

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 511

Add to Library
Sign in

511 CAN WE TALK?

"You can't do that, luna, you will broke us," Eronwhined.

"More so, you will not be able to go out with us,because we are going to a cheap restaurant. It's not a place that you would like to visit," Dyne added.

"Luna, why didn't you tell me that you are able tohear now? I thought we are close," Ethan complained, he still hung up with the fact that Iris kept it secret from him. He started to think what else he had said in her presence when he thought she couldn't hear. Did she hear his complain for the alpha?

Well, sometime Ethan couldn't wrap his head with the alpha's action and chose to grumble in a form of complain, but without Cane's presence.

"Oh, please, drop the subject." Eron elbowed thegamma. "It's a good thing, so stop whining."

Ethan pursed his lips. Eron and Dyne were close with Iris, but Ethan was a constant presence in her day to day time, thus they wouldn't understand his feeling when he knew Iris could hear in such abrupt way.

Seeing the gamma was being dejected because Iris didn't let him know, made the luna tiptoed and whispered to his ear. "Jace has not yet knownabout this too."

In a matter of second, the gloomy cloud on his face cleared up. "Really?" 1

Iris nodded and she could tell that Ethan was feeling better now, knowing Jace was also clueless about it.

"It's okay for us to bring the luna, she needs toknow her own pack, right? More so, all of us will be there, so what are you worrying about?" Ethan said righteously in light mood, which made Dyne and Eron wanted to punch his face because of how fast he changed his tune.

"Are you trying to be on the luna's good side?" Eron frowned. "You two faces, jerk." ( 1

"Do you think the alpha will agree, if the luna went to that part of the pack? There will be a lot of stinky warriors and guards there. It's not appropriate for her to be there," Dyne added.

And with that, Ethan found another people to bicker, while Redmond had been away since Cane sent Sofia to live outside of the pack house.

On the other hand, the other five warriors had this deep furrow between their brows to see the three of them squabbled over something trivial, but what made them even more confused was to see how comfortable the luna was to be among them. She didn't look as timid as they used to perceive her. More so, they could tell that she was teasing them with their stupid bet.

"She is good," Kian said in low voice, as they followed behind the four of them. "She even asked the alpha to release us." 2

"Let's see what she is up to." Asher stared at Iris's back, which she could sense it and turn around to smile softly at them. As if being caught red handed, Asher immediately averted his gaze and because of how surprised they were, none of them reciprocated her smile. 1

More so, they didn't use to joke around or smile aimlessly. 1

Maria felt so frustrated, she had been asking to meet with the alpha regarding Sofia, but her visit was always being rejected. She was denied access to the pack house, even more to be in close proximity with the alpha. 3

The order was clear that she needed to take care of Sofia.

But, what Maria disagreed was; how cold and callous the alpha was to the woman, who was carrying his child. How could he drive her away from the pack house? And only gave one annoying warrior to stand guard for her, while he gave the luna seven of them. 5

"This must be because the luna has instituted it. Alpha Cane that I know is not someone like this. He is a responsible person," Maria said, as she cleaned Sofia's legs, since she was having a hard time to take care of herself due to her pregnancy. 1

On the other hand, Sofia didn't say anything. She didn't try to stop Maria from trying to get justice for her, because she was sent away, neither she intended to tell her that the baby was actually not the alpha's. It seemed, she was still holding onto a hope, the baby was actually Cane's and what he said that night was only to scare her. 1

She refused to believe, the person that she slept with that night was Redmond, instead of the alpha! She believed, the alpha did this because he was infatuated with his mate and rather heartless to an outsider like her.

But at the same time, she couldn't deny this nagging feeling, where she started to doubt her own memory regarding that night...

She couldn't remember the detail, but all she recalled was how satisfied she was and that was the best night ever. 3

"Sofia, don't be angry. You will hurt the baby," Maria said in gentle voice, seeing how Sofia gritted her teeth. "Deliver the baby safely, I am sure, once the alpha saw the baby, his heart will melt to know he becomes a father." 2

"Hm." Sofia lowered her head. She didn't dare to look at Maria in the eyes again. And right at that time, they could hear a commotion from outside, which was something that always happened, whenever Redmond entered the house.

Yes, it was Redmond, who was appointed as the warrior, who would stay by her side.

Actually, Redmond's assignment was as Iris's personal warrior, but his spot had been replaced by seven people and, even though he was grumbling and badmouthing Cane behind his back, he didn't really refuse the new assignment either.

"Maria! You old hag! Come out now!" Redmond screamed from the living room. They could hear a loud thud from there, as the warrior put down something so big and heavy. "How dare you use me to carry this thing!" 2

Meanwhile, Maria looked fed up by Redmond's antic, as she stormed out of the bedroom and started to reprimand him. "This is for the baby! Where do you think the baby will sleep when they are born?! You dimwit!"

"You should ask someone else to carry it! Not me!" Redmond glared at her, which made the old woman flinch, she was scared, but stubborn to not back down.

"You are here because the alpha told you to take care of his pregnant woman!"

"I am here, because I need to keep my eyes on her, it's a different thing! More so, didn't it occur to you, the alpha has rejected her by sending her away, until when you are going to deny this fact? I thought, you are only stupid, but apparently you are retarded." 5

Maria scoffed. "The alpha will regret his decision once the baby is born." 1

"Or maybe you are the one, who will regret it," Redmond mocked Maria, but his eyes fixed on Sofia, who was lying on the bed and watching the fight, she immediately averted her eyes.

Sofia had been stringing Maria along with her hopeless prayer that the baby was the alpha's.

"Now, help me to arrange the crib."

"Do it, yourself. I am not your maid."

After saying that, Redmond stormed out of the house, leaving Maria, who was cursing at him to no end.

Iris was joking and being playful with Ethan, Eron and Dyne, as they headed toward the dining hall. After a long day, they were starving and felt like they could gobble up the entire meal, especially those warriors, who had been spent their time in the dungeon.

The night was so quiet and the sadness from losing so many pack members still hung in the air, but with everything that happened and the predicament of their situation had not yet completely gone, they managed to go through the day by busying themselves with a lot of things.

Especially when the pack had to be rebuilt again, since there were so many buildings being destroyed during the attack.

They handled the mourning period well, if you could say it into words, probably because they had lost so many people before, though it would never be easy.

When the nine of them were about to turn at the corner, Iris saw someone that she almost forgot that was actually there. 1

It was Nala. 1

She was standing at the side, staring at Iris, as if wanting to speak with her, but because Iris was not sure what to do, she pretended not to see her.

However, Nala blocked their way, by standing in front of them. 1

"What do you want?" Eron asked, he frowned. He had never liked this woman, ever since she had been trying to seduce the alpha.

"I want to talk with her," Nala said with her clear voice. She looked pale and skinnier. Even though she still looked beautiful, but you could tell there was something dimmed inside of her. She was not as bright as before. "Her?" Dyne frowned. "You are in Howling Wolfpack, show some respect to the luna of the pack."

Nala gritted her teeth, her pride self wouldn't allow her to address Iris as someone above her station, but then her pride wouldn't make her to be able to survive.

"Luna Iris, can I have your time? There is something I want to talk about with you," Nala said in more polite tone, she tried her best to hold back her tears and anger.

"What do you want to talk about?"

"Can we talk just the two of us?"

"No," Iris replied firmly. 4

Send me proof of highest tier purchase via Instagram and I'll send you a mini comic. Every month there will be a new mini comic for the highest tier buyers.

Next Chapter

Previous

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 512

512 DISRUPTION

Iris didn't want to talk with her alone not because she was afraid, Nala would do something horrible to her, since she used to have this kind of attention whenever she was close to her, but because Iris didn't think there was something for them to talk about.

She knew, Nala was not in a good situation, since she lost her father during the attack and now she was so far away from her home, from the people she knew and was surrounded by the pack member, who didn't care much about her.

The king had gone and no matter how horrible it sounded, but without the king, she was nothing. The respect she got due to the fact she was some sort of the king favored woman, though she couldn't be called as his mistress.

Iris sympathized with her predicament, but she didn't want to have anything to do with her. She had stayed invisible until now, thus she wanted it to stay that way. She couldn't care less about how she was going to survive in this pack.

More so, Iris was so hungry. The new concoction that Grace gave to her after she passed out, made her wanted to eat more and more, which made her gained more fat.

"Please, luna. This is important." Nala bit her lip nervously, she tried to avoid the piercing gazes from the warriors and only focused on Iris.

"I don't think there is anything important between us, Nala."

Nala clenched her jaw tightly, she looked like, either she was going to cry or lash out, but surprisingly, when she spoke her voice was calm enough. "If I can't talk with you, I am going to talk to the alpha."

It was a mystery how Nala's mind was working to think this kind of threat would work on Iris, especially now when she was sure with Cane's feeling to ward her.

Iris's eyes dimmed when she heard that. She really wanted to squeeze that wolf spirit on Nala, so she wouldn't be an eyesore for her. Actually, it surprised Iris that she even entertained the thought of it. She was not sure, since when she became a violence.

However, Iris knew better not to lose her temper, because that was the reaction Nala wanted from her.

Instead, Iris was smiling gently, which looked so eerie after such provocation. "Good luck," she said simply and then walked away. 4

Ethan laughed and followed his luna, he gave two thumbs up to her for her cool way to handle the situation. 1

If even Maria couldn't get a chance to see Cane, even more Nala. Iris was sure, just like her, Cane must have forgotten about her existence, since she didn't bring any benefit with her.

Nala didn't come from a stand out family and the only respected figure in her family was her father, which now had died, thus without a man in power in her life, she was nothing.

It was disgusting thing to say, but that was the truth that woman's status was based on the man in their life and now, when Nala had no one, she was nothing. 1

The other five warriors looked at each other and then glanced at Nala, but they didn't give a second thought, as they followed their luna.

It was only Kian, who checked on Nala, as he glanced at her over his shoulder and saw she was crying silently. 1

The dinner was lively, even though the food was not as scrumptious as usual, since their storage had been destroyed and they needed to get more supplies, there were a lot to take care of after the attack.

Thankfully, they didn't need to be bothered by the royal family, or other schemes from the king, since he had died and there was literally a war in the capital city.

This was why Cane sent Koda over to claim the throne and create distraction from his pack. Let the old man did what he was good at, while Cane gained the benefit for his pack.

However, the said alpha, who had driven away potential trouble from his pack, seemingly couldn't get his mate away from his own warrior, as Iris kept chatting with Ethan, Eron and Dyne. It was annoying because she literally had her back against Cane, while laughing happily with whatever Ethan said.

Cane leaned his head and played with her hair, which made all the warriors there stole a glance or two or three, as they were being distracted by the way their alpha stared at his luna.

Their alpha only played with their luna's hair, but why his eyes looked like he was going to devour her? 3

Cane ignored their curious and dumbstruck gazes, as he leaned his head against his hand lazily with the support of the armrest. He pulled her hair lightly to get her attention.

Feeling the pull on her hair, Iris turned around to look at him. "Hm?" She gave him a questioning look, but Cane simply shook his head.

Thinking, Cane only accidentally pulled her hair because he was playing with it, Iris didn't pay any mind and continue to chat with Ethan and the other.

But, not long after that, Cane 'accidentally' pulled Iris hair again and he would shake his head whenever Iris turned around to give him a questioning look.( 1

And it happened two more times until Jace, who was sitting next to Cane, realized how dark the alpha's expression was. He tried to elbow Ethan to stop talking with Iris, but unfortunately, the gamma chose this time to be so dumb. 2

"And you know, there is this royal guards, who is so stupid and I manage to get all of his money!"

Iris just learned now that the gamma loved to bet and gamble, which was not a good habit, but it seemed, Ethan only did that for fun not for an addiction.

Once again, Iris felt the pull on her hair and turned her head with a crease between her brows. "What happened?" Iris asked and Cane shook his head, but this time, he spoke a word.

"Tired."

Only then Iris realized, Cane didn't eat anything and his plate was still full with food. "Why don't you eat?" 2

"Tired," Cane repeated the same thing.

Iris knew Cane had been up so early every morning and would go to sleep for only two to three hours. It was insane for him to still be able to function normally. Therefore, it was not a surprise that he was so tired from all of those crazy routine.

"You need to eat more before going to sleep," Iris said with concern so thick in her voice.

"No, there is still a lot of things for me to do. I will go to sleep later."

Iris frowned even more, almost looked like it would be a permanent thing on her face, thus Cane stretched out his hand to smoothen the crease between her brows.

"Don't worry."

"How could I not worry?" Iris looked frustrated now, she took the fork and stabbed the meat, she brought it close to Cane's lips. "Eat."

There was this mirth danced in Cane's eyes to see Iris's expression, but he maintained his facial expression. "I will eat later. I think I need to go to work."

"No. You need to eat first." Iris didn't want to see Cane fell sick, though it was a rare case for a shifter to fall sick.

"I will finish some..." Cane didn't get to finish his word when Iris pushed the meat into his mouth.

"Eat," she said sternly. Cane always emphasized the importance of eating, but he himself, neglected that. He also wouldn't be Happy if Iris didn't eat much and now, she could understand his frustration with her for refusing to eat. 1

Meanwhile, Iris was too focus on feeding Cane, she didn't realize, nor she notice how the warriors and the servants around them gasped to see the way she shoved the food down to their alpha's throat. It was a bold move! 1

They didn't expect this from her. Their alpha wouldn't be too happy for being disrespected like that, right?

However, the said alpha seemingly fine with the way his mate 'disrespected' him in front of his people, as he finally got her attention.

Probably, among all the people, it was only Amee, who actually smiled to see such scene. She had been there, ever since Cane was a babe, thus she knew a little bit more thing that other didn't. It was not that Cane had changed to be more affectionate because of Iris, but it was only him, who slowly returned to his old self. 1

After all, Cane was pretty mischievous when he was little. 1

But, the joy for having his mate's attention didn't last for long, because right after Cane finished the third meat that Iris fed him, Lou opened the door and walked into the dining hall with his big fluffy bear, which looked so lazy to carry its big ass. 3

"Cane! How dare you to ask me to look for this nasty creature!" Lou shouted at Cane, as he strode into the dining hall, he glared viciously at the alpha, while raising the little lizard by its tail. He pinched the poor creature and let its body flailed in the air. Haco had carried the little creature to the mountain when they tried to find Cane and Iris, but he lost it during the fight.

"Here, your lizard!" Lou tossed the lizard toward Cane angrily, but his expression change in a split second when he saw Iris was there. 4

Send me proof of highest tier purchase via Instagram and I'll send you a mini comic. Every month there will be a new mini comic for the highest tier buyers.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 513

513 THE NIGHT FOR THEM

"Hi, Iris! It has been a while since I saw you!" Lou said excitedly and became overly chummy, waving his hands without even bothered by the sharp glares the warriors threw at him for being so disrespectful by greeting their luna inappropriately. "Finally we meet again!" Lou tilted his head. "You look chubbier!" 5

Lou strode inside the dining hall and stared at the food. It was not to his taste, but it was better than anything he had eaten in the last three days.

When he went to the Goffa mountain in search for Cane and Iris, apparently, the alpha managed to return, but then when he was about to go back to the pack, Cane had, maliciously, ordered him to start building the magical device around the pack.

It would take him weeks, before he could go back to the pack house and meet with Iris.

Lou was so mad until he got the second order to find the lizard and give the creature to the guards, so he didn't need to go to the pack house. Of course, Lou wouldn't want to do that and deliver the lizard on his own.

"Chu- Chubbier...?" Iris pursed her lips. Probably the merchant meant it as a compliment, but you shouldn't talk about weight with woman, especially in front of so many people. 3 Meanwhile, Cane caught the lizard mid air and stared at the little creature, which looked so dirty and in poor state. He then put it down on his plate, which made Iris shrieked, she forgot about Lou's comment of how she became a little bit fat.

"Oh! I am so hungry! I am starving in the mountain! Iris, can you believe..." Lou didn't manage to finish his words when Iris's attention was clearly not on him.

She had other priority.

"Cane, don't put it in your plate!" But, it was too late and she was about to get the poor lizard and asked for another meat for Cane, but her mate simply took her hand and stood up. "Where are you going? You have not finished eating yet." Iris stood up from her seat, because Cane pulled her hand to go with him. 1

Cane leaned over, almost like he was going to kiss her neck, though he only whispered to her ear. His hand wrapped around her hips and the other on the back of her neck. "I told you that I am going to take you somewhere, let's go now." 2

All the warrior's jaw dropped to see their assertive alpha stood so close, very close to his mate, as if they were going to do something... or maybe it was only their mind, which didn't work so well and led them into different direction.

The corner of Jace and Ethan's lips twitched. If he only wanted to talk with Iris, he didn't need to make such va gue gesture, right? 1

But then, their attention shifted back to the merchant, who was fuming mad.

"Where are you two going? I just arrived and you already want to go?!" Lou was frustrated, but Ethan grabbed his hand and forced him to sit down next to him.

"Come here, my friend. Let's talk. It has been awhile since we meet with each other!" He said cheerfully, but he didn't let go of Lou's hand, so the merchant wouldn't be able to follow the alpha.

Lou narrowed his eyes at Ethan. "Do I know you?" 2

Ethan was speechless, this merchant was really shameless. There was no way he didn't know him, unless he lost all of his memories, which was very unlikely.

"It's so rare for someone to forget about me, unless there is something not working here." Ethan pointed his head. "Or, you only want to hear the stories about how awesome I am?" 2

Lou grimaced. "No, thanks. The only awesome person that I know is myself." 1

Jace almost choked on his drink when he heard that. He thought Ethan and Redmond were already very shameless, but this merchant brought the bar into another level. 1 Unfortunately, the moment Lou managed to get away from Ethan, Cane and Iris had long gone and he was not a shifter, who could sniff where they had gone and none of them would tell him.

"Damn it!" Lou grumbled. He kicked the pebble in the yard and startled when someone approached him, a figure emerged from the dark. "Ms. Dmitri, what are you doing there?!" Lou patted his chest, surprised by her presence.

"Sir, long time no see," Nala said in small and gentle voice. She approached the merchant in such a way that made him narrow his eyes. This woman gave off a strange vibe. "I am glad to be able to see you here."

"Well... yeah, me too." Lou was not sure what to say, thus he kept it polite when he talked with Nala. "Is there anything that I can help you with?"

"Actually, yes... I want to ask a favor from you." Nala fiddled with her fingers. She tried to articulate what she wanted and appeared like a vulnerable woman that needed a protection.

If it was someone else, they would have this urge to comfort her, since she looked like a little, weak wolf and you wanted to act as her shield.

However, Lou had seen this trick countless time and had been fed up.

"Sir..." Nala started. They didn't meet often when they were in the capital city, thus to start this conversation was a little bit awkward. "You can just call me Lou. Tell me what you want. I don't really like to beat around the bush. I am pretty busy now." Lou was a little bit annoyed because he lost his chance to see Iris, thus he didn't want to mingle in this meaningless conversation.

"Lou." Nala's face was lit up when Lou asked to drop the formalities between them.

"Yes?"

"You can call me Nala."

"Okay. Nala." And then Lou turned around, was about to leave, which made Nala surprised and caught his hand to stop him from leaving. "What?"

"Why are you leaving? I have not yet told you what I want to talk about."

Lou narrowed his eyes. "I thought you want me to call your name."

Hearing that, Nala was speechless. She was not sure whether this merchant pretended to be a fool or he was literally dumb.

"No. No. That's not what I want." Nala immediately shook her head, trying to compose herself so she wouldn't insult her potential benefactor.

"So, what do you want?" Lou looked annoyed now, especially when Nala didn't let go of his hand. "I- I want to ask for a favor."

"Hm. You said that before."

"Could you... would you mind to take me under your wings? Can you take me to be your people?" Nala cut to the main point, since Lou didn't seem to have any patient for a long conversation. "I have no one and I am so far away from home, I don't know this place and because of the dispute between the alpha and the king, I don't think the people in this pack like it for me to be here. Can you help me, Lou?"

Lou raised his brows once Nala said her piece. "You want to be my people?" he repeated the words and Nala nodded. "What you can do for me?"

Nala licked her lips. "I can do anything for you. I will help you with anything..." she said in seductive voice. There was no one there and it was only the two of them and Lou was not a fool, who didn't know what she meant.

"Anything?" Lou raised his brows, the corner of his lips moved upward, as he smirked. "Are you sure, you will do anything for me?"

"Yes." Nala's voice was akin to a whisper now when she moved closer to Lou and pressed herself against him.

The merchant rolled his eyes with this attempt, but he didn't move away, as he watched what Nala was going to do over to him. "Like what?"

Nala pulled his hand that was still in her grip and placed it over her chest. "Why don't we start with this?"

"Interesting," Lou mumbled. 1

Hanna had been taking care of Will this past few days and the alpha was kind enough to let him out of duty for as long as he needed, Iris also didn't call for her when she learned Hanna was with Will, which she was grateful for.

Right now, Will was sleeping, it was very concerning when he slept throughout the night, morning and afternoon. He would only wake up when Hanna reminded him to eat something, but even so, he looked like he was going to sleep again when he was eating.

This condition really concerned her.

However, Will could only fall asleep when Hanna was inside the room, because the moment she stepped out for long, he would wake up and look for her.

He said her scent calmed him down, which made him able to sleep longer, but Hanna didn't want that, it was not normal to sleep for hours every day.

"Will... you need to eat something," Hanna said, she shook his body to wake him up. "Will, wake up for a while and eat, okay?"

Will opened his eyes slowly and looked around until he found her face. "Will you leave me?"

"What?" Hanna was confused with this sudden question. "Did you have a nightmare?"

"I dreamed that you left me," he said in hoarse voice.

"I am not going anywhere, Will."

"You left me because I slept with someone else..." Will said in small voice, he looked so scared.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 514

514 THE NIGHT FOR THEM(2)

"You left me because I slept with another woman..." Will said in a whisper, his face showed the horror he felt. His eyes dilated in fear and the sight of him squeezed Hanna's heart.

"Oh, Will..." Hanna wanted to blurt out that she knew what happened to him and that was not his fault, but she was afraid, he would go spiral even more, since he guarded his secret so tight and didn't let anyone to know about it, not only the gamma, which she considered the two of them were so close. "You will never do that..."

Will grabbed both of her hands and squeezed them tightly. "What if?"

"Will..." You didn't sleep with another woman, you were being assaulted and that was not your fault. That was what Hanna wanted to say, she couldn't comprehend how Will saw the event in that light. "Maybe... maybe you didn't sleep with the other woman... maybe she forced herself on you..."

Hanna said that very carefully, her heart beat so loud against her chest, which made it so hurt, especially when she saw the horror in his eyes condensed even more. Hanna squeezed his hands, in her desperate attempt to get him back to her, before he fell even more into his dark thought. "You will never do that to me, Will. You are not a person like that. That woman must have forced herself on you."

Will pulled his hands from her grip and Hanna felt this pang in her heart. She felt they didn't make any progress.

"I am a free man. I am not a slave. No one should have been able to force themselves on me."

And there, Hanna got the answer she wanted. That was how Will idealized a free person, once they could get away from the slavery and as a man, unless they were slave, who must follow their master's order, there was no way a woman would be able to force themselves on him.

He was a warrior after all. He could fight any woman.

"Will..." Hanna tried to wreck her brain to think the solution about how to salvage the situation because she could see how Will tried to withdraw from her even more. "If that happened and you didn't mean it in that way... we can work things out. As long as you promise not to hide anything from me."

"Really?" Will stared at Hanna for so long.

"Yes." Hanna immediately nodded. "I want you to trust me and be comfortable enough to be honest with me if something like that happened."

There was silence fell into the room, the night was so dark, as if you couldn't see the light from the window nearby, but the room was no different, though the luminous pearls hang at the corner.

"I am hungry," Will said in small voice and Hanna breathed in relief, as she smiled gently at him.

It would be a long way for both of them, but Hanna promised to herself that she would be in every step of it.

"Sure, let's eat. You have slept for hours. I miss you." 1

"Where are we going?" Iris asked, she looked around, as they entered the Goffa mountain again, but from different route.

"You have been there before, we only take a longer route."

The mountain was exceptionally quiet and she was worried, there would be a monster came out of nowhere. But, instead of going deeper into the mountain, they actually circled the foot of it.

"The pack tomb?" Iris asked. She had been therebefore and indeed that place was located on the foot of the mountain and it seemed, the location was free from monsters, since the tomb had been there for years and there had never been a single monster attack.

"Yes." Cane caressed her head.

"That's the place you want to show me?" Iristhought, he would take her to somewhere she had never been before, though she was not going to complain if he wanted to see his family.

Cane smiled he kissed her head. "I am going to visit the tomb for a while, but that's not the place that I want to show you."

"Oh, okay." Now, Iris started to wonder whereCane would take her. He was being secretive again, which was not good for her curiosity. "No one guard this place?"

Iris remembered there was this young warrior, who guarded this place when they were here,

"I dismissed them. They are more needed in thepack."

After the attack and rebuilding the pack, they needed all the people that they could find to help with it, more so, Lou had been working on his magical device, which included the area of the tomb, though this part had never been visited by the monsters.

This tomb was the same like when the first time they had been here, almost a year ago, she felt like time flew so fast and how different things were right now.

"But, we don't bring anything..." Iris said whenthey walked down the stairs that led them into the altar of Cane's family. "I remember the young warrior handed us pouches with silver coin inside."Meanwhile, Cane lit up all the torches all the way down, so it was pretty bright inside.

Cane didn't mean to come to visit the tomb tonight, thus he didn't come prepared, but the sight of Lou, simply irritated him, he didn't think twice and only had an intention to get out of the dining room with his mate.

Therefore, why not sped up his plan. After all, he would take Iris to this trip at some point before they left the Howling Wolf pack to visit Silver River pack and Diandem pack.

"It's okay." Cane didn't really believe with that kind of ritual, he only followed because of the tradition. No matter how many coins that he offered, there was no guarantee it would help them in the afterlife. What kind of place the afterlife was, no one could answer that for sure.

They finally arrived at the tombs of Cane's parent, where their names engraved on their respective stone. Josh Desgar Nortern and Crystal Nortern.

This underground room was so quiet and serenity befell on them, as Iris slowed down her steps and stood behind Cane, as he paid his respect to ward his parent.

Iris didn't say anything and stood there for long, as Cane stared at his father's grave and started to speak in a very low voice, as if he talked to himself instead. If Iris still was not able to hear, she wouldn't have the chance to know what he was saying at this moment, even so Iris was still having a hard time to hear the whole sentence, since Cane talked almost like a whisper.

"...You are so wrong about Kellan, father. He did not deserve the throne." Cane paused and took a step closer. "You used to tell me to stay away from the power struggle in the palace, that's why you make mother stepped down from her title as the princess, but I will take the throne, because that's the only way for our people to be able to live free of threat. That's the only way how my mate and I will be able to survive." 3

Cane wouldn't let anything happen to Iris like what happened to Leane. He would be doomed, if he failed his mate for the second time. It was unacceptable.

Maybe Koda would survive and manage to claim the throne, or maybe the royal family won the war, but whoever sat there, they would see Cane as a threat once the situation was calm enough and the next king saw the power he held. His bloodline would always be a problem and Koda, just like alpha Dristan, only tied with him because of the benefit they shared together.

"You may not be proud of the path that I chose and my way to survive, but it's proven your soft and rightful way was not working in this chaotic world and I will not walk down that path, father. I hope you understand." There was more silence after that and Cane stood there for so long before he moved to his mother's tomb and talk a few things before he moved to ward Leane's tomb. There were another three small stones there.

This time, Cane took Iris hand to stand beside him, as if he was introducing Iris for the first time, but he said nothing. His eyes dimmed, as he raised Iris's hand and kissed the back of her hand, before he took her out of there.

He had finished his pray for Leane and no one would know what he said to his late mate, except for himself.

Iris looked over her shoulder at the tomb. 'I will keep my promise.' 1

This time, Cane really took her to the place that he wanted her to see... his mood became a little bit lighter and he kissed her forehead.( 1

"Thank you," he said softly, though she was not sure what he thanked her for. 3

Lou took Nala to his bedroom, since the woman was so eager to prove her 'anything' to him, but he raised his brows when he saw a deep cut on top of her left breast when Nala undressed herself.

The look on the merchant's eyes made her self-conscious, as she tried to cover the scar with her hair

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free,Chapter 515

515 THE NIGHT FOR THEM (3)

"Well... that's a turn off." Lou touched his chin, as he stared at the naked woman before his eyes for a while and then went straight to the bed, seemingly all the mood had gone and this made Nala panicked, because she was afraid, she would lose to get this merchant on her side. 2

She suppressed the feeling of humiliation that dreaded her, she became self conscious right now to see Lou's reaction.

Before this, she would always have a man to shield her and they were willing to do that because they wanted her body, thus Nala knew, her greatest strength was her beauty. 1

In this lifetime, being beautiful was the greatest benefit that woman could have. You could get all the privilege that the ugly one could only dream of, but it came as a blessing and a curse at the same time.

However, the king had ruined Nala to the point another man saw her naked body in disgust and this was something that never happened before. They used to worship her and tell her how she was a beautiful creature.

"W- we can do it from behind, so you don't need to see my scar..." Nala tried to persuade Lou, but the merchant only closed his eyes when she approached him, which shattered her selfconfidence even more. Was the sight of her really disgusted him?

"Nah. Let's do it another time. I am not in the mood right now." And after saying that, Lou turned his body, so his back was facing Nala and this hurt her even more.

Her pride was crushed. She, the woman, who always flaunted her beauty, now had a man gave his back against her because he couldn't stand the sight of her.

"O- okay..." Nala held back her tears and put on her dress again.

"Close the door when you left." 2

That was only another stab in her heart when Lou spoke again. This merchant was truly heartless to his bone when he chose not to care. 1

Redmond returned so late at night, he was so damn tired and wanted to go straight to the sofa, where he used to sleep. Damn this woman to not allow him to sleep on the bed when it was spacious enough for both of them.

However, when Redmond was about to lay down, he heard a soft whimper from inside the bedroom. 1

At first, he tried to ignore it, thinking probably Sofia had another breakdown and was crying_ again right now. The sight of her crying was not a new thing for Redmond, because he had seen that a few times before, thus he intended to mind his own business.

Yet, though it was faint, he knew this cry was so different from the other night. He was not sure what was so different, but instead of falling asleep and mind his own business like he intended to do, Redmond felt restless and couldn't sleep no matter how hard he tried.

"Oh, damn it! I must be cursed for having this life!" Redmond grumbled and cursed under his breath, as he pushed himself off the bed and strode toward the bedroom. He slammed the door open in annoyance. "Can you keep it down, please? There is a poor man here, who need his goodnight sleep! I am going to die if I don't get my sleep, you know!"

But, Sofia only glanced at him over her shoulder with her back faced him. Her eyes were swollen, as she curled herself into a ball and whimpered again.

This was weird, because usually Sofia would shout back at Redmond and both of them would tangle in a cursing competition against one another, until Redmond walked away and decided to sleep somewhere else.

Yet, Sofia kept whimpering and didn't mind him at all. "What happened?" Redmond toned down his voice and walked over to check on her. His anger subsided significantly when he sensed there was something wrong with this woman. 1

"My foot..." Sofia whimpered, her face contorted in pain and this made Redmond felt a little bit worried.

"Your foot? What happened with your foot?" Redmond immediately pulled away the blanket that covered her and saw Sofia was trying to reach her leg, but because she was heavily pregnant, her stomach didn't allow her to bend her body to touch her leg.

"Cramp..." Sofia wept, still trying to reach down to her leg. 1

Hearing that, Redmond immediately sat down on the edge of the bed. "Which feet?" he stared at her feet that was covered under her long dress. 1

"Left..."

Redmond grabbed her left foot and pulled up her dress to get a better look of it. "How can you have a big foot like this?!" he was surprised to see how big her foot became. "What is it? Your feet are also pregnant?" 7

If Sofia was not in pain, she would have given him her piece of mind, but unfortunately, she couldn't do that when she was in so much pain right now and Redmond could help to alleviate the pain, or so she thought...

"It hurt..." Sofia cried softly. She closed her eyes, so the sight of Redmond touching her wouldn't upset her, but she started to scream when Redmond put pressure on her left foot. "Argh! Are you going to break my leg?!"

Redmond immediately stopped surprised that it caused her so much pain. "Hey! I am trying to help you, okay! Be nice!"

"It hurt! You are going to break my leg!"

"Great point. I have done that countless times before, it will not be my first."

Sofia opened her eyes immediately when she heard that, she didn't know what Redmond meant with that, but she had this dreadful feeling, this man could be crazy enough to do that to her, sensing how much he hated to stuck with her because of the baby.

Sofia was half way to accept that Redmond was the baby's father and not alpha Cane, subconsciously, because of the detail that Redmond could recall from that night they were together.

"Get out!" Sofia screamed, but Redmond didn't oblige, instead he took her foot again, but this time, he tried to be as gentle as possible and massaged it clumsily.

"Damn it! I am tired, I want to get a massage too," Redmond couldn't stop grumbling, but he didn't stop massaging her feet gently and recklessly.

Meanwhile, Sofia started to feel better with the way Redmond put pressure on her cramped feet.

"Why your feet so swollen like this? All the pregnant women like this?" Redmond asked, after he finished with his grumbling. It surprised him to see such big feet. "Did you eat or step on something strange?"

Sofia opened her eyes again and looked at Redmond, who was staring at her feet with this funny look on his face. It seemed, he genuinely wanted to know. "Maria said it's normal for a pregnant woman to get their feet swollen like this. I only need to apply the oil that she had concocted to make the swollen not look so bad."

"But, they look so bad, like feet of monsters, only less hairy." 6

Sofia really wanted to put her feet into Redmond's mouth for his comment. "Have you ever said something nice even for once in your entire life?" 1

"Being too nice will get you killed in this world, woman. You know that, don't be ridiculous."

Yes, Sofia knew that. There was no place for kindness in this cruel world, especially in her previous life in alpha Gallot's pack. If you were not shrewd enough, you would be replaced in a blink of an eye. A mistress was a disposable thing and if it was not for her beauty and youthful body, alpha Gallot must have forgotten about her, as she swamped in the pack house that filled with dozens of women.

"Damn. Don't ever talk about this to anyone, understood?" Redmond glared at Sofia. "This is so embarrassing. No man should massage a woman's feet," he grumbled, but conveniently forgot that Cane did this to Iris when she was sick, or the way he treated his mate.

"You can stop now if you don't want to do it!" Sofia snapped.

"Just shut your mouth," Redmond grumbled, but he kept massaging her feet.

"I am hungry..."

"I am not going to get anything for you! Do you think I am your maid!?" 3

Cane took Iris to a beautiful place near the pack tomb, it was the upper course of the river, the same river that winding down to the Howling Wolf pack.

The river looked so beautiful and the sound of it was better than the sound of the waterfall. It was not as noisy as that, in fact, the sound of it was so calming.

Suddenly, Cane dropped to his knees with his back faced her. "Climb on."

"Hm?" Iris tilted her head, didn't understand that.

12:09 "We will cross the river, you will get your dress wet."

"Oh." Iris hopped on his back and hugged his neck, while resting her chin on his shoulder. "But, you will get your pants wet then."

"I will simply take it off later." 1

Iris frowned. She felt like there was an underlying meaning behind his words, but she couldn't tell what it was, since Cane's expression remained the same. Did he just tease her? Or maybe it was only her, who was thinking too much.

3

After Cane secured her on his back, he started to walk through the river. The night was warm enough, thus the water was not really cold.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 516

516 UNDER THE MOONLIGHT 1

"Where will you take me?" Iris asked, she was comfortable enough to cling on Cane's back even though they had crossed the river long ago.

Because Cane didn't put her down, thus she didn't want to be put down. It was great because she didn't need to walk and even more when she had a reasonable reason to hug him like this.

They didn't go deeper into the mountain, it seemed, Cane took her to the other part of this Goffa mountain, only now did she realize how big it is, as it stretched between the two packs, the Howling Wolf pack and the Blue Moon pack.

They walked in the clearing and the grass looked so soft and comfortable enough to walk in barefoot, still, it didn't tempt Iris to get down from Cane's back.

"Somewhere. I hope you will love it."

Iris wanted to say that she would love to be anywhere with Cane, but she refrained herself from saying that out loud, because of how cheesy it sounded. In the end, she enjoyed the sight before her eyes. 1

The trees line up around this clearing area, while the night sky looked so bright with the pale moonlight that illuminated their path, unfortunately, there was not many stars above them. The wind was not cold and Iris really enjoyed this walk with Cane, or she could say it was Cane, who was walking with her on his back.

And after half an hour walking in silence, the silence that fulfilled them, where they didn't need to have the obligation to speak, since the presence of each other was already enough to fill the void in their heart and give comfort to their troubled minds and all the problems they had to face sooner or later.

The only important thing they had right now was each other. They only wanted to be in each other's presence at this very moment.

"I found this place when I stayed in the mountain long enough years ago."

Iris understood what exactly the moment Cane meant, it must be the time when her father sent many people to the mountain, but they gave those shifters Rottingbane beforehand, so they wouldn't be able to shift into their beast to protect themselves from the monsters. They needed to bring back one monster within three days, or else their loved one would be killed.

Only a handful returned, while the other member of the Howling Wolf pack died in some part of this mountain or was killed in their attempt to bring back the dead monster to save their loved one from Gerald's cruelty.

And every time, Cane would be able to return. Shivers ran down Iris's spine when she realized that Cane could have died during that time, while her father would torture him, but he wouldn't kill him.

However, setting him off to the mountain without being able to shift into his beast to defend himself was a dangerous gamble, unfortunately, her father and brother loved that game. Something completely wrong could happen to him at that time and she wouldn't be able to have a chance to love him. 2

Feeling how Iris's mood dampened because of what he said, Cane put her down and kissed the tip of her nose. "Don't think too much." Cane didn't say it to make her uncomfortable and sad, he only stated the fact. "This is my favorite place whenever I am here. I am sure nobody knows about this place." ( 1

"What is it?" Iris lifted her head, she still looked sad, but there was a glint of curiosity in her blue eyes.

"Come here." Cane took her hand and both of them climbed the hill.

"You shouldn't have put me down," Iris mumbled, she was trying to keep up with Cane, while the alpha looked so easy even after he carried her halfway here.

Cane chuckled when he heard that. "You need to get a little bit exercise." "My feet are not as long as you..." Iris complained, she started panting now, but Cane didn't want to carry her again. 1

"It's good for you to warm up."

Iris pursed her lips, but she didn't say anything anymore, she needed to save her breath and strength, as she followed him.

Once they reached the top of the hill, Iris gasped in fascination to watch the sight at the other side of the hill that she climbed. Just like what Cane said, it was worth it.

"What... how there can be a place like this?!" Iris exclaimed, the scenery was so breathtaking, it took her breath away.

"I have the same question too," Cane said softly, as he grabbed her hand and helped her to get down the hill, which Iris did that without any complain, since she was enjoying the sight of the place Cane showed her.

"Cane, this place is so amazing..." Iris breathed the words.

"Hm. It's amazing indeed." Cane stared at Iris when he said those words. 2

This part of the mountain was a spacious clearing, where the grass grew in white color, as if it was snow and the trees covered with moss in blue color, which glittered under the moonlight, while the flowers were the color of black. Iris had never seen such flower before. It looked ominously beautiful. The flower almost looked like they were saying; they could stare at them, but they couldn't touch them, since they didn't know whether the flower was poisonous or not.

But what made Iris flabbergasted was the lake, the lake was a clear blue. The water looked so clear, you could see the bottom of it. Iris stood on the edge and watched the colorful stones on the bottom of the lake.

"Careful," Cane warned her, he put his hand around her hips protectively, he knew his mate could be clumsy and he didn't want her to get wet, at least, not now... 2

"How can you find this place?" Iris's face was sore, as she was smiling. "This place is magical." She stared at the white grass and squatted down to pick it up. It felt so soft, the texture was different from the normal grass, it almost like a fur instead, laying down there would feel like you were on the bed.

"I don't know, I found it by accident," Cane replied. He stared at his mate, who looked so happy to see this place. "I am glad you like this place too."

"I love it!" Iris stood up and tiptoed to kiss Cane on the lips, but because she couldn't reach him and Cane was being a tease to not bend his body, thus Iris could only kiss his shoulder. She pursed her lips, but it didn't dampen her mood, as she ran around this place to see the flowers, the strange blue moss on the trees and found colorful stones, which exuded yellow light from its cracks.

"Don't you think the blue moss is the same color like the lake? Don't you think the trees absorbed the water from the lake and the moss absorbed it from the trees, so it is the same color? But, why the trees are still the color of brown?" Iris's curiosity had gone wild. "Do you think these flowers are poisonous? Have you tried to eat it? Is it okay for me to sniff it?"

Cane laughed to see the enthusiasm in her eyes. "I thought the blue color is the same like your eyes," Cane replied, as he approached his mate, but Iris had run away to a different part of the tree. "And no, everything is safe." He had tried it before and even drank the water from the lake, if he found a harmful object in this place, he wouldn't have taken Iris here, knowing her curiosity could put her in danger. 1

"Oh." Iris then sniffed the flower and tried to remember what kind of scent it was. "I feel like I have smelled this kind of scent, but I can't remember what it is..."

"Cinnamon," Cane said, he approached Iris again, but she had sniffed another flowers with different shape. "That's the first thing that came to my mind when I smelled it."

"Oh, right!" Iris sniffed the other flowers again. "Oh, I think all the flowers here have the same scent, despite their shapes are different," she concluded. She then went to the lake again. "Have you ever swam there? It seems not too deep."

"Do you want to swim?" This time, Cane managed to catch up with her and stood behind his mate.

"No, I have never swam before," Iris replied honestly.

"I can teach you."

"You can?" Iris tilted her head and caught how dark Cane's eyes were, her heart skipped a beat.

"Hm."

"Uhm, maybe next time," Iris said, she felt butterflies in her stomach fluttered their wings and her face became so hot when she could feel the atmosphere had shifted.

"Why not now? I want you to enjoy this place."

"This place is beautiful." Iris genuinely felt that way. "Thank you for taking me here."

"This place indeed beautiful, but I take you here not to show you how beautiful this place is, but to show my favorite place to my favorite person." 3

Iris widened her eyes and turned her body around to look at Cane. "Cane, is that you?" Never in million years she imagined, she would hear something like that from him.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 517

517 UNDER THE MOONLIGHT (2)

Darling,
Kiss me like you need
To feel safe
Because my lips want to know
All the places
You have been hurt
So, they can make all the pain drift away.
I was lying beside you
And you had this half smile
Because my hands
Were drifting down your spine.
And you looked at me
And I lost track of everything
Because I realized
Just how badly
I want under your skin.

*** Pillow Thoughts; Courtney Peppernell *** 1

"I want you, Iris, will you give yourself to me?"

The words were heard by her ears and echoed in her heart. Above them, the cloud hid the moon, as if it was too shy with the bold declaration of the alpha. 1

He wanted her, he wanted his mate.

He took her away from the pack house, so they wouldn't be bothered and for tonight, it would be only the two of them that matter.

Iris felt her heart thumped wildly against her ears. She was sure Cane must be able to hear that too, but his eyes, the way he looked at her, captivated all of her senses and she couldn't think of anything else right now.

This was not the first time for them, but surely enough, only if Iris agreed, this would be the first time they did it with her consent. 2

Even with everything that was going on around them and all the things that went so wrong with the plan or how the capital city was burned down into flames of war, as they chased after power and fame, right here and right now, it was only the two of them.

Iris knew this time would come, she had prepared herself for this moment and they were so close to do the deed before everything went south, but right now, with this genuine gesture from Cane and how thoughtful he was, she felt so overwhelmed, she could feel how special he treated her or how considerate he was for wanting to make this moment meaningful for her too. Cane didn't want to only have a sex with her and satisfy their sexual needs, he wanted to go deeper than that. He wanted her to be naked and bare with him, he wanted this to be a moment they could remember for the years to come, where they would have a little bit hope whenever they felt life was too difficult and hard on them, that even for once, they had a moment where they only cared for one another. They had each other. ( 2

"I don't bring you here for you to agree with my request, Iris, this is not a demand..." Cane barely finished his words when Iris pulled him closer to her and kiss his lips, and this time, he accommodated her by bending down his tall body.

"I want it," Iris said timidly, the moon and the night sky reflected in her blue eyes. Her cheeks turned crimson color and her slightly parted lips trembled.

"Afraid?" Cane asked, caressing her cheek. She could feel how rough his palm was against her skin, but she liked it nonetheless.

Iris shook her head, she pressed her lips into thin line, her eyes showed her determination, but her voice turned into a whisper when she spoke again. "But... I don't know what to do..."

Iris could say, she did nothing in their previous intimate moment, as she only cried and screamed at Cane in those moments and aside from that, she didn't have any experience or reference.

Now, they were really going to do it and Cane let her know beforehand, Iris became a little bit self-conscious.

"Just follow your instinct, Iris. You did pretty well before..." Cane whispered to her ears, as he combed her hair with his fingers and let her curls cascade down her back when he pulled her hair tie. 1

Iris bit her lip when she heard that, Cane's voice was so close to her ear and she loved it the way his warm breath brushed her skin.

"Like when we were in the bathroom?" Iris asked, as she felt Cane tore the strings behind her dress and the fabric loosened up on her body.

"Yes, like when we were in the bathroom."

Iris grimaced, as she rested her head against Cane's sturdy chest, hearing his strong heartbeat. She remembered how sore her hand was. She wondered what kind of state she would be in when they were done. She prayed, Grace's concoction would keep her strong enough to keep up with him and that was the sole reason why Cane asked the healer to make the concoction in the first place. 1

Slowly, her dress slid down her body and pooled around her ankles, leaving her only in her undergarment. Cane stepped back and stared at her beauty, while his mate looked so bashful to receive such intense gaze.

Cane took both of her hands and kissed her knuckles. "I will be so damned if I hurt you tonight, Iris."

"No, you will not..." Iris said with small voice.

However, both of them knew no one could say anything for sure. This would be the first time they tested their limit.

Cane could control himself before, but then, they didn't go further ahead that time. Right now, their emotions were so raw.

"You should bring the dagger with you," Cane said, as he leaned over and kissed her bare shoulder.

"Don't be ridiculous," Iris said sternly, but her body shivered when his lips touched her skin and nibbled for a moment there, before he stared into her eyes again.

"Just in case," Cane said, kissing her nose.

"I can squeeze your wolf spirit, in case you forgot about that, so you can put your mind at ease." Iris pursed her lips, she didn't like it when Cane talked to her about hurting him and he was fine with that. 2

There was this amusement danced in Cane's eyes when he heard what she said. "That's more efficient. Please do if I went too far." Never. 1

Iris wouldn't say the word out loud, thus she kissed his lips and bit it lightly, as Cane sighed into her mouth and hugged her closely. He put his hand on the back of her neck and deepened the kiss.

Iris was so small compared to him and he felt like it was so easy for him to break her if he was not careful enough. He couldn't imagine how could he do what he had done to her in the past. The guilt of it would hunt him for the rest of his life.

"I can't take off your shirt..." Iris mumbled against their kiss and Cane laughed with her random comment.

She was too short to pull it over Cane's head and was not strong enough to tear it apart like he did to hers. That's why she was stuck now. Since she was not sure what to do and what the right steps to do it, she only mimicked what Cane did to her.

"You don't need to worry about that."

"But, I am half naked now, while you still dress up. It's not fair."

Cane chuckled. "The night is still long, Iris, both of us will be completely naked at some point."

The night was still long? How long he intended it would be?

Cane left wet kissed on her shoulder, as he trailed down her collarbones, which made Iris's legs turned very weak, as she curled her toes.

"You have beautiful collarbones, Iris, do you know that?"

No. Iris didn't know anything anymore, aside the fact of his lips on her skin and how lightly he caressed her nipple with his thumb. She clutched his front shirt and prayed her legs wouldn't give in.

Iris closed her eyes when she felt her undergarment was being torn apart. How easy it was for him to undress her...

"You are so beautiful, Iris..." Cane said that again, kissing every scar on her skin and hearing the person she loved saying that over and over again, made her felt beautiful about herself... 2

This time, Cane dropped to his knees and kiss her inner thigh.

"Cane!" Iris opened her eyes in surprised, as shesupported herself, by holding onto his shoulders. It was ticklish, but more than that, she was mortified if Cane intended to kiss her down there...

Seeing Iris was not comfortable yet, Cane stopped and kissed her navel instead, licking her skin. He could smell her arousal and how wet she was when he touched her.

"You smell so good, I will be so mad if someone noticed this," Cane said darkly. The issue about her masking her arousal was still not yet discussed further. They really needed to meet with Grace to talk about this problem. 1

Iris blushed when she heard how possessive Cane was when he said that. She closed her eyes, but it only intensified the sensation she felt down there when he moved his finger slowly. It was a torture when he teased her this way.

"Cane..." Iris felt her breathe became heavy and her legs were about to give away, while Cane lifted his head to stare at her contorted face.

"What do you want, Iris?" Cane asked in his hoarse voice. The sight of his mate with the dark sky and the moon behind her was a sight to behold.

Iris bit her lip, too shy to say it, but too eager to get her release.

Cane inserted one more finger, which made Iris gasped, but he slowed down his movement even more, which made her whimpered. 1

"F- faster, please..."

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 518

518 UNDER THE MOONLIGHT (3)

I am a solar system

With crashing comets and star clusters.

And in all my pieces

She exists

I can feel her so strongly

It's like I am not even me

Anymore

Like all my pieces belong to her.

And if the moon could talk.

I wonder if he would tell the night

Just how lovely she is

With all those stars shining bright.

*** Pillow Thoughts; Courtney Peppernell *** 1

Iris closed her eyes and called his name when she came undone, her whole body trembled and her legs gave up, but Cane was there to catch her fall. He let her panted against his neck and held her closely, as he bit her shoulder lightly.

Tear rolled down her cheek, as the feeling was so overwhelmed for her.

"Okay?" Cane asked, once Iris's body stopped trembling and laid her down on the soft white grass, her curls spread on it, which gave the contrast color to the sight.

"Mmh..." Iris mumbled, as she stared at Cane with her hooded eyes.

"We are not yet done, Iris." Cane watched how her face could turn even redder than this and she turned into her timid self, especially when she watched how he licked his wet fingers, which coated with her release.

Her eyes widened in shock, as her lips parted slightly.

Cane smiled and started to kiss her lips. This time, Iris opened her mouth for him, let his tongue exploring her, reveling in the taste of herself.

Cane really took his time, just like he said, the night was still long and he was teasing her now, as he took everything very slowly, so it wouldn't take Iris by surprised.

He took every step carefully and made sure she could handle it. He wouldn't want to see her bedridden again for days after everything that had been done.

Sweat ran rivulets down Iris's back, while her long hair was damp and some stuck to her skin.

Cane had stolen her breath away with his kiss and the way he touched her, but Iris had given him her heart. By the end of the kiss, Cane lifted his head and stared at her swollen lips. He overdid it again, as he could see there was a small cut on her bottom lip, but Iris seemingly didn't even realize that. He leaned over again to lick it, while Iris panted heavily and her body became so hot.

"Cane..." Iris called his name and tried to push him away when his lips went to assault her earlobe, but Cane grabbed both of her hands above her head and held it with one hand. "Cane!" Iris tried to get away from him, as he nibbled on her earlobe right now. The ticklish sensation sent shiver down her spine to her core.

Her earlobes were so sensitive and of course, the alpha had known that for a long time and the fact Iris didn't even ask him to stop, it must feel good for her in a torturous way that she couldn't comprehend.

Cane stopped his assault when Iris tried to grind herself against him, as she was desperate to find her release. Her arousal heightened and Cane knew it, his eyes darkened.

Her beating heart thrummed on her ears and her skin longed for his touch. She wanted him to touch every inch of her body with his lips. Iris even didn't realize what she was doing, as she was in the blissful moment, but also the torturous one. Her body ached for something and she wanted him to fill the void.

This feeling was uncomfortable and she wanted him to make her feel good again...

This time, Cane's small kisses travelled down from her neck to her chest, leaving a hot, wet trail behind, while his hand cupped her breast and pinched her nipple.

However, when Iris tried to push her body up, so she could feel him, Cane released both of her hands and pushed her hips down.

"Cane!" Iris opened her eyes and stared at her mate anxiously.

"Not yet, Iris..." Cane said, as he went further down on her body and Iris knew what he was going to do, as she felt his lips were on her navel again and now both of his hands were on her hips, pressing her down, which made the discomfort between her legs grew even more.

At this point, Iris couldn't care less when Cane lowered his body even more and kissed her inner thighs, he lingered a little bit longer there, intentionally avoiding the most aching part of her body.

"Cane, please..." Iris cried, as she grabbed the white grass around her, this feeling was even more overwhelmed than the first one. Her body was tensed.

But, she let out a moan when Cane finally gave her the attention she desperately needed. His lips were on her, as his tongue tasted her sweetness, savoring her. He flicked his tongue and this made her body tremble, as she whimpered and cried, because Cane would stop when she was so close. He was so mean! 2

"Cane!" Iris protested and she could hear his deep chuckle to hear the anger from his little mate. Iris threw him a pleading look and pursed her lips.

If Iris was not in the throes of her desire, she wouldn't have imagined herself to be in this position with Cane's face between her legs.

And this time, Cane took her for real, while Iris parted her legs to give him more access. She didn't know that this feeling could be so overwhelmed, could someone die from being so aroused?

When Iris reached her climax, she felt like her whole body was exploded, as she cried with the sensation. The feeling was unnerving and blissful at the same time. This time, it lasted longer than the first, while Cane took everything...

Iris felt so drained when the waves of pleasure was over and she opened her eyes in daze only to see Cane had taken off his shirt, the sight of his body made Iris bit her lip. She had seen him naked before, but every time, she would find herself was fascinated by him over and over again. His body was built of muscles.

And even though she knew his body was way bigger than her, but seeing this reminded Iris of how easy this man crushed her if he wanted to.

"I like the sight of you right now, Iris," Cane said, as he leaned over to take her dress and gather it under her lower back, so it would support her hips, giving him an easy access to her. He took off his pants as well and everything that could come between him and his mate...

"Wh- what are you doing?" Iris was tired, but she was curious what Cane was planning to do with the dress behind her back. She felt like her body was about to give up, yet she forced herself to stay awake. Cane hadn't even started anything with himself when she already came twice.

"Relax, Iris, you will feel more comfortable this way..." Cane lowered his body and kissed her lips, but he didn't linger longer, as he lifted his head slightly and stared at her. "Are you good?" he checked on her.

"Yes..." Iris raised her hands and caressed his cheeks, while the alpha indulged himself in her comforting scent.

"Did I hurt you?"

"No." Iris shook her head and was bashful when she felt his member between her legs, nudged her openings. She was still wet from her climax and Cane didn't really 'clean' her up down there, so you could hear the sound of it when he moved against her.

"I am amazed that I am still in control..." Cane said softly, seemed like he was talking to himself.

"I know you can..." Iris whispered back to him and this made Cane kiss her neck.

"I think, my fear of hurting you is greater than anything else..." Cane kissed his mark on her neck, the sight filled his heart with pride. 2

On the other hand, Iris felt so close with him after she heard that. It was so rare for Cane to express his feeling into words, but at this moment, under the moonlight and in this magical place, he tried to be bare with her and the feeling was so raw...her heart was swollen with happiness to get the confirmation of how much Cane cared about her. 2

Cane had shown it through his action countless times, but the feeling hit different when he verbalized it, as if the simple words he said, eradicating the last trace of doubt in her heart.

"Wrap your legs around me, Iris."

Iris did like what she was told and she gasped when she felt him, how hard he was right now and both of them groaned when Cane started to thrust into her gently. She grabbed his shoulders, while he pinched and twirled her nipples between his fingers, watching her expression, as he was inside her.

Then, Cane started to move, it was so strange for him to be able to have control over his body when he lusted over his mate, in the past, he longed as he got his release, but this time it was different...

Meanwhile, Iris felt the pain because she still tried to adjust with his size and Cane could feel her discomfort, as he stopped. It took everything in him not to move and fuck her so hard. He released her nipples and grabbed the grass around him, so he wouldn't hurt her.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 519

519 UNDER THE MOONLIGHT (4)

It's so hard to know what to say

To someone who feels so lost,
So I will stand here for you
In the wind and the rain
And I will be the lighthouse you need.

Take my hand and breathe again
And I will guide you home.

She's that girl

Who doesn't believe

In herself all that

Much

And for the life of me

I can't understand

Why

Because my belief

In her

Goes beyond the sky.

*** Pillow Thoughts; Courtney Peppernell

"Iris?" Cane called his name as softly as he could, though he was fighting back the urge to move inside of her. He couldn't step back now, there was no way for him to not go through with this, he would be doomed if Iris asked him to stop, but still, he determined to stop if that was what she wanted.

Tears trickled down from the corner of her eyes and Cane kissed them.

"F- for a moment," Iris said, she felt so full and overwhelmed with him inside her. it was still painful, though this was not the first time they had done it. Probably, it happened because they didn't do it regularly. ( 1

Meanwhile, Cane held himself back, his back covered with sweat, as he endured the torture. His breathing labored, as he waited for her to be more comfortable.

Only when Iris kissed his chin and nodded softly at him, he started to move again, but he lost a little bit control there when he thrust her deeply and this made Iris arch her back and cried out in pain, yet, Cane couldn't stop, he managed to slow down his pace, but he was too far gone...

"Cane..." Iris felt her whole body was shaken, as he moved in and out from her and every thrust went deeper than the other. She braced herself for the pain.

But, surprisingly, it didn't last for long, as a moment later she could feel how her body reacted to his fervor.

The feeling was so real and she couldn't help, but asked him to move faster, which her wish was granted.

This quiet night was filled with the sound of their labored breathing and how their body collided against one another. The sweet scent of sex filled this magical place, as fireflies appeared on the surface of the lake, the yellow lights from them caught their attention, as Cane and Iris tilted their head to see the beautiful sight before them.

It looked like the stars came down to them.

"It's beautiful..." Iris said breathlessly.

"They are nothing compare to you," Cane replied, as he moved faster and bit his mark on her shoulder, his teeth didn't sink too deep, but of course, it would leave bruises in the morning. 1

Suddenly Iris tensed and her body convulsed her around her, as she bit his shoulder to muffle her cries, as waves of pleasure washed over her once again.

But, Cane had not done yet. He just started...

He pulled out and flipped Iris's body, so her back faced him. Iris screeched because she knew what kind of sight Cane would get from her scarred back, but Cane didn't show any care for her scars. She was beautiful nonetheless.

Cane bit her back lightly while he pulled her asstoward him and made her knelt down, as he entered her again in this position, while Iris was still reeling in her third climax. He rubbed her clit, while he was still inside and this made Iris felt like her body was going to give up, as she started to be aroused again. How could her body take it? How long it would be for Cane to get his release?

But then, she couldn't think anymore when Cane moved faster and harder, the tip of him hit her womb, his phallus filled her, stretched her even more, while his fingers stimulated her, giving her more pleasure than she could handle...

Iris cried when she felt she was so close and this feeling filled her to the brim. She knew, she would still feel him even when days had passed. Cane was a little bit out of control, but she still could bear it.

Yet, it started to terrify her when she got her pleasure for the fourth time and Cane had not yet done with her.

This time, Cane made her sat down on him, as he nibbled on her nipple and held her body closely, so she wouldn't fall.

Heaven! She didn't think, no matter how many Grace's concoction she drank, she would never match his stamina, not even close... 1

Indeed, the night was still long...Iris was not sure how many times she was being pleased and got her release, because she stopped counting on the fifth. She really didn't need to ask what she should do, because Cane did all the job for both of them.

The bright light of the sunrise fell on her face and she groaned, as she opened her eyes. Her deliciously ached and she felt she didn't even have any strength left to even raise her finger.

From the corner of her eyes, she saw Cane approached the bed. His expression was devoid from any emotion, but his eyes couldn't lie. He was worried sick.

"Too... bright..." Iris whimpered, closing her eyes again and Cane immediately withdrew the curtain so it was comfortable for her eyes, only then he approached her again and sat down on the edge of the bed, holding her hand.

"Did I overdo it?" Cane asked, his voice was so deep and dark. It seemed he didn't get any sleep since last night.

Iris swallowed so hard, she refused to answer that question, because she was not sure whether it was him, who overdid it or it was her, who was disappointed for not being able to keep up.

Cane took a glass of water on the table beside the bed and helped her to drink it, as he put more pillow behind her back, when he saw Iris refused to talk. She flinched when she moved her body and this made Cane's jaw thicken. He tried to be as gentle as possible.

The liquid slid down her throat and she felt so relief, it was so nice and she asked for another glass sheepishly. "How many days had passed?" she finally asked when her dry throat felt a little bit better.

Cane chuckled to hear the question. He neated her curls with his fingers. "Only six hours, Iris. It is still the same day." 1

It was a news for Iris, she only fell asleep for six hours? "Only six hours?" She was surprised.

"You get better." Cane nodded and kissed the tip of her nose.

"No. I am sore," Iris grumbled, she flinched when she tried to move her body, she felt like she was still leaking down there. It was embarrassing...

"For a while, I will get your medicine." Cane stood up and went across the room, while Iris stared at herself.

She was sure, it was Cane, who had carried her back, as she was too tired and sleepy to do it on her own. She remembered that she fell asleep after she heard the way Cane moaned her name. Iris didn't know her name could be said so melodiously.

And the way his body shuddered and how he breathed heavily when he came undone, it made her wanted more... she was right when she thought, the sound of his voice when he got his release would be as blissful as the sound of his laugh, if not more... 3

Right there, Iris stopped herself because she didn't want Cane to smell her arousal again. Ugh! She felt so embarrassed of herself to even think about that and got aroused when she barely survived last night. Well... even though she wouldn't complain.

"Open your legs," Cane said, as he pulled away the blanket.

"Huh? What?" Iris was not quick enough to secure the blanket around her body, so she was sitting there with only her night dress without her undergarment, something that she just realized it now.

"Open your legs, Iris. I need to reapply it every three hours. You are swollen down there, that's why you feel sore," Cane explained it calmly, but his eyes darkened a few shades. 1

"I- I will do it," Iris said. She was mortified to let Cane see her down there when her mind sober enough to feel bashful.

"I have seen everything, Iris. What are you embarrassed for?" Cane then sat down, pulled up her dress and put her legs slightly apart.

He reapplied the medicine on her intimate part, which made Iris protested, but she was too tired and had no strength left to push him away. Therefore, she could only stare at the ceiling and prayed he was done quickly. Too embarrassed to see him between her legs again.

However, Cane really took his time, as he did it slowly and attentively. He must smell her arousal again, which she tried to hold back, but this time, he said nothing about it and focused on his task.

Iris felt her soul had left her body when Cane was finally done and pulled down her dress then covered her body with blanket.

"I will ask someone to get your meal and medicine," Cane told her. He didn't realize it, since when it became a habit of him to tell Iris what he was going to do.

Once Cane returned, he observed her more.

"You feel pain somewhere else?"

Iris shook her head. "I am fine, Cane. You don't need to worry."

She was wrong, Cane was not worried, he was scared.

the whole seven packs in the south under his command. Soon, there is no more seven packs in the south, only one and he will be the alpha."Redmond was not really good at explanation, so he only blurted out the common thing that people had predicted when they read the shift in power.

Therefore, what he told her was only a common knowledge that had spread among people.

"More so, if they still bothered me with the fact those traitors came from Blue Moon pack, I can remind them I have killed most of my comrades and I will do the same if they didn't shut their mouth up."

Redmond then ate more aggressively, he was irritated to be reminded of that and Sofia didn't try to engage in conversation with Redmond again.

It was not that she wanted to upset him, she only wanted to have someone to talk to, but she didn't know what the safe topic to be discussed... 2

"What do you want?" Cane asked Haco, as the sorcerer came to visit him in the study room. His expression looked trouble, which told Cane there must be something important he wanted to tell him. 1

Meanwhile, Iris was sitting next to Cane, doing her own thing. She had been learning about days. 2

Send me proof of highest tier purchase via Instagram and I'll send you a mini comic. Every month there will be a new mini comic for the highest tier buyers.

The Alpha: Claiming His Enemy's Daughter Novel Online Free, Chapter 520

520 PREPARATION TO THE SILVER RIVER PACK 1

I could spend hours talking to you and it only feels like a handful of moments. And I know that life can be difficult and challenges get in the way, but with you, life feels effortless. It feels like the struggle is worth it. Just to see you at the end of the day. When I am with you, the sadness goes away. 1

*** Pillow Thoughts; Courtney Pepperneil ***

It was not easy for Cane to deal with this feeling of fear. The blissful moment only lasted momentarily, until he saw Iris exhausted face and how some part of her body had bruised. The color irritated him. He was afraid, something so bad could happen to her.

But then, if she could survive their previous intimacy when he was not careful enough, she must have survived this, this consolation thought was not really help actually, because it irked him even more to be reminded of something that forever would be engraved in his mind and heart. 2

"You don't need to be worried, Cane. I am only a little bit tired," Iris said, she stretched out her arms and Cane carefully came closer and rested his forehead on her shoulder, as they hugged each other, in this position, it was obvious that he didn't put all of his weight on her.

"How do you feel?" Cane asked after some time passed. He licked the bruises on her neck, where he bit his mark on her skin.

"I feel... good," Iris cleared her throat. "How do you feel?"

Cane stopped licking her bruises. "Awful." He started to communicate his feeling now, though it was not the answer that Iris anticipated.

"What?" Iris pushed him slightly away from her, so she could see his face. He still had this emotionless expression, but his eyes were so gloomy, as if there was a storm that brewed inside him. "Did I... that bad? I told you I didn't know what to do." 1

Cane was speechless, he was mad because the outcome was not the way he wanted it to be, since Iris got hurt, but here she was; thinking she didn't perform enough. Who cared about that?

"Iris, you can play dead and lay down still like a plank for all I care." Cane's voice was very stern. "I will not complain and still find you attractive." ( 1

Iris blushed. What was that supposed to mean? "Is that a compliment?"

Hearing the question, Cane chuckled. He laughed more nowadays, even with the tragedy that befell on his pack and how they were in dire situation. She managed to crack him up, even when he was upset and frustrated.

The way she blushed, the way she asked him timidly and how she tried to look nonchalant, but failed miserably. He liked this side of her and how some time, he would find her ogled at him with fascination.

Cane was not sure what she found so attractive about him, he could see the way she loved him fearlessly and wanted to try everything for him. She stretched her boundaries and tested her limit for him. She endured everything... the pain, the agony, the hardship that came when she chose to be with him and here she was; still staring at him with adoration in her eyes. 3

He was a monster, but still, she came closer to him undauntedly.

It was surreal to have this woman in his life when he thought, he wouldn't fall for anyone anymore, but here he was, succumbed in her presence and was unable to let her go.

It started with her giving him the Blue Moon pack, but it ended up with him giving her his whole heart. 4

There was nothing much, his heart was not pretty, after all, it had been broken and shattered into million pieces, but by some miracle, it was still beating and now, it beat for her...( 2

"You did nothing wrong," Cane said softly, he grabbed her hands and kissed her knuckles solemnly. "I am disappointed, because in the end, I still hurt you."

"No, you didn't." Iris was adamant. She felt uneasy when she thought, Cane wouldn't try it again with her. Well, she only said she was sore, but she didn't complain... 1

Cane chuckled again, he could see how eager Iris was to prove how she was fine, when the evidence was all over her skin.

"You need to eat more and rest." Cane kissed the tip of her nose and stood up right in time someone knocked on the door to deliver Iris's meal and medicine.

After her stomach was full and they talked about what Cane's next plan was, Iris fell asleep again. She snored softly, looked content, as she rested her head on his laps and Cane checked on a few reports, while caressing her head.

Iris slept all the way through afternoon and only woke up before dinner time. She felt better and the sore had decreased significantly, it must be Cane, who dutifully applied the medicine when she was sleeping, since it should be reapplied every three hours.

Iris felt so embarrassed, but there was this beautiful smile on her lips. She liked it when Cane paid attention to her.

The next day, they discussed about leaving to the Silver River pack. Like usual, Jace would be incharged for the pack, while Eth an would come with them, so did Redmond, which meant, he would probably not be able to be there when Sofia gave birth to his firstborn.

The thought of it gave him a mix of feeling.

"I don't care about the baby," Redmond grumbled, every time he thought about the matter. "Women gave birth every day. It's not like I can do anything about it anyway." He gulped down the entire drink and slammed it against the table, as he left the money and walked back home.

Sofia had toned down her nastiness a little bit now, though Redmond was not sure what the cause of the change of attitude, but it was nice not to have to fight with her in every single moment they were in close proximity. She also made Maria stopped to argue with him, which helped Redmond a lot, because he was on the verge of bashing that old woman's head against the wall for bothering him so much. 2

"I heard you are going with the alpha and the other to the other pack," Sofia broke the silence between them when they were having their dinner. Maria dutifully cooked for her and supplied everything she needed, since she was not allowed to step into the pack house.

The old woman was still thinking the alpha would come to his sense, once the baby was born, thus she didn't bother him so much, especially when she was not able to see him, even when she tried so hard to do so.

With everything that was going on in the pack, the problem with Sofia didn't look so important again in the eyes of the most pack member, as they had a lot of things to deal with, more so when their alpha didn't even pay attention to this pregnant woman. They started to question the baby as well. Now, Kaz was not in the picture to rally people behind him to worship Sofia, some of them only had her in the back of their mind.

"Yeah," Redmond answered curtly, as he ate his food, while Sofia played with it, seemingly didn't have any appetite.

"How could they bring you with them when you are part of the pack that had attacked them? They still trust you?" 1

Redmond frowned and stopped eating when he heard the question. "If you are still clueless about what is going on and what is going to happen, I will educate you a little bit here," he said in light tone.

Sofia pursed her lips. She knew she was not that bright when it came to the state of affair or read the power struggles between men over territory and whatnot, but it vexed her when Redmond pointed that out in not very nice way. Still, she didn't curse at him.

"Cane is the only alpha in the south, with the power struggle in the capital city and how those people fought for the throne, he is going to unite the whole seven packs in the south under his command. Soon, there is no more seven packs in the south, only one and he will be the alpha." Redmond was not really good at explanation, so he only blurted out the common thing that people had predicted when they read the shift in power.

Therefore, what he told her was only a common knowledge that had spread among people.

"More so, if they still bothered me with the fact those traitors came from Blue Moon pack, I can remind them I have killed most of my comrades and I will do the same if they didn't shut their mouth up."

Redmond then ate more aggressively, he was irritated to be reminded of that and Sofia didn't try to engage in conversation with Redmond again.

It was not that she wanted to upset him, she only wanted to have someone to talk to, but she didn't know what the safe topic to be discussed... 2

"What do you want?" Cane asked Haco, as the sorcerer came to visit him in the study room. His expression looked trouble, which told Cane there must be something important he wanted to tell him. 1

Meanwhile, Iris was sitting next to Cane, doing her own thing. She had been learning aboutdays. 2

Send me proof of highest tier purchase via Instagram and I'll send you a mini comic. Every month there will be a new mini comic for the highest tier buyers.