

Arabella 551

Chapter 551

It wasn't until Yolanda showed up that Arabella's goons finally stopped what they were doing and bounced off without a care.

After getting the green light from the cops, Yolanda had just stepped inside the room when she saw her mom being tortured to the point of passing out.

She was scared out of her wits, rushing over to her mom and asking, "Mom, what happened? Was it those two guys?"

One of those guys Yolanda had seen before. He was one of Arabella's!

Who would have thought Arabella would be so bold as to pull off something like this in a police station?

Olga was soaked to the skin, crying her heart out, "It's over. Yoli, we're done for."

"Mom, don't be scared. We still have Dad. He'll figure something out."

knew they were caught in Arabella's shares you sold recently have all ended up in her hands! Plus, with those shares and Grandma's will, she's become the head honcho of the company! She even changed the company's name! It's called the Moonlight Group now!"

passed got kicked out of Grandma's villa." Yolanda filled Olga in on what had happened at the villa gate. "I rented a small apartment- with the money I got from selling my jewelry. We can it's all our fault." Olga hugged Yolanda, crying again. They thought bringing her back would provide her with a better life. In the end, they couldn't even your fault. It's all Arabella's doing!" Yolanda was seething with anger toward Arabella. She wanted away her tears, she urgently said, asked, puzzled.

biological son, I was the one who caused Grace's death.

Remember,

was dumbstruck. How could identity as the proud daughter of the Olga reiterated, still worried, "Your father has nothing to do with Grace. Arabella started treating us like this after she found out.

got it." Yolanda bit her lip

Chapter 552

The chef watched as Mr. McMillan cradled Ms. Bella to sleep in his arms and wondered if his arms were getting tired.

But seeing the contentment and indulgence on Mr. McMillan's face, he knew that he was thoroughly enjoying the moment.

Romeo signaled to the chef to fetch a blanket. The chef tiptoed away and returned with it. Romeo gently draped it over Arabella.

Inside the house, Louisa was checking the surveillance cameras. She found it odd that Romeo's car had been parked outside for quite some time, yet Arabella hadn't gotten out. She wondered if Arabella was upset and Romeo was comforting her, or if something else had happened.

After a while, Louisa decided to go and check for herself. As she stepped out the front door, the chef got out of the car to report to her.

"Ma'am, Ms. Bella is asleep. Mr. McMillan thought she was very tired, so he wanted her to sleep a bit longer before coming inside."

Louisa nodded. "I see. I'll have the kitchen prepare something for when Arabella wakes up. When she does, have Romeo come inside for dinner."

chef responded, she found herself still in the van, with Romeo replying to some texts on his phone. Sensing her movement, he immediately turned his gaze to her, whispering, "Awake now?"

asked, "How long was I asleep?"

"Not too

dark, Arabella felt a twinge not sore. I could Romeo held her hand and said, "I'm kinda hungry now. Your mom invited me in if you want to. And if there's any urgent stuff you need to quick to say, "I have nothing urgent.

had a bitter look on his face, still buried under a mountain of work. He was probably going to stepped out of the car, a suit jacket was immediately draped over her shoulders.

on the jacket, saying, "You've just woken up. Don't catch a of envy. He was left to his own saw that Arabella was back and hurried over, saying, "Arabella, you're awake? Dinner's ready, Let's go eat!"

Chapter 553

As he spoke, he once again adjusted his hairdo.

He'd dolled himself up really well on purpose; he even put on the clothes his sister liked, just popping up in front of her, hoping to lift her spirits a bit.

Arabella was speechless.

Though she knew his good intentions, it seemed like they weren't doing much.

At the dinner table, Serena thought she could see a heartbroken Arabella. But no, Arabella was just like any other day, with no signs of sadness, just going about eating and drinking.

She was surprisingly calm, given that her granny, who had raised her for so many years, had been killed. She could still eat and sleep!

How could she be so ungrateful?

were carefully asking about Mom, can you let sis eat her meal in hadn't eaten much today. If she pushed herself too more; it's stored for too long due to the hot Attlee, Olga, and Yolanda, they didn't need to be present. Granny wouldn't want to see them; besides, they had no blood relation burial site is?" Louisa carefully asked again, "Should I find a big one with a Granny had already picked a spot."

ground. She wanted to rest beside her fell ill before. It was a normal thing, with tomorrow?" Louisa asked again, "We'd like mean a lot to Granny. You don't need to help with anything else; that all they needed to do girl had grown into an independent woman, capable of handling even a funeral and sorting out

Chapter 554

Her sex tape with Wilson had gone viral on the internet.

Her pure and innocent image was now in tatters, and she messed up her engagement party.

She can forget about marrying into a rich family; even ordinary guys wouldn't touch her with a ten-foot pole.

After all, no man wanted a woman full of scars, drowning in debt, and cunning as a fox.

The Panter family had painted her as an unrestrained, malicious, and crafty villain.

This image, no matter how hard she tried to explain it away, was there to stay.

After dinner, Arabella went back to her room and ordered her staff to prepare for the funeral.

leaking her tapes online, seriously damaging her reputation.” Arabella couldn’t care less. “Don’t worry about her. We’ll counter-sue her for defamation once the police finish their really something.”

that Attlee wasn’t Grace’s biological son, she started going after the Murphy family, showing no mercy.

had been uploaded to a website a year ago by her ex-boyfriend, Wilson. The video then, Yolanda was the daughter of a cleaner and was often bullied and took an interest in her. His family background was something she could only dream willingly gave herself to him.

and to please him, she let him film their that those videos would become a hurdle to her the Panter family stumbling upon those tapes, she would already be their future daughter-in-law. Even when was such about this, Yolanda unblocked Wilson and agreed to it at the time. I still have our chat logs where you said

Chapter 555

Arabella moved forward, helping Grandma Stacy up, and said to her, “Grandma Stacy, take care of yourself.”

Even though Arabella was the one hurting the most, as the main person in charge of the funeral, she had to comfort all the guests.

“Arabella, I am so heartbroken. Your Grandma just called me not long ago, saying that after her surgery and recovery, she would come to see me.” Grandma Stacy sobbed uncontrollably, “How could this happen?”

“Grandma Stacy, the floor is cold; get up first.” Arabella tried to help her up, but Grandma Stacy was too distraught to stand.

Arabella held tightly onto Grandma Stacy’s wrist and, observing her complexion, realized that she was extremely weak.

“She told me that her husband had come to get her, and she had no regrets in her life.”

Grandma Stacy continued to sit on the floor crying; Arabella could only gently comfort her, waiting for her to recover a bit before helping her sit in a nearby chair.

The funeral venue was decorated in black and white, appearing very solemn.

of those who came to the funeral noticed that Arabella had grown up. She greeted the guests like a mature adult, and despite the sadness being only eighteen, Arabella was the most his hair light had gone out of his eyes. An assistant supported him, and sorrow, so she gently put her hand on his arm. He nodded that Attlee was not Grace's biological she hoped Grace would know that it wasn't because she wasn't a good parent but rather because Attlee wasn't her biological son, hence he naturally didn't possess the traits of the Murphy family.

and relatives of the Murphy family know that them.

treated by Olga, leading to her death, and the persecution Attlee and Olga had imposed on those around Grace.

attended the engagement party the day before and had seen the video of Olga bullying Grace, so they hearing this, people were red in the face with Arabella succinctly recounted Grace's life and in front of everyone, had Grace placed in the coffin the air again, seemingly

Chapter 556

The guests all put their flowers together and then brought them over to Arabella.

Arabella placed the flowers in front of Grace's tombstone, and then she took out something she had prepared herself.

"These are famous tourist attractions from around the world. I originally wanted to take you to see them. With Grandpa by your side, you could go anywhere you wanted. I've even mapped out a route for you to follow."

She held back her tears as she placed these travel brochures, as well as a scarf that Grandpa Alberto had knitted for Grandma, in front of Grace's tombstone.

Just then, a figure came rushing over, crying out in grief, "Grandma, I can't bear to let you go."

Hearing this, a look of displeasure flashed across Arabella's eyes. She turned to look at a staff member.

let his guard

rush towards the tombstone, but Arabella my grandma.”

didn't invite me or inform my parents. You invited all the relatives and friends of the Murphy family, but not a single her granddaughter? Do you have expect Arabella to embarrass her in public. She gritted her teeth and said, “I regard her as my grandma. I know about Grandma's death; my mom bears Arabella didn't want to see immediately grabbed for her shamelessness. Grace was already gone, yet that was her real purpose for coming today!

about to blow her

Chapter 557

Arabella was up front, giving a bow of gratitude to all the guests present.

“The funeral is over, and the family wants to express their thanks.”

Arabella turned around and bowed to each guest as they leave the cemetery.

All the guests were invited to the nearest restaurant to the Collins family to enjoy the funeral feast, which Arabella had specifically prepared for them.

When the guests leave, Arabella turned back to look at the tombstone, can't help but walk over, knelt down, and gently touched the name on it.

At this moment, Arabella recalled the details of her time with her grandma, thinking of her grandma's kind face

.

Time didn't leave deep traces on the old woman's face, only the gentleness and elegance between her brows.

Arabella can't control her grief, which had almost drowned her strength several times.

gently, “Grandma, Grandpa will always be with you. You won't be alone. I will try to learn medical skills to save more people. Don't worry.”

then, someone came to head and saw Romeo's myself.

looked at the tombstone again and said gently, and cherish her. My Grandpa likes her too. She's the bride chosen by the McMillan Romeo said this, he held Arabella's hand and asked, "Shall bodies together, bowed, then stood up, saying goodbye to saw an old man standing outside the fence, looking at the here?" Arabella got closer and found that Alberto's eyes were full voice somewhat choked and his hand clenching a handkerchief. He wiped his tears and said sadly, "You guys, go ahead and attend to the guests; I'll be there in said, "Take care of up to Alberto's assistant and said, "You must take good

"Okay."

Chapter 558

"You should take good care of him; all his hair has turned white."

This wouldn't have happened if he wasn't overwhelmed with grief.

Romeo, knowing the pain of losing a loved one, gently touched Arabella's head and said, "You should take good care of him now."

"I'll do my best."

The day after the funeral, Arabella visited the place where her grandmother used to live.

The garden was neglected; most of the plants were withered, and the cobblestone path was covered with fallen leaves and wilted flowers. It was as if everything had lost its vitality after her grandmother's departure.

Arabella had the whole villa cleaned up, then she went to her grandmother's room. She twisted the wall lamp, and the whole wardrobe moved aside, revealing a small hidden room.

This room contained all of her grandmother's treasured belongings. Some were valuable items that Arabella had given her; some were her own property and other stuff; and some were her lifetime collections.

These were all gifts left for Arabella.

There was also a safe in the corner. Arabella entered the password, and after successful verification, she took out the contents.

It was a ring that her grandmother intended to give to Romeo, but now her grandmother was no longer with them.

It took Arabella a long time to open her backpack and pack everything in. These were things her grandmother had protected with her life; she definitely couldn't leave them for Attlee and his gang.

In the hidden room, Arabella also found a big box. Inside were all the doodles she had drawn from childhood until now and letters she had written to her grandmother.

The letters mentioned that when she grew up, she would take her grandmother around the world to give her a better life.

Upon seeing these, Arabella felt a lump in her throat. She didn't expect her grandmother to treasure these naive promises, storing them in the hidden room.

her granddaughter must be more important than Arabella remembered the kind old shoulder, picked up the box, and after restoring the wardrobe to its original position, it to Villa Cascada, to my things?" Arabella's servant, wide-eyed and incredulous, took the box and couldn't help but lift the lid to peek inside. "What's this? Drawings things in the box, including handmade items she had given her grandmother when she was a child and small gifts she had made herself. All were preserved intact in the box.

looked nostalgically at everything in the villa and said, "Remember to change the locks after you finish cleaning."

have the chance to come the property management absolutely couldn't let her take advantage of the situation!

of him rummaging through things." Arabella's servant also cold. Attlee would never know that there was a secret room behind her find any valuables

your grandmother also leave this villa to you?"

"Yes."

belongings; she just wished her grandmother could be alive and living a good villa, Arabella got in the car and handed the ring to didn't expect that her grandmother had prepared a gift for him before her death, and he felt leaned back in the seat and thought of vacation was coming to an end.

week before the start of school, Arabella suddenly received a phone call.

come quickly; Mr. Rollins is going to do something foolish! No matter how I persuade her side, asked softly after she finished the call, "What's Switzerland." Arabella got up to go, looking very anxious. "Grandpa Alberto with you."

arrived at Alberto's private estate as quickly as possible.

and said, "Ms. Bella, Mr. Rollins is not doing well! This is?"

Chapter 559

During the process of a patient's self-administered euthanasia, it's necessary for a court worker and a notary to be present, and the whole thing needed to be recorded on video.

This recording must be handed over to the police afterwards to prove that it was the patient's own decision to choose euthanasia, and that no one else was involved.

As long as Alberto hadn't injected himself with the drugs, he can stop this process at any time. But Alber to really had had enough of life, and just before going to his death, a glimmer of light finally flashed in his eyes.

Grace was his reason for living; without her, he couldn't find a reason to keep going.

His whole life had been a struggle for Grace!

After he'd signed the euthanasia paperwork, he turned on the drip and waited for death.

The whole thing took only four minutes.

a heads up, and if Arabella hadn't rushed over on a private plane, she wouldn't have been able a court official, a notary, a family doctor, bright bedroom was deathly quiet; everyone looked downcast.

how she had managed to walk to Alberto's bedside; she choked out, Seeing her, Alberto actually smiled, then looked at Romeo and said, "You're here been the butler who leaked knelt by

Alberto himself had to agree, so she grabbed his hand and pleaded, “Grandma has grandpa with her; you her from afar without disturbing her. Wherever she is, that’s knew that with every passing second, his chances of surviving decreased, so and said, “Bella, grant me this one wish.”

Arabella froze.

thought long and hard about. I don’t want to spend about. I can take you to every place that Grandma wanted to go. I can transplant Grandma’s plants into your garden. And

Chapter 560

About a fortnight ago, she had just lost her grandma, and now she has lost her grandpa.

“Sorry, I know I’m being a bit selfish.” Alberto knew his time was running out; he clutched Romeo’s hand tightly. “Romeo, you haven’t yet agreed to my request.”

Romeo felt extremely heartbroken. “I promise you, I’ll do my best to protect her and treat her well.”

“Good.” Alberto closed his eyes in peace. He was glad to have his granddaughter and grandson—in-law by his side before his departure. Whether he was going to heaven or hell, he wouldn’t feel lonely or regretful.

Seeing him close his eyes peacefully, Arabella couldn’t help but lay beside him, silently shedding tears.

The courthouse staff and the notary finished recording and said a few words before leaving.

The family doctor and nurse also bid farewell to Arabella with heavy hearts.

left by the bed, her shoulders stroked her back, hoping to provide some comfort.

butler covered his face, and he tried hard not to all knew Alberto’s love for Grace was too deep, a love that transcended the boundaries of left behind: “This is a video recorded by Alberto before she took it and played it video, Alberto’s kind face was seen, he first explained why he chose to he couldn’t let go of was sad and to live

I was planning to wear it to your wedding. What a pity.” Alberto said this with a smile: “I was planning to wear this suit tears started to also recorded a video for them. They will come to send me off, Bella, study hard,