

LIFE AFTER PRISON

Chapter 1091

“Rest assured, Sami. I promise you I will do something to make you better. No matter who is in the wrong, I will make sure I will teach them a lesson for making you upset.”

Even as the governor of Orto County, Terrence treated Sami with respect. From there, it was safe to presume Sami was either a powerful person or Terrence was scared of her family.

Sami smiled. “I know you won’t disappoint me. Now bring your men there so that guy won’t have the chance to run away.”

Suddenly, the Great Elder of the Lotts who had been there listening to their conversation the whole time frowned and said, “Mister Owen is a level six warrior king and I know how strong he is. If the opponent could easily defeat Mister Owen, that means the opponent is very strong too.”

Owen nodded. “Yes. I think he could be a level seven or eight warrior king. There’s just a handful of level nine warrior kings around and we’ve never heard his name before.”

The Great Elder asked, “What’s his name? If he’s really a level eight warrior king, it’s impossible that no one heard of him before.”

Owen replied, “His name is Severin Feuillet. He’s really very arrogant.”

Terrence and the elder frowned and started to think hard if they had ever heard of that name.

After a while, the Second Elder commented, "Severin Feuillet? I've never heard of his name before. How come we never know there's such a strong person in Skycean City?"

The Great Elder said, "That's right. I'm worried if he is from a powerful family or has someone powerful protecting him. Not many people still dare to slap Mister Owen especially after he told the opponent that his father is the governor of Orto County. He must have someone protecting him and that's why he's not scared."

Terrence frowned. "But I've never heard of him before. Maybe he's not from this city? Maybe he's just here for a few days?"

The Second Elder voiced out his opinion. "If that's the case, no one is going to know that we're the ones who killed him. Then there's nothing we need to be afraid of."

After some thinking, the Great Elder said, "I think it's better for us to think twice before we do anything. The opponent knew who Mister Owen is and yet, he still dare to harm him."

The content of the conversation did not make Sami happy. She folded her arms and sneered. Her tone sounded disdainful. "What are you guys afraid of? I'm here, aren't I? Or do you think I should tolerate it when someone made me upset while being a guest here? Do you guys know that Uncle Terrence is the governor of Orto County? Shouldn't you guys seek revenge after his son got slapped in the face? The Lotts will become the joke of the city if words got out."

She paused and continued, "Just how coward you guys are? How much do you guys need to consider anyway? From the way I see it, I think that guy is just not scared of us because he has high attainment. But he's just a no-brainer. No matter how powerful the person who protects him, do you think it is comparable to my family? Even if the war god is here, he has to treat me with respect. So how can I allow that guy to talk to me so rudely?"

Before anyone said anything, Sami threatened. "Uncle Terrence, if you can't seek revenge for me, I think it's better that I tell my dad. I believe he will quickly send someone to settle it and I don't need to trouble either of you."

Once Sami finished talking, Terrence was frightened. If Sami's father knew that someone bullied his precious daughter here, he was going to be in a lot of trouble. He knew he could not let that happen.

He smiled, embarrassed. "Sami, what are you talking about? How come I let that happen when you are willing to come visit us? Don't worry. I won't let anyone go easily if he dared to make you unhappy. No matter where we are, no one can do that to you. You have my promise. I will make sure I break Severin's leg today."

The Great Elder was a wary person. Yet, he too was afraid Sami would tell his father that someone bullied her under their watch. He quickly consoled, "Miss Sami, don't worry. We promise that we'll go find him. No matter who he is, we're not going to let him go easily."

It was only then Sami felt better. She smiled. "I'm not an evil person. I just want that couple to kneel in front of me and apologize to me. You guys don't have to beat them. But they need to do it sincerely. Oh, and they need to slap themselves a hundred times. Or I want you guys to kill the girl and destroyed the guy's attainment and break his legs so he will forever live regretfully."

Read the hottest Life After Prison Chapter 1091