Married At First Sight Chapter 3207-Annenburg in Province X.

Tatum found a seat in the kitchen and sat down after serving all the dishes. He took out his mobile phone and read the news to pass the time.

He needed to wait for a result.

A busy afternoon.

He has been preparing for tonight's meal since he woke up this morning.

In the evening, Elora finally came back.

The servant brought out the meals he cooked in the afternoon one by one after a while of waiting.

He didn't have to go out.

After Elora tastes Tatum's food, if she is satisfied and wants to see him, she will ask him out.

Tatum would remain in the kitchen unnoticed until the Ormond family's owners had left, at which point he would depart.

Although Tatum was very confident in his cooking skills, when it got dark outside, he didn't wait for Elora to see him. Although he was reading the news calmly, he was still a little nervous deep down.

He didn't want to come three times, like Mr. Talbot.

Mr. Talbot spent so many years without a satisfactory result. After this failure, Mr. Talbot said he would not come again.

One was that he no longer had confidence; the other was that he was getting older.

In the restaurant, the Ormond family had already put down their dishes and chopsticks.

Elora was also wiping her mouth with a napkin.

The mother beside her asked with concern, “Elora, what do you think of the food cooked by this candidate?”

Without waiting for Elora to answer, Mrs. Ormond said, “I think he can do it. Otherwise, let’s admit him.”

Elora’s younger brother slumped on the chair and said, while stroking his round belly, “Sister, I’m full. This meal is so delicious. I haven’t eaten so full in a long time.”

Elora stretched out her hand and flicked her brother’s stomach. With a smile in her eyes, she said to him, “You’ve never been hungry, and you’re still full. Are you afraid that after this meal, you won’t have another meal? Sit for a while and then go for a walk to eat.”

She touched her brother’s belly again and felt that he was too full and that his belly was round.

When she looks at her cousin, it’s the same.

The two little brothers were about the same age; one was six years old, and the other was five years old. They played crazy together every day.

“Sister, can you stay with me?” The little guy thought that his eldest sister, Elora, had gone home for dinner and didn’t have to do anything after getting off work. He immediately grabbed Elora’s arm and looked at her with big, bright eyes. It was hard to refuse.

“Alonzo, your eldest sister will go out later. I will accompany you for a walk and enjoy the cold breeze.” Mrs. Ormond quickly told her son not to affect Elora’s work.

The Ormond family business was growing and declining, and Mrs. Ormond was very old. She unexpectedly became pregnant with the youngest and gave birth to a son. He was the first male in the Ormond family’s generation, so he was very precious. However, her son was too young, and her husband was getting older and lacked the energy to take care of the dotting family company, so she had to let the eldest daughter take on the heavy responsibility.

She knew how busy her husband had been. Her eldest daughter, Elora, was a girl, so she wanted to pay more and be busier after taking over the family business.

It hurts to see her as a mother.

Alonzo pouted and looked at Elora. "I just want the eldest sister to accompany me. The eldest sister goes to work every day. When I get up in the morning, the eldest sister is not at home. Last night, I fell asleep, and the eldest sister hasn't come back yet. How old is the eldest sister? She hasn't played with me for a long time."

Alonzo's favorite was not his parents but his eldest sister, Elora.

Not only was Alonzo afraid of Elora, but his cousin was also afraid of her. Obviously, Elora was not as indifferent as the third sister, but they were just afraid of her.

Elora smiled warmly and said, "It will be two days before I have time to play with you. I have some things to deal with tonight. I will be leaving soon."
