Chapter 631

Chasel took a closer look. Wasn't that the doctor who saved 7731 at the hospital last night, leaning against the tree trunk?

She was a dead ringer for the doctor from last night, both in face and figure!

It looked like she'd been set up and drugged. The three girls with her were all over the place.

Worried for their safety, Chasel put down his binoculars to go check on them, but by the time he got there, it was too late. All that was left on the grass was a pool of blood, the people were gone.

After some questioning, they learned that a girl had been beaten until she spit blood and had been rushed to the school's medical room.

He rushed to the school's medical room, only to be told that the girl had been taken to the director's office.

So they were now hurrying to the director's office.

On the way, Chasel kept wondering: could the girl who was beaten up be the doctor who saved 7731 last night?

The director frowned, looking at this girl who exuded a cold aura. He was displeased.

“If you hadn’t kicked someone until they vomited blood, would Belinda have come to us? You have the nerve to demand an apology! You won’t apologize? Fine, you all get a major demerit, write” 10,000–word self–reflection, and pay for the medical expenses! Call your parents to come apologize!”

“We are not satisfied with your handling of the situation, please give me back my phone.” Joyce reached out her hand, hoping the director would hand over the phone.

“You plan to use this video to complain about me to my superior? So scheming at such a young age!”

That’s her phone! Is it wrong for her to want it back?

“If you don’t do as I say, you can forget about staying at this school!” The director said it sternly, turning his head away.

Belinda was still softly comforting her daughter.

Everyone turned to look at the source of the voice, and a righteous–figure walked in.

Chapter 632

He’s a real looker, handsome as hell, and the ladies in the office can’t help but gawk. He’s really hot!

When did they get such a stud in school? He looked so young.

Arabella was the first to recognize him. Was it the same guy who invited her to join the Ministry of State Security last night? What a coincidence!

Noreen struggled to shout out a name: “Chasel?”

She’d seen him a few times at big gatherings before and was totally smitten by his charm.

Technically, she should be calling him ‘big brother’ due to their age difference.

Belinda also recognized him and asked gently, ‘Is that you, Chasel? What brings you here?’

Looking behind him, there were several young men with distinguished demeanors, each radiating a sense of justice.

If she hadn't drugged someone's water bottle and then ganged up on them, there wouldn't have been a fight.

Belinda's face changed. Was Chasel here to defend Arabella?

Did they know each other?

At this point, Noreen was taken aback. A name suddenly flashed through her mind: Arabella Collins!

Could Arabella and Chasel be from the same family? Were they siblings?

She instinctively grabbed her mother's hand, but Belinda didn't understand where her fear was coming from. Out of instinct, Belinda asked, "What do you mean, Chasel?"

'Drugging a classmate's drink. Do you really think Ms. Enid shouldn't be the first to apologize for such a despicable act, Belinda?"

Just listen to the way he's defending her!

Noreen's unease grew. Did they really know each other?

But Arabella's face didn't give anything away as to whether she knew Chasel or not.

Then a slender figure walked into the office.

Chapter 633

"It's quite the party in here, huh?"

Everyone turned at the sound of the voice. It was Romeo!

Both Joyce and Mya knew that Romeo was Arabella's fiancée and breathed a sigh of relief.

It was clear as day that Romeo had come to stand up for Arabella.

But Belinda was in the dark about this. She thought Romeo was here because of the incident. Their families were always on good terms, and her father-in-law had saved Romeo's father years ago. So it made sense that Romeo would step in when he heard that Noreen was being bullied

With this in mind, Belinda stood up immediately and addressed him in an unusually friendly manner. "Romeo, what brings you here?"

"I heard someone's been picking on my people."

Where was he putting Serena?

Did he know that Serena was a fake heiress and decided not to marry her?

What was Serena's reaction? Did she agree?

Chasel's subordinates were also shocked: "Oh my God, what's going on? The minister is still here, and the future brother-in-law is having an affair?" At that moment, an urgent voice reached everyone's ears.

"Who's bullying who?"

Everyone turned again, and it was Louisa. She was the wife of the country's richest man!

Kenneth Collins, her husband, was with her!

The two of them had obviously walked briskly to get here and were a little out of breath.

Seeing that even Louisa had arrived, Belinda was completely confused and asked instinctively, "Mrs. Collins, what brings you here?"

"I heard my daughter is being bullied. Who did it?" Louisa scanned the room and suddenly noticed her son. "What are you doing here?"

Chapter 634

Romeo just noticed Chasel in the corner. The place was packed when he first walked in, so he didn't have the chance to take a good look around.

He had heard that Chasel worked at the Ministry of State Security and held a high-ranking position, so he rarely had time to go home. So, was he here for Arabella?

Chasel shot Romeo a somewhat disgruntled look, but he first responded to his parents' questions.

"I'm just here to bear witness. What brings you guys here?"

His parents had been nagging him to come home and see his sister lately, had they really tracked him down here for this?

When Arabella

heard Chasel refer to Kenneth and Louisa as his parents, she raised an eyebrow. So, the head of the Ministry of State Security was her brother?

but the Collins couple and even Romeo had come to help Arabella!

Her stupid daughter was about to ruin the future of the Winters family today!

The Winters family was done for!

With that thought, Belinda raised her hand and slapped her daughter hard.

A crisp sound echoed throughout the office, and everyone turned to look at Noreen.

Noreen looked at her mother in disbelief.

Her mother had always spoiled her and never had the heart to scold her.

"You dumbass! Yes, Arabella is pretty, but even if you want to take close-up photos of her to show your plastic surgeon, you can't drug her drink! Look at the mess you've made!"

Noreen's eyes widened: Plastic surgery? To look like Arabella? She couldn't believe her mother was pulling this kind of lie.

She really was her mother's daughter.

Chapter 635

"Bella just hurt you and she's showing you mercy, man. She could've gone for the kill, but she held back!"

After Belinda finished scolding, she put on a smile, turning to Louisa and saying, "Mrs. Collins, I'm really sorry. All this mess is my daughter's fault. I apologize." Belinda bent over in apology, showing a sincere attitude.

"I didn't raise my kid right, I share the blame. I hope you and Mr. Collins can find it in your hearts to give us another chance."

“So this is how the Winters family handles things?”

Before Louisa could answer, a cold glint flashed in Romeo’s eyes. “Bullying my fiancée, then trying to brush it off with a slap on the wrist and an apology? Who knew it was that easy?”

Belinda kept her head low. Hearing Romeo’s words, she got the message. She quickly turned to her daughter and scolded, “What are you standing there for? Hurry up and apologize to Ms. Bella!”

Noreen knew all too well the repercussions of crossing the McMillans and the Collins. Her actions could potentially affect her entire family.

Noreen was reluctant to leave Westerly College, but her mother had made her decision. She could only bow her head and silently cry, accepting her fate.

“She indeed needs strict discipline.” Romeo said coldly, “Belinda, if you wait any longer, you won’t be able to control her.”

“Yes.” Belinda responded humbly, “Mr. McMillan is absolutely right.”

“Control your daughter, and don’t let her hurt my sister again.”

This was the first time Chasel referred to her as a sister, with a strange sense of affection and pampering!

Arabella respectfully said, “I respect my brother’s thoughts.”

Hearing this, Chasel's eyebrows lifted in happiness. His sister was so well-behaved, so understanding, so adorable!

His subordinates wanted to say: Wake up, she already kicked someone until they vomited blood.

Chapter 636

Some random guy nearby: Why listen to Chasel instead of fiancé? He seemed a bit jelly!

"Since Belinda is going to take the kid home and educate him, we shouldn't get in the way." After Louisa finished speaking, she suddenly asked, "Oh, by the way, you say that Arabella kicked your child till she vomited blood?"

did

"No way." Belinda laughed gently, not angry at all. "It might be because of a gastric ulcer or acute gastritis that my child vomited blood. I'll have the doctor check it out later."

"So, she was sick." Louisa nodded thoughtfully and said, "Alright, make sure the doctor checks her thoroughly."

Many reproachful eyes fell on the director, who was stunned for two seconds, then immediately said indignantly, "I've seen the video. The nature of this incident is very bad. Expulsion is a must!"

Joyce, Mya, and Kelly were angry. Why hadn't he mentioned this before?

"As the director, I'll personally handle Ms. Enid's expulsion procedure, no favoritism!" The director hurriedly ran out, afraid that if he was a bit late, he would also be in trouble.

This huge revelation left Jerome standing there, completely stunned.

Romeo looked at the male instructor in front of him, they were about the same age. Was he trying to pursue his fiancé?

Arabella was in trouble, and this instructor was worried?

Thinking this, Romeo coldly asked, "Which team are you from?"

Chasel also stepped forward with a tough attitude, asking, "Which regiment are you from?"

Romeo and Chasel asked in unison, "What's your name?"

Faced with the simultaneous interrogation of the two men, Jerome was completely panicked. He had never experienced such a scene.

He couldn't help thinking: just how powerful was Arabella's network of connections, and why hasn't any one come to rescue him, the poor instructor, yet?

He didn't want to be an instructor anymore, it was too scary!

Chapter 637

He looked at Arabella, hoping she could help.

Romeo immediately asked, "Isn't my fiancée beautiful?"

Did he even dare to look?

"Is my sister someone you can just stare at?"

Jerome screamed, "Help! Can someone save me?"

Then he finally understood why Lieutenant Colonel Capra personally told him to look after Arabella and stressed that he should take good care of her.

He couldn't offend either the McMillian family or the Collins family.

Just as Arabella was about to speak, one of Chasel's men recognized Jerome and spoke up for him, "Sir, he's my friend. He's gay and has a partner! He wouldn't have any inappropriate thoughts about Arabella!"

Only then did Louisa seem to notice her, glancing at her waist. "Why are you always bending over? You're not young anymore; it's not good if you accidentally twist something."

Belinda knew Louisa was deliberately making her bend over, but she didn't dare say anything.

"I feel very ashamed for what my daughter has done. How can I have the face to stand up?"

"Alright, since my daughter won't pursue this anymore, you can go home."

Upon hearing that, Belinda quickly bowed to Arabella and apologized again before standing up straight and leaving with Noreen.

At that point, Noreen's friends came forward to apologize to Arabella individually.

Considering that Noreen was the one who drugged the drink, Arabella didn't make it hard for them. However, Kelly sternly warned them that if they dared to stir up trouble in the future, their fate would be worse than Noreen's!

The girls hadn't seen such a spectacle before and nodded quickly, their faces full of gratitude.

Kelly asked them to keep that a secret and not leak any information about that day. The girls hurriedly agreed.

Oh my, they wouldn't dare talk about such an embarrassing incident.

Chapter 638

Kelly finally let them be

Revealing Bella's identity now could cause a lot of unnecessary trouble since it was still under wraps. Kelly and Bella had a lot to do and couldn't afford to blow their cover then.

Of course, Bella agreed with that.

The director remembered something, quickly pulled out a phone from his pocket, and handed it to Joyce. He laughed and said, "Joyce, I forgot to give this back to you earlier. I just stuffed it in my pocket"

Joyce rolled her eyes and said, "I don't buy it!"

"Bella, you guys go ahead. I need to have a chat with the director." Louisa turned her gaze to the director.

The director wanted to cry but had no choice but to personally entertain her and Kenneth, inviting them to sit down.

Chasel said that and pulled out a card from his pocket, apologizing, "I've been on a mission lately and couldn't come home in time. I'm sorry. I didn't mean to neglect you."

The mission he was on was a top-secret national assignment. He couldn't tell anyone about it and couldn't reveal his identity.

Kenneth and Louisa still had no idea what kind of missions he had been on, how many injuries he had had, and how much hardship he had endured.

The danger involved was also unimaginable to others.

Chasel said, "I just returned to the country last night and haven't had time to go shopping yet. This is my card; buy whatever you want."

Arabella thought, "Another card? Is this the way her family shows their love, by handing out cards and money?!"

"Thanks, bro. I appreciate the gesture, but I don't need the card." Arabella didn't take it.

Arabella knew very well how dangerous his job was and how much caution was needed. She guessed the money on the card might be hard-earned.

"You must accept it. If you don't, it means you don't see me as your brother." Chasel really wanted her to accept, but when Arabella didn't make a move, Chasel couldn't help but say, "You still see me as a stranger?"

Still, Arabella gently declined.

Chapter 639

"Guess I didn't have time to pick out a gift for you, my bad. Did the card make you think I wasn't sincere enough?" Before Arabella could answer, Chasel said, "Just take it for now. I promise I'll personally pick out your gifts next time, and there will be more, not less!"

Arabella was amused by Chasel's words; she didn't expect him to be so funny.

Chasel grabbed her arm and insisted on her taking the card. He then realized that he had grabbed onto Arabella's hand as well.

The card was forcibly shoved into Arabella's hand.

Mya and Joyce on the side felt unbelievable!

Arabella was a bit helpless. She hadn't touched any of the cards her big brother and David gave her, and then she got one more from Chasel.

"There's my good little sis." Chasel's eyes softened.

The people around them were stunned. They had never seen the minister so tender and indulgent, so cool, so charming!

Then he also got to pat Arabella's head. It felt so good!

Chasel sent his own phone number over, "This is my number. Save it. I will call you often when I have time."

Often??

"If I don't answer your call or reply to your message one day, it's definitely because I'm on a mission. I will reply as soon as I see it." He said that in advance to avoid any misunderstandings in the future.

Mya and Joyce didn't understand what Chasel meant by "on a mission" but it sounded very formidable and mysterious.

Arabella nodded and said, "Be careful."

The Ministry of State Security was a place full of danger and pressure.

Her brother becoming a minister was really not easy.

"I'm only here for four days this time, and I hope I can spend all these days with you."

Chapter 640

After Chasel finished speaking, he made a silent vow to buy a gift for his sister later, hoping to leave a good impression on her.

Romeo thought, "Four days! So what is going to do?"

At that point, Chasel's gaze fell on Romeo, with a look of probing in his eyes.

"Bella, why don't you chat with your classmates for a while? I need to talk to Romeo about something."

Arabella, of course, knew what he meant, so she nodded and patted him, saying, "Have a good chat."

Arabella's words left Chasel slightly confused. Did his sister want him to be nicer and more polite to Romeo?

Was she trying to protect that guy? Was he overthinking things?

Chasel looked at him. With his status and identity, he had so many choices. Could he really promise to marry only Arabella in his lifetime?

It wasn't that Chasel lacked confidence in his sister or thought she wasn't good enough for Romeo. He was just worried about her investing too much in the relationship.

Romeo always had to consider Arabella, not just get overly intimate because of his infatuation at that time.

"Bella can affect my emotions; she is very important to me. Sometimes wish she could grow up sooner and graduate sooner, so I can give her a grand wedding letting everyone know she's my wife, Romeo's wife. I want everyone to witness our happiness, and I want to keep her by my side through marriage. You may not believe how afraid I am of losing her."

That statement surprised Chasel. Romeo could be afraid too? What in this world could he be afraid of?

“There are many women in this world, many young and beautiful women, and there will be more in the future. But only she can make me go crazy and obsessed.” Romeo’s words were heartfelt and sincere, “To me, she is really important.”

“Important enough to make you give up your status and position?” Chasel looked into his eyes, seemingly waiting for an answer.

Romeo laughed and responded, “If I could use all my status and position to get her, then I would be making a profit.”
