

Chapter 1156 Do You Dare To Come

Asho lit a cigarette and took a puff. Then he pointed his chin at the commercial on TV and said, "Look, the middle part of the video is obviously low quality. Even the voice doesn't match the scene. The scene here should have been shot from a distance. And this scene isn't any better either. What a joke!"

Hearing Asho's remarks, Trevor smiled and asked, "You mean this commercial is of poor quality?"

Asho smiled and nodded. "Yes. I guess Gerard was urged to do this commercial on short notice. By industry standard, this commercial is no more than the accomplishments of newbies who freshly graduated from college."

Trevor nodded silently and seemed thoughtful for a while. Then he said, "Can we make a commercial that is significantly better than this?"

Asho smiled confidently. "We started shooting our movie a long time ago and we have already prepared a commercial for it. I guarantee you that our commercial will crush theirs!"

Trevor nodded with satisfaction. He trusted Asho on this.

At this moment, a man strode into the filming site.

It was Bingham Juarez, the PR manager of Star Film and Television Company.

Trevor didn't have a good impression of this man. Trevor raised a brow and asked, "What are you doing here?"

Bingham arrogantly handed out an invitation and said, "Levi, Miss Sanderson invites you to our company's financing meeting."

"Are you kidding me?" Trevor couldn't help laughing as he stared at the invitation.

On the back of the invitation, there were a few words written in bold. "Do you dare to come?" It was clear it was a provocation.

"Okay, then I'll go and have a look!" Trevor accepted the invitation with a smile.

He wasn't just going to attend Caitlin's financing meeting, but he was also planning on giving her a big surprise.

On the appointed day, Trevor arrived at the meeting place on time.

Caitlin was waiting at the gate long before the appointed time and she kept looking at the entrance.

When she saw Trevor, her eyes lit up and she walked over aggressively.

She had been waiting for so long just to provoke him!

"Ha-ha, I didn't expect that you would come," Caitlin sneered.

She pointed at the meeting place and bragged proudly, "See that? There were so many wealthy businessmen here, and each of them is worth more than ten million! They are here to invest in my movie! Do you know what a rallying point is? You have no idea how powerful the Sanderson family is."

Trevor smiled and didn't say anything. He just looked at the pretentious Caitlin.

Caitlin's expression became fierce. Gritting her teeth, she stepped forward and said in a fierce voice, "The Sanderson family is so powerful that we can easily bail my father out."

Trevor's expression didn't change at all and he asked with a smile, "Really? I don't think so."

He didn't even bother to explain.

The idea that she could bail out her father who was being held by Klein was a fantasy.

The only way Caitlin would see her father again was if she was sent to jail too.

At this time, a middle-aged man in a light blue shirt came over.

He was Timothy Roberts, a rich businessman who just came back from abroad.

Most of the wealthy businessmen here were on friendly terms with the Sanderson family. Seeing that Caitlin and Trevor had a conflict, Timothy immediately came to support Caitlin.

Squinting at Trevor and with one hand akimbo, Timothy asked, "Miss Sanderson, who is this?"

Caitlin glared at Trevor and said with disdain, "He's the CEO of a movie company that's hostile to our Sanderson family."

Timothy nodded with a smile and said, "Oh, I see. I didn't expect that there would be a fool who would dare to challenge Star Film and Television Company."

Since Timothy had just come back, he didn't know what had happened while he was abroad.

With Timothy by her side, Caitlin's face lit up and she became more arrogant. She looked down upon Trevor, feeling she had won.

With a mysterious smile, Trevor looked at Timothy up and down and said, "Let's wait and see!"

Complacent! Arrogant!

Those were exactly the traits Trevor expected from Caitlin and her guests. The more complacent and arrogant they were, the better the surprise he prepared would be.

As the saying went, "The higher you are, the harder the fall."

Chapter 1157 Comparison Of Publicity Videos

Caitlin's financing meeting started in a tense atmosphere.

However, the guests were quite enthusiastic at the beginning.

"I am ready to invest three million dollars in this film. After the release of the film, we will be entitled to a share of the dividends proportional to the invested capital!"

"How dare you ask for a share of dividends when you only intend to invest three million? I will invest seven million!"

"Hmm... I am ready to invest ten million, as well as finance the marketing and all the post-production."

The businessmen kept outbidding each other over the amounts they were willing to invest.

Caitlin was understandably very happy with how things were going and she smiled brightly.

Judging by how things were going, she was certain that not only would Star Film and Television Company be able to bounce back in no time, but also that she would be able to bail her father out very soon.

"Levi, see that? Whatever your plans are, they mean nothing to me," Caitlin said defiantly to Trevor, a smug smile on her face.

Then she turned around and left, without noticing the faint smile on Trevor's face.

While Caitlin was happily discussing the contract with the businessmen, someone suddenly shouted in the hall, "Oh my God! Look! This commercial just released on the Internet is amazing!"

Everyone suddenly stopped and looked at the man who just spoke.

It was Timothy Roberts!

"Which company is producing this movie? Sky Film and Television Company! How come I have never heard of this company?" Timothy said confusedly as he stared at his phone, his face flushed with excitement.

"What commercial are you talking about? Let me have a look!"

"Oh? Mr. Roberts, what is this unique project you've found? Why don't you share it with us?"

Many businessmen were intrigued and wanted to see what that commercial was that was driving Timothy crazy.

At the mention of Sky Film and Television Company, Caitlin's face changed dramatically. She had a vague feeling that something went wrong.

Sure enough, while she was panicked, Trevor quietly stood up and said calmly, "Hello, everyone. I'm the founder of Sky Film and Television Company. This military film is a project my company is working on. It is in the latest stage of production. We welcome any investment."

At this moment, the crowd burst into an uproar.

Timothy acted like nothing happened between him and Trevor earlier. In fact, he was the first to run up to Trevor and said excitedly, "This gentleman is really promising. At such a young age, he is already accomplishing great things. I made a mistake just now. Please allow me to be the first investor in your film!"

Timothy was the typical businessman who only thought about making a profit. As soon as he found a niche to invest in, he would do whatever he could to invest.

He wouldn't care about anything else.

Making money was the only think that mattered to him.

Timothy didn't care about how Caitlin felt at all. He greeted Trevor warmly.

After watching the commercial in turn, the other businessmen also got excited and rushed to Trevor to inquire about how to invest in it.

It wasn't that they lacked reserve.

The commercial Asho made was just too astonishing. The picturesque scenery, the deep background music, not to mention the incredible acting skills of the actors...

No wonder it completely crushed the commercial released by Caitlin.

Anyone who saw the commercial from Sky Film and Television Company would understand that investing in Trevor's movie was a good deal and they would not lose money at all.

"Levi!" Caitlin roared, glaring at Trevor. She was so furious she almost went crazy.

She had a murderous look in her eyes, as if she wanted to kill Trevor on the spot.

"How dare you mess up my financing meeting? It is my financing meeting! It's mine!"

Caitlin screamed hysterically, stamping her foot angrily like a shrew.

Trevor remained unperturbed and smiled calmly. He took the invitation out of his pocket.

The words "Do you dare to come?" on the cover were conspicuous.

With a faint smile, Trevor asked, "Didn't you invite me here?"

When Caitlin saw the invitation in Trevor's hand, she was so angry that she almost fainted.

Caitlin deeply regretted inviting him. She was the author of her own undoing.

If it weren't for all these rich businessmen who were here with her, she would have slapped herself.

"Mr. Roberts, considering your good friendship with our Sanderson family, you will invest in my movie, right?" Caitlin grabbed Timothy's sleeve and looked at him with a pitiful face.

Timothy avoided her eyes. He looked a little embarrassed and said vaguely, "Oh, yeah, maybe... I have other financial ventures at the moment. I'm willing to invest two hundred thousand dollars to support you."

After saying that, Timothy quietly pulled back his sleeve and ran to Trevor with a big smile. He looked flattering now. He no longer showed any contempt or hostility.

At this moment, Caitlin's face turned pale and her eyes were full of despair. She collapsed in a chair, helpless, and murmured with trembling lips, "It's over... It's all over..."

Chapter 1158 Collapsed Business Empire

The financing meeting was over.

Caitlin slumped in her seat in despair. Her expression contrasted drastically with Trevor's, who was smiling.

If she had known that things would end up like this, she wouldn't have invited Trevor.

She had invited Trevor here to show off in front of him, but all the investors she had brought here today were now going to invest in Trevor's movie.

Caitlin bitterly regretted her decision to invite Trevor and her face went pale.

Seeing Caitlin's downcast face, Trevor straightened his collar and looked at her with a meaningful smile.

With a cold snort, he said indifferently, "Farewell!"

There was no condescension in his tone. However, the simple word struck Caitlin like a thunderclap.

The branch of the Sanderson family in Barlowtown had just collapsed.

Caitlin's desperate all-in gambles and her stupid struggle caused the downfall of Star Film and Television Company. The company couldn't survive any longer and began a downward spiral that would ultimately end in bankruptcy.

The directors, actors and the whole crew could no longer receive their salaries. Back pay was a very bad signal in a company and it didn't take long for staff to go on strike.

Caitlin's strenuous efforts to bring this film to life were ultimately in vain.

Even Timothy didn't give her the two hundred thousand dollars he promised.

Faced with this financial disaster, Star Film and Television Company had to shed a good part of its personnel and even its stars. Trevor wasted no time and recruited many of these stars, which added to the strength of Sky Film and Television Company.

"Why? Why? You can go to any company you want! Why did you all choose Sky Film and Television Company? Why?" Caitlin screamed hysterically in the empty company building.

"Why? Why? Why? Levi, why don't you die?"

She shouted and cried with tears all over her face.

But this time there was no one to help her.

While Caitlin was venting her anger, an attorney from the bank came to the company with some documents.

"Miss Sanderson, your father mortgaged the company's real estate to our bank for a loan. You are behind on your repayments and obviously unable to repay, so we will take the company's real estate as stipulated in the contract and put it up for auction."

Caitlin's face changed dramatically, and she roared like a mad woman, "Impossible! You are lying! You must be sent by Levi! You can't fool me! Get out!"

The attorney frowned. He didn't know who Levi was. He felt that Caitlin was talking nonsense.

He said coldly, "By the way, your father's villa is also mortgaged. If you can't repay in time, we'll take over the villa as well. So I advise you to get ready to move."

Caitlin's face went deadly pale and she collapsed on the floor. Her heart was overwhelmed with despair.

Caitlin could no longer live in any illusion and she had to admit that the business empire her father built was doomed.

The only thing she could do now was to write to Xzavier who was in prison.

"Dad, Star Film and Television Company is doomed..."

When Xzavier received the letter from his daughter, he felt dizzy and his mind went blank.

"Doomed? How could that be? My business empire! How could the company I've worked hard to set up crumble suddenly? No way! I'm the ruler of Barlowtown!"

Xzavier pressed his forehead to the floor and cried bitterly.

"If I didn't choose to be a traitor, maybe it wouldn't have ended up like this..."

Even the prison guards couldn't help but take a few more looks at him.

Xzavier was once the most powerful businessman in the city. But now he was a mere prisoner and all his assets had gone up in smoke.

However, his plight wasn't over yet.

Trevor never showed mercy to his enemies. He wouldn't be content with just destroying Xzavier's company. He called the director of the tax bureau, Malakai.

"Mr. Chadwick, I heard that Star Film and Television Company has gone bankrupt. I think you should check the company's tax records."

Of course, Malakai understood what Trevor meant. When Aeneas was helping Xzavier, Malakai already suspected that Xzavier had tax problems. Now it was a good opportunity to look into his tax records.

Sure enough, after a careful study of Star Film and Television Company's tax records, Malakai found that the company had significant tax evasion.

Since Xzavier had been in prison for a while, Caitlin would be the one to bear responsibility.

After several rounds of tough interrogations, Klein managed to extract damning confessions from Xzavier which allowed Caitlin to be put in prison as well.

With Caitlin and Xzavier in prison and all their property gone up in smoke, the storm in Barlowtown was about to settle.

Nicolas came in person to congratulate Trevor.

"Congratulations! It's a great achievement. Xzavier and his daughter have wielded their in Barlowtown for many years. You did a great job in putting them in jail."

Trevor smiled humbly.

The one who benefited the most from the collapse of Star Film and Television Company was Trevor's Sky Film and Television Company.

He didn't want to dwell on that topic and quickly asked, "Mr. Bowman, I guess you didn't come to me in person just to congratulate me, right?"

Nicolas laughed. "You're smart. Come with me. I'm going to introduce you to the person in charge of Klein."

Trevor's eyes lit up and he nodded.

He followed Nicolas and they went to an abandoned station.

"Isn't this station abandoned?" Trevor looked around. He felt the station desolate.

Nicolas smiled.

But soon, the rails began to shake.

A train came slowly and stopped at this abandoned station.
