treatment, there might be scars left after the blisters recovered.

"Go away! I don't want to see you anymore," Trevor said, waving his hand. Then he put away his needles.

But this time, the men didn't dare to be arrogant anymore. They nodded and bowed before leaving quickly.

Alicia saw everything, and she couldn't help applauding in high spirits. "Well done, Levi! I feel so good now."

They were treated on time, so the wounds bitten by the fire ants had almost healed.

Now that she was rejuvenated, Alicia cleared her throat and said seriously, "Levi, we had a great time today, and Ivanna is also very cute."

Trevor raised his eyebrows and asked, "So?"

Alicia smiled sweetly and looked at her bandmates. Then they replied in unison, "We've decided to cooperate with your company."

"Cooperate?" Ivanna asked in confusion.

Alicia and the other members of Purple Band looked at each other and revealed their true faces, smiling.

"Oh my God! Purple Band? Wow, it's really you! I... I'm your fan." Ivanna's face flushed with excitement.

Alicia patted her on the shoulder and said with a smile, "We have reached an agreement with your boss. We will attend your first solo concert as your guests."

This time, Ivanna got more excited and shouted, "Wow! Is it true?" She then turned to Trevor. "Levi, you're the best! Thank you so much! Thank you." She faced Alicia, bowed, and said, "Alicia, thank you!"
