

Chapter 886

886 I WILL TELL YOU EVERYTHING ABOUT REI

The elders had emphasized the importance of this meeting and for Abby to persuade Iris, so she could help them to take down the shield, but they placed James next to Abby also because they wanted there was someone, who would be able to tell her not to discuss anything beyond the matter at hand.

For some reason, they seemed to sense that Abby was going to rebel against them, thus they dug their claw deeper on her.

"Can you?" Abby asked James, her voice was cold and detached. "You know how important this meeting is."

James was tongue tied and when Abby continued to enter the tent, he couldn't go through the warriors, who blocked his way from approaching the Serafim.

"Back off. This is not your place." Eron glared at him.

"This is not the place where your elders have a say," Dyn chimed in.

In the end, having no way to go through the warrior, James backed away. He returned to report this to the elders.

Meanwhile, Abby was having a conversation with the three of them.

Once Abby was inside the tent, she was surprised to see Lou was also there. She thought it would only be the alpha and the luna.

"He is..." Abby was a little bit awkward.

"I am Lou, I think you already know that." Lou smiled beautifully at the Serafim.

"I know your name."

"Oh, okay."

"I meant... why are you here?"

"Why not?"

Iris put down her fork. "It's okay, I will explain about him later."

"Drink this." Cane poured her a glass of water and handed it to her. He then asked someone to clean up the table. www.netelworm.com

"But, I am not yet done eating!" Lou protested, yet he gave up his meal, knowing this would be a serious discussion.

At first, the situation was awkward, as no one initiated the conversation. Abby then cleared her throat, knowing she should be the one, who explained her situation first. www.netelworm.com

"First of all, I thank you for being able to get me out of the tent. I know this is not an easy thing to do to persuade the elders." Abby misunderstood, because Cane only gave alpha Dandolf a hint and aside from kept giving an excuse that Iris was sick, he didn't do much. "I want to know if you took my offer?"

Iris had talked about this with Cane the night before. "What kind of protection do you need? To what extend do you need the protection from us? Because I don't want to cause another war between the Holy Kingdom and us after this one." www.netelworm.com

It would be too much if they had to handle war after war, therefore, they had to tread this matter carefully, after all, the Serafim was the heart of the Holy Kingdom.

The Serafim would be the Serafim even without the support of the Holy Kingdom, since it was their divine power that defined them, but the Holy Kingdom without the Serafim would lose their cause.

Abby pressed her lips. The words were so hard to say. "I want you to step up and claim the position."

It was very heavy to ask Iris to take her place when her whole life, she only knew this life of how to be a great Serafim. She lived her life like that. Being Serafim was her whole identity and when she gave it up, she was not sure what she was or who she became. www.netelworm.com

Or even if she meant anything...

"I want you to protect me and the baby," Abby said.

"From what? Or who?" Iris could sympathize with Abby, because she was having her own baby too and she knew how it felt like to be very desperate to protect your love one, but then just like Abby, Iris had people she wanted to protect and their interest could clash, causing more trouble on her end.

"You are surrounded by people from the Holy kingdom. The threat couldn't be coming from your people, right?" Lou chimed in.

Abby felt uncomfortable with the merchant, but because the luna and the alpha allowed him to be here, she didn't have other option.

"I feel Elder Rose is still having this kind of thought that the baby is not a good idea."

"She is your mother, right? She wanted to get rid of her own grandchild?" Lou raised his brows. "What an interesting revelation. There is nothing holy in this realm, even the Holy Kingdom is dirtier than the tip of my shoes."

Abby gave Lou a disapproving look, she took offense, but chose not to talk about it further.

"Why do you think it will solve your problem if I became the Serafim? I don't think people in the Holy Kingdom would accept me with opened arms."

"As a Serafim you held power, you can control the knights in the Holy Kingdom, it will give you advantage that you need."

Lou laughed to hear that. "You can't even tell a knight to back off, what kind of power are you talking about here?"

Abby's face turned red, while Lou continued to laugh, despite Iris kicked his leg under the table, the merchant didn't care much.

"Don't you think you ask too much, while there is nothing real that you can offer?" Lou still couldn't accept the fact that there was some point, where this woman had the audacity to claim Iris's hardwork as hers.

Meanwhile, Cane said nothing, he simply watched how everything would unfold. He had his own plan for the Holy Kingdom's people, but for now he would see what he could gain from the deal between Iris and Abby.

"Tell me about Rei and I will see what I can do to help you and the baby."

Abby shook her head. "Please, protect Cedric and Liam too."

Lou scrunched his nose in disdain. "Do you have a list of people you wanted to shelter? Seriously, you are being too much."

"I will tell you everything about Rei."
