

Chapter 224 Counterattack

Mia was taking advantage of Loraine's popularity to hype herself up.

She had even paid a lot of bloggers and influencers to release her music videos in an effort to create the impression that she was a very modest and hardworking artist. As a result, she attracted a lot of fans.

The number of her followers which had been stagnant for a long time began to grow rapidly.

Seeing the increasing number of followers she had, which had gradually gone past ten million, Mia became very complacent.

This was the first time in her career she had gained so many followers.

Clearly, doing what she did to Loraine was very much worth it. She didn't care how angry Loraine probably was.

Most other people were naturally afraid of Loraine, but she was not!

Though Loraine was the president of Universe Group, Mia herself was also the daughter of a tycoon. She believed that if Loraine found out about her family background, she would not dare to take revenge on her.

While Mia sat there, happily thinking of her bright and successful future, her assistant suddenly called her on the phone and told her something that shattered her beautiful dream.

"Lorraine has found someone that knows the truth about what happened!"

Mia was shocked to hear this. But she quickly recovered and checked her phone. When she saw the trending topics, her face darkened.

The photographer at the studio on that day had posted a statement.

"Everyone needs to understand what really happened. On that day which the video was taken, the schedule for the photo shoots that day was seriously delayed because of Mia Tucker. She even wanted to use up the time allotted to the band, Shepherd. She refused to cooperate with us and her attitude was very bad. So, she was asked to leave."

He also went ahead to post a record of Mia's photo shoot appointment, containing her allotted time that day, and he even went further by releasing the full video of the incident.

In the video, everyone could clearly see that it was Mia who was the arrogant and violent one.

Finally, everyone now knew what truly transpired.

Mia was the only one at fault, refusing to cooperate with the staff.

Loraine ordered the staff to throw Mia out after Mia started insulting her.

Many people now became very glad to see the scene in the video where the staff grabbed Mia and took her away.

The image that Mia had been trying to portray of herself suddenly collapsed and her fans began to unfollow her en masse.

Scared and panicky, Mia released a statement in a desperate effort to influence the public opinion in her favor.

"The Torres family is so wealthy and powerful in Vagow that they can even bribe the photographer to cover up the truth. Now, it seems that no matter what I say, no one will believe me. After all, I'm alone in a foreign country."

But before people could confirm whether she was telling the truth or not, a piece of even more eye-catching news came out.

At the start of her debut, Mia had relied on her family background to bully members of her team.

Some people soon dug out details of her family background in Haalidia and posted evidence of how she bullied members of her team. Almost instantly, bloggers and influencers took up the post and shared it widely.

The evidence also cited news reports at the time, but these reports had been suppressed back then, so they were not widely noticed at that period.

Now that all of these scandalous details had been exposed, people were shocked beyond belief.

Apparently, Mia was the real bully and she had tried to paint herself as pitiful and innocent.

Mia herself could now see that she was finished. She slumped down on the sofa with a deep groan.

For crying out loud, her family had already deleted those scandals years ago. Why were they being exposed again?

No way! She couldn't just sit back and let things go on like this! If the scandals could be deleted before, then they could be deleted a second time.

Picking up her phone, Mia made a call to request for someone to delete the scandals.

Unfortunately, it didn't work. It was as if someone was targeting Mia.

It was at this point that Mia realized that Loraine's influence was far more powerful than she thought, and her face turned pale with fear.

She had thought that Loraine would be scared of her family background and dare not take any revenge on her, and that was why she had been so fearless.

But Loraine had not only proven her wrong but also gone far beyond her worst expectations.

If it went on like this, her career would be ruined.

Wringing her hands in sorrow, Mia put a call through to her agency.

The reason why she had signed with Starlight Entertainment was because she knew that the president of the company had a prestigious background. Although no one had seen the president, she was sure that as long as the company came to her rescue, this matter would be easily solved.

When the phone was finally answered, Mia began to cry. "Allie, please help me! Someone is targeting me online."

Allie Walsh, her agent, said in a cold tone, "I was just about to call you. After some discussions, our company has decided to terminate our contract with you. The letter of termination will be delivered to your home later today. Please check it carefully."

Mia was stunned. Then, she went berserk. "We signed a five-year contract. Why should the company terminate the contract all of a sudden when it hasn't expired? Believe me, I will sue you!"

Allie said calmly, "You'd better read the contract again carefully. If an artist carries out actions that cause great losses for the company, we have the right to terminate their contract. In fact, the company can also claim compensation."

Mia was going to argue with her, but Allie had already hung up. Mia screamed in fury and threw the phone away.

Before she knew it, Starlight Entertainment publicly stated that they had terminated their contract with her. They made it very clear that they were not interested in partnering with irresponsible artists.

The moment the statement was released, it became clear to Mia that her career was over.

When Loraine saw the news, she turned to Wesley, who was sitting beside her. "Since you acquired Starlight Entertainment, you have to manage it well. You can't allow them to sign artists at will. What if something like this happens again? Mia's actions are clearly a warning."

Wesley knew she was right. He touched the tip of his nose guiltily and said to Loraine, "Lorrie, let's just go to the company and have a look at the newcomers. If you don't like them, I'll fire them all. Anyone you think is promising, I'll spend more money on them."

Knowing fully well that he was trying to avoid worrying about the company's matters, Loraine couldn't refuse him. "Okay," she agreed with a shrug.

Mia became very anxious after her initial fury at being hung up on by her agent.

She called back several times, but her calls were declined. Eventually, Allie's phone was turned off.

"Damn it! Everyone wants me to live a hard life! Why?" Mia groaned in frustration.

Grabbing her bag, she rushed to Starlight Entertainment. But when she got to the top floor, she was stopped by Allie.

"Allie, why are you stopping me?" Mia asked aggressively. "I want to see the president!"

Allie replied her in an icy tone, "The president is not in the office at the moment. Even if he is, he won't see you. The HR personnel will contact you concerning the termination very soon."

Mia refused and shouted angrily, "Allie, I've made so much money for the company. How can you just kick me away like this?"

Allie only responded with a smile, which made Mia feel even more powerless.

She gritted her teeth in frustration and tried to explain

With their connections in the entertainment industry, I will make considerable money for the company in the future. Now, I'm just temporarily in a bad position in terms of public opinion. But in a few days, the public will no longer remember any of this!"

"I've told you before that this matter has been discussed and agreed upon. It's useless for you to see the president for that matter."

Mia was infuriated by Allie's stubbornness and she responded fiercely, "As long as the president is aware of my business value, he will beg me to come back/ By then, you will suffer!"

Mia thought very highly of herself. She could not believe that the president of Starlight Entertainment would pass up a chance to take advantage of her family background.

So, she felt there could be only one explanation. Allie, the bitch, cheated her!

Allie laughed. Just as she was about to ask the security guards to drag Mia out, she saw Mia looking in the opposite direction with her eyes wide open.

A young woman in a creamy white windbreaker with gentle eyes was standing at the entrance, looking down at her mobile phone. It seemed she was waiting for someone.

Mia frowned angrily and ran over to meet her.

"Lorraine Torres! Why are you here?"

Lorraine looked up. When she saw that it was Mia, she ignored her and greeted Allie with a nod.

To Mia's surprise, Lorraine proceeded to walk past her and go inside.

Mia shouted after her, "I'm talking to you, Lorraine! Did you ask Starlight Entertainment to terminate their contract with me?"

Lorraine turned to look at her and sneered, "You're a bad artist. Whether or not I said anything, Starlight Entertainment would still have terminated your contract."

"So you have nothing to do with Starlight?" Mia asked with a suspicious look. "I'm not surprised, though. The president has never shown himself in public and nobody knows his identity. People like you who suddenly became popular wouldn't even know him!"

"Who says Lorraine doesn't know me?"

A deep male voice suddenly came from behind.

Mia whirled around immediately and came face to face with the speaker. He was a tall man dressed in a leather jacket, with slight stubble on his chin and a bright smile on his face.

Waving his car keys in one hand, Wesley stood beside Lorraine and said with a smile, "Nice to meet you. I'm the president of Starlight Entertainment."

Mia's eyes widened in surprise.

This man exuded an indescribable aura and he looked really handsome.

No male artist in the entertainment industry looked this good.

Allie promptly stepped forward and greeted him respectfully, "Hello, sir."

Wesley nodded with a smile, making him look even more handsome.

Mia's heart skipped a beat and her breath quickened.

She didn't expect that the president of Starlight Entertainment would be so handsome. With his mysterious background and powerful influence, he would certainly be the perfect man for her.

Mia was so occupied with her thoughts that she failed to notice that Wesley was standing beside Loraine.

She composed herself and pasted a charming smile on her face.

"Hello, sir. I'm a member of the Tucker family in Haalidia and a signed artist at Starlight Entertainment. My name is Mia Tucker. I came here to see you."

With these words, Mia stepped forward, her hips swinging, with the intention of hugging Wesley. But before she could get to him, Wesley quickly took a step back, moving out of her reach.

Mia was taken unawares by his sudden movement and she nearly fell when she reached forward to try to hug him.

Wesley still had a smile on his face, but the smile was now cold and unfriendly.

"You're blocking our path," he told her.

This statement felt like a slap in Mia's face.

She turned livid immediately.

A trace of resentment flashed through her eyes as she realized that Wesley was standing next to Loraine.

"Sir, don't be fooled by the woman beside you. She's not a good person. She..."

But before Mia could finish, Wesley put his slender finger on his lips in a gesture of silence.

Mia kept quiet immediately.

"Are all the security guards dead? How could they allow such a person into this premises? Come take her out right away!"

Instantly, several of the guards ran in and surrounded Mia.

Before they could drag her out, she stopped them.
"Wait. I'll leave on my own!"

Then she turned around as if she was leaving.
