

Arabella 621

Chapter 621

Romeo held her hand, whispering, "What did you think of the movie?"

"It was alright."

"Do you think the movie was good, or do I look good?"

What a bizarre question!

"You."

After all, this face was better than any scene in the movie..

Hearing Arabella say this, Romeo's mouth curled up slightly. "Did you have a private conversation with Caden last night?"

Arabella: ??? Why bring up Caden again?

"You were gone for a long time last night. Besides the Ministry of State Security throwing you a bone, did you talk about anything else with him?"

“It must be about the patient from last night.” Arabella speculated.

Romeo clearly didn’t believe it and his eyes were full of jealousy. “Put it on speaker.

Fine!

There’s no way she and Caden could have anything to talk about other than medical matters!

“Bella, are you busy?” Caden’s voice came from the other end of the phone pretty quickly.

That nickname flashed a hint of anger in Romeo’s eyes. Hmph, calling his fiancée so intimately? Was he asking for trouble?

“What’s up?” Arabella asked.

“Well, there’s something I want to tell you in person.” Caden seemed a bit nervous, paused, and asked, “Are you free right now? Let’s meet somewhere.”

“You don’t have to work today?” Arabella asked. She remembered he was on duty last night, so he didn’t have to work during the day. But, “What can’t be said over the phone?”

Why did he need to meet in person?

Now, a dangerous smile appeared on Romeo’s lips. Caden wanted to confess his love to Arabella? Great, just great!

Chapter 622

“I want to talk to you face-to-face,” Caden said, somewhat hesitantly. “You free?”

“Just spit it out over the phone, I’m all ears.”

Caden’s eyes dimmed slightly. After a moment of silence, he finally spilled the beans. “I’m heading abroad.”

Arabella seemed taken aback. Just like that?

“I’ve quit my job at the hospital and my flight’s this afternoon.” As Caden said this, his smile had a hint of bitterness.

‘Where to? Why in such a rush?’

As soon as she asked this, Romeo gripped her hand tightly. Looking up at him, she saw a look of warning and jealousy in his eyes. Arabella had a hunch he wasn’t telling the whole truth then her expression changed slightly. “That’s not the real reason you’re leaving.”

He often worked overtime and it was par for the course for him. He wouldn’t just get up and quit for no reason so something felt off.

"What's your plan for the future?" Arabella asked.

"I'm the only kid in the family," Caden laughed. "Once I'm done having fun, I'll take over the family business and let my folks chill out."

He was the only child in the Newton family. His grandad was a renowned doctor, and his grandma was a well-known medical professor. His dad ran a pharmaceutical group ranked among the top three nationwide, and his mom owned more than thirty private hospitals.

He grew up in a wealthy environment. Being a doctor at Hope Hospital was indeed a bit of a raw deal.

"Maybe we'll cross paths in the business world," Caden said with a smile. "Your BellaHealth Innovations is a formidable competitor to the Newton Group."

At this, Romeo's eyes landed on Arabella. She founded BellaHealth Innovations?

She never mentioned this before.

Caden knew about it, and he was in the dark!

He was taken aback!

Chapter 623

Noticing Romeo's gaze, Arabella lowered her head, her expression a bit awkward, not expecting to be busted again.

"You better buckle down and learn about the corporation's operations management, Business is a battle field, and I won't go easy."

Caden chuckled, his voice charming. "Right, you should be happy too. I believe Romeo will take good care of you. Nothing more to say so you hang up first."

He wanted to chat with her more but feared she might find it annoying.

After hanging up, Arabella was the first to speak up. "I didn't know who you were back then, so I 'stole' your deal. Well, it wasn't exactly stealing."

Half a year ago, she used some tricks to get the pharmaceutical factory, which was supposed to cooperate with McMillan Corporation, to switch sides and work with her instead.

Romeo always hated when people went back on their word, so that factory was in quite a pickle.

"How many secrets do you still have that I'm not aware of?" Romeo was also glad he didn't make a move on BellaHealth Innovations back then, or he would be in deep water now.

“Now you can only be with me, who else do you want to be with?”

Arabella thought for a moment and said, “Has the new maid arrived yet? How about I cook you lunch?”

Of course, there was a condition. He had to drive her back to school after the meal.

Romeo noticed her scheme. Willing to cook as a bargaining chip meant something or someone important was waiting for her at school?

“My cooking skills aren’t too shabby and you should consider it carefully. Don’t let this opportunity slip through your fingers!” To speed up his decision, Arabella started to count down, “Three, two,”

“Okay.”

Arabella smiled. She knew he would agree.

Romeo: After lunch, he would like to see why she was in such a hurry to get back to school!

Arabella quickly cooked three dishes and a bowl of soup, handing him the dinnerware and saying, “Taste it.”

Chapter 624

Her dishes might look plain, but they’re super scrummy.

Romeo took a bite then his eyes lit up. He didn’t expect Arabella’s cooking to be such a hit.

“Yum, Romeo complimented, “Is this your new party trick? Cooking?”

“Nope.”

Arabella hadn’t exactly earned any Michelin stars, but she had a grandpa who used to be a big shot banquet chef, and he passed on all his tricks to her.

He taught her so she could whip up something nice for him whenever she had free time. Back then, she worked so hard to learn that she almost sliced her hand off. Just thinking about it made her tired.

“I guess you’ve been roughing it, eating at my place.”

Serena gave a small smile and gracefully responded, “Oh, stop it. There are plenty of people more beautiful than me.”

“Serena! How can we mere mortals live if you say that?” A girl immediately clung to her hand and whined, “The daughter of the nation’s wealthiest man calling herself ordinary. Did you think about how we ordinary people would feel when you said that?”

“Exactly! Serena, you’re being too modest!”

Several girls chimed in, showering her with compliments.

“If you’re ordinary, why would Romeo propose to you? Men are all about the looks!”

“Your parents are loaded, and you’re calling yourself ordinary.”

“And the key point is that you’re so pretty, with such good skin. Look at me, I stayed up late last night and woke up with a little pimple this morning.”

Just as Serena was wondering how to show off her skincare products, the conversation swung in that direction, and she immediately pulled out a bottle of flawless serum from her bag.

Chapter 625

“Here you go: Serena handed it over with elegance and grace, smiling as she spoke, “This product works wonders. Just apply it on your pimple, and by the next day, it will shrink!”

The girl gaped in surprise at the brand of the serum: “Serena, this is from SV and a tiny bottle costs hundreds of dollars. You’re just giving it away so casually. This is beyond rich!”

Serena had seen this reaction coming so she gently smiled and said, “My parents bought me too many. I have around eight or nine bottles of this serum at home. I can’t finish them all, and it’s a waste if they expire”

Every word she spoke just screamed wealth.

“Your family is loaded!” the girl exclaimed, green with envy.

Exactly the effect Serena was aiming for. She maintained her smile and said, “Take it and use it! Don’t be shy. If you get a chance, come visit Summerfield College. I’ll treat you guys to a meal”

Arabella kept filming their faces and even started critiquing: “Your skin is clearly dehydrated, what good will slathering on skincare products do?” One of the girls started panicking, subconsciously touching her face. How did Arabella know she wasn’t using any hydrating products?

No wonder her skin was still dry despite all the skincare products. So she needed to hydrate first, but how did Arabella know?

“Your complexion doesn’t look so good. Have you been having indigestion lately?” Arabella started assessing another girl and said, “Eat less unhealthy food and drink more water. And you? What are you laughing at? Look at the pimples on your face. Instead of blocking the path here, why don’t you guys go take better care of your skin? You’re only freshmen

Hearing Arabella’s words, one of the girls actually stepped aside, pulling out a mirror to look at her own face.

Noreen was fuming, but before she could say anything, Arabella had already strutted past them.

“Arabella, the Enid you bullied yesterday is my cousin! I’m warning you I won’t forget what you did to her! I’ll definitely get you back for this! Just you wait!”

Arabella hadn’t expected Enid and Noreen to be related. Their personalities were strikingly similar.

Chapter 626

Next morning, all the freshmen headed to the temporary training base set up on the back hill for some belly crawling drills.

As soon as Arabella arrived at the base, a bunch of classmates greeted her enthusiastically.

“Good morning, Bella.”

“Bella, you made it.”

Arabella was left with question marks floating around her head. Did she know them?

“Bella, thanks for giving us a day off yesterday.”

“We had the AC on all day in our dorm yesterday, it was bliss,”

“Thanks for dealing with Noreen!”

A crowd of strangers surrounded Arabella, complimenting her on her skin and how pretty she was, all with friendly facès.

These were the same guys who had been singing her praises earlier.

One of the instructors spotted a student fanning himself and took a shot, leaving Arabella speechless.

“Don’t make big movements; follow my lead.”

Under Arabella’s guidance, her team of seven or eight students made good progress.

Up on the watchtower.

A stem-faced man held a pair of binoculars, surveying the scene below.

“Minister, have you spotted your sister?”

“How was he supposed to pick her out from this crowd?”

“It’s too hard on a girl to train in this scorching heat. Some people just don’t know how to be considerate to women.

A few subordinates murmured behind Chasel, who gripped his binoculars tightly.

He couldn’t tell which one was his sister. He had asked David earlier, but David just played coy, saying the most beautiful student in the whole school was her!

He scanned the field, seeing only a sea of crawling figures. He couldn’t tell who was who.

Chapter 627

“Minister you’re too eager Wouldn’t it be better to wait until she’s resting to go say hi?”

“Have a drink first. Maybe your sister got hit by the paintball gun and has already gone back to restart.”

Jinx Can his sister be an ordinary person? Even if everyone else gets hit, she won’t!”

“Even when you’re sucking up, you’ve got to stick to the facts”

“Look, a girl got the red flag at the finish line first!”

A slender and beautiful figure grabbed the red flag at the finish line. It seemed to be a girl.

Arabella stopped the others while beginning to check their water cups one by one. Only the water of the four of them in the dormitory had problems. Everyone else’s water was clean.

Only targeting the four of them?

You don’t have to think about it to know who did it!

After a while.

Noreen and a few girls walked toward them, they all looked very tired.

I didn’t expect Arabella to be so far ahead of us, they wouldn’t notice the water problem, would they?”

“Have they drunk the water?”

“Noreen, if the problem is exposed, will people find out we did it?”

Before the last girl finished her sentence, Noreen glared at her, scaring her into silence immediately.

Chapter 628

The drug was something that Noreen had smuggled in, there's no way anything could go wrong with it.

As long as Arabella and her crew took it, they wouldn't remember a thing, even if they got beaten black and blue. Thinking of this, a smug grin spread across Noreen's face.

In the lounge area, Arabella was sipping water, her long neck tilted upward

Her movements were graceful and pleasing to the eye, like scenes from a well-edited movie.

Not only the boys, but the girls sitting next to Noreen were also mesmerized.

There's no denying it. Arabella was stunning, and every move she made was captivating.

Im so thirsty Kelly finished her water and looked at Arabella. 'Bella, let's get some more water, it's so hot !'

They would wait until the girls passed out before making their move, otherwise, if they screamed, it could attract attention. Time was ticking away, a minute had passed!

Noreen lifted her head, her smug smile was about to break out, but then she noticed Arabella was already standing! What the hell? The drug wore off that fast?

“I got it on camera!” Joyce, who had supposedly fainted, checked her phone and exclaimed excitedly, “Perfect!”

Not only Arabella, but the other three girls also stood as if nothing had happened, looking at Noreen with interest. Noreen was stunned!

“You didn’t drink the water in the bottle? Impossible!!”

Noreen had clearly seen them drink it, especially Kelly, she had finished all the water in her transparent cup! “Noreen, did the drug not work?”

But it looked like Arabella and her crew had seen through her plot.

Looks like Joyce got everything on tape.”

In the video, Noreen confessed to drugging their water

“Whatever”

Chapter 629

“No security cameras around here, Noreen commanded. “Go beat them up and snatch that phone to delete the video!”

If things got to the supervisor, she just had to cry a river and deny everything!

No cameras here and no one knew the truth It all depended on what they said!

“Bit off more than you can chew” Arabella glanced at her friends, signaling them to step back, then casually looked at Noreen and her crew. “Bring it on.”

She didn’t want to waste time.

“Ignorance is bliss!” In the past couple of days, Noreen had been learning some handy tricks from her brother and was ready to show them off. But seeing her friends being taken down by Arabella one by one, her skills obviously weren’t up to scratch.

Unexpectedly, Noreen's apology was fake. She's such a snake!

Did Arabella realize that Noreen had hidden the hairpin in her hand and was pretending to apologize to slash her face?

With just one kick, Noreen was sent flying a few meters away, crashing into a tree before tumbling onto the ground and even coughing up blood.

Now, Noreen's friends were completely shell-shocked.

"Noreen, are you okay?"

"Arabella, you've gone too far! You actually kicked Noreen until she spat out blood!"

"Do you know who Noreen is? Have you heard of the Winters family of Summerfield? They're tight with the McMillans! I'm telling you, today you not only offended the Winters family but also the McMillans. "Noreen, don't be scared. I'll take you to the health center now. Her friends also hurriedly nodded in agreement.

“You!” Belinda gripped the armrest of the sofa, clearly furious.

“What we need to resolve now is the matter of Arabella’s bullying.” The director didn’t dare offend either party, so he could only choose to deal with Arabella and her gang. “Can you guys tell me clearly what happened?”

At that moment, Chasel was leading a few people towards the director’s office.

“Boss, do we really need to meddle in this?”

The boss was using a telescope to look for his sister when he suddenly saw a few girls surrounding another four girls.

Those four girls were almost all on the ground, with one leaning against a tree, looking quite uncomfortable.
