

Married At First Sight

Married At First Sight Chapter 3226-Evan continued, "Grandma, you're more important to me than my parents. You can also live a long life, Grandma. Don't you want to hold a great-granddaughter? We are nine brothers. In the future, you will have nine granddaughters-in-law. Maybe one of them can give birth to a granddaughter. The great-granddaughter is here to give you a hug.

Grandma, you want to hold a great-granddaughter, raise your great-granddaughter, and then help your great-granddaughter choose a good in-law."

Grandma May smiled and said, "I also want to borrow another five hundred years of life from heaven, can't I? Let's be realistic and confront reality. I will be satisfied if I can see my great-granddaughter being born. "How could I possibly hope to live until my great-granddaughter marries?"

No matter how good her health was, she was still an old lady in her eighties.

She didn't know where her great-granddaughter was yet.

It was hard to say whether she could wait until Rowan got married.

"Okay, grandma was teasing you just now. Grandma said that as long as the other person has good character and upright views, Grandma will agree, even if she is not the person chosen by Grandma. The question is, do you know who she is? It's been so long, and you don't even know her last name or where she lives."

Evan looked embarrassed. "I am useless."

He said politely, "I want to ask Brother Josh to help me check it out. He said that he is too lazy to care about this kind of thing. If the eldest brother asks for help, he will do so no matter what. If I ask him to help, he will not be willing."

"He is your elder brother's best friend, but he is not your best friend." Grandma May thought it was normal and not wrong for Josh to refuse to help Evan investigate Fox.

Josh didn't owe Evan anything.

Evan did not work at the York Corporation's headquarters and had no friendship with Josh as a colleague. He was not a close buddy and had no brotherhood. Josh would help if he wanted to, but if he didn't want to, he did not feel sorry for Evan.

"Do you still want Josh to help you with this kind of thing?" Grandma May asked again.

Evan's face turned even redder.

He opened his mouth to say something but didn't know how to refute it, so he ended up eating the kebabs vigorously.

Grandma May laughed and said, "Give you and Abby another two or three months. If you still can't fall in love with Abby, you can tell her clearly. However, if you regret it later and chase your wife to the crematorium, don't cry."

Evan: "Grandma, I haven't seen the scene about chasing my wife at the crematorium. Eldest brother and sister-in-law had some conflicts at that time, but they quickly reconciled. My wife at the crematorium was not intense enough, and the duration was short, not enough to watch."

Grandma May: "Evan, are you going to stage a show of chasing your wife in the crematorium to show grandma?"

Evan: "Grandma, I'm sure I don't love Abby now. If I continue to try with her for another two or three months, she will already have developed a liking for me, which will only intensify my feelings for her. It's harmful. I don't love her, but I don't want to hurt her either. She's nice, a good girl, and I hope she can find a man who is more suitable for her than me."

If he doesn't love it, he won't love it. If he doesn't love her now, he won't love her in the future.

Therefore, chasing his wife in the crematorium could not happen to him and Abby.

Grandma May raised her eyebrows and said, "Didn't she say she wanted fair competition? You didn't even give her this chance? That child is very good. If I were a man, I would like her."

Evan said seriously: "Grandma, the so-called fair competition only comes when the relationship is unstable. When the other person has someone he really likes, no matter how much he loves her or how much he does for her, the other party won't be able to see anything, and they won't be tempted. So, she fought until the end, but what she gained was still pain.

Long-term pain is worse than short-term pain. She should give up now to minimize the harm to herself."
