

Chapter 1885 Background Check On The Idols

Lexi was startled by Janet's question, her smile freezing as she replied, "It does seem a bit strange. However, even though you don't have a lot of work online, the quality is exceptional. Maybe one of these idols is a fan of your work, and we can speak with them to understand their needs. Opportunities like this are rare!"

Feeling parched after speaking so much, Lexi watched as Janet appeared skeptical about the large size of the order.

After a moment of hesitation, Janet said carefully, "I'll need to speak with these clients first before I decide. Don't worry, Lexi. If it's meant for us, it won't escape us. We're just starting, so we must proceed with caution."

Following lunch, Janet got a private message from a man claiming to be the agent of a male idol group. He shared that one of the idols was an admirer of Janet's work and hoped she would take the order.

Janet hesitated over the brief message.

At that point, Lexi couldn't hold back and asked, "Are you really going to pass on this order? With such a big order, the profit alone could handle the studio's water and electricity bills for months. But Lexi understood that Janet had money to spare, yet it pained her to watch the studio spending without making any money in return.

Seeing the concern on Lexi's face, Janet laughed and reassured her, "I haven't said I'll reject the order; I just want to check everything out before signing."

Encouraged that the order might still happen, Lexi's face lit up, and she quickly suggested, "Maybe we could get Sean to help with the investigation."

"Who do you want to investigate?" Brandon, who had just arrived to pick up Janet, entered.

Sean, who had accompanied Brandon, was quick to offer his assistance. "Just let me know who needs investigating, and I'll have all the details ready by the time you start work tomorrow."

Feeling a bit embarrassed, Janet explained, "It's actually just a small order; there's no need to go to such lengths."

Lexi whispered, "But this is the largest order the studio has received this quarter."

With a sigh of acceptance, Janet instructed Sean to look into the background of the idol group's management company.

Sean acted swiftly, immediately sending a message to his team members.

Lexi was determined to close the deal, emphasizing her reminder repeatedly. "Thanks for your assistance. Please ensure you investigate thoroughly."

While driving back, Brandon joked with Janet, "I had no idea Lexi was this eager to work."

Janet smiled and explained, "She's probably so eager because I once mentioned that if the studio doesn't profit within eight months, we might have to shut it down. After I was away for a few months and came back, she seems to be particularly anxious to take on orders to make money."

Brandon sighed, squeezing Janet's hand. "Every time I think of what happened with Locke, it still terrifies me. It feels like they've been through what we have. All I want is for you to be safe and well, Janet. Do you understand?"

Janet moved closer, reassuring him, "Don't worry, we'll be fine."

Brandon looked concerned and said, "But you haven't fully recovered yet. You shouldn't overdo it. Please, don't let Lexi overload you with work; I'm glad you're going to the studio because it improves your mood, which is good for your recovery. But it's not meant for you to stress over making money. We don't need that much money."

Janet glanced at him and said, "How can we not aim to make money? We agreed the studio needs to be profitable to keep going. Do you want me to close the studio and retire in a few months?"

Sensing the sarcasm in Janet's tone, Brandon held her hand tighter and said soothingly, "The agreement was meant to motivate you initially. Now things are different. Your health and happiness are my top priorities. As long as you enjoy it, I'm happy to support the studio, no matter how much it costs each day."
