

Arabella 1606

Chapter 1606

Arabella was in the midst of wrapping up the annual year-end meeting when her phone buzzed insistently. Glancing at it, she saw a text from Ms. Kiki.

“Summer, sweetheart, don’t worry about the trending topic. I’ve got it handled. They should know better than to cross me, and now, not one of them is getting off scot-free!”

Ms. Kiki, Arabella’s agent, was known for her fiery disposition. It took a lot to rile her up, unless.

Curiosity piqued, Arabella tapped into the news feed and sure enough, the top trending headline screamed, “Summer Lip-Sync Scandal.”

Right beneath it was another hot topic, “Summer Accused of Plagiarism.”

“Ms. Bennett, that concludes my report.”

At that moment, the head of the International Marketing Division stood rigid at the conference table, his spine icy with tension, much like a convict awaiting sentence.

to breathe. She spoke with calm authority, “Not bad. Proceed

The division head exhaled in relief the first year I took over Collins Fashion, there are questions about whether to hold the annual gala, annual gala, others relished the opportunity. An that’s on everyone’s mind—the year-end bonus—rest assured that the company won’t let you down. The

to learn if the company would offer time off, and if so, for how long, and whether it holidays totaled seven days off. However, since everyone has worked so hard this year, I’ve decided to extend the holiday. I’ll give you a full twelve days of announcement was met with a round of applause and cheers, faces alight with an extended paid holiday was nearly staff members on duty to keep the company running smoothly. The administrative head will compile a list in advance. Those

Five times? Wasn’t that a maybe triple pay for “I’ll do the overtime!” blurted the perpetually single administrative head, “I’m up for working all twelve days straight!”

Laughter rippled through the room, and everyone seemed to appreciate the new policy.

“Any other questions?” Arabella’s eyes swept over the group.

“No further questions.”

“Nothing from me, Ms. Bennett.”

“All clear here.”

“Then let’s call it a day,” Arabella declared. As they dispersed, everyone smiled.

Ever since Arabella took over the company, everyone's treatment had genuinely improved, and working conditions had become more comfortable.