

The Princess and the Pauper (Arabella)

Chapter 989

Chapter 989

Meanwhile, charities overseas were hitting the headlines, and as their popularity grew, some discovered that the same high-profile figures were pulling the strings behind these organizations. Not only were they fabricated in the field of charity, but they were also found to be fraudulent and corrupt in other matters.

Several involved individuals were suspended and under investigation.

This whirlwind of controversy swept across multiple countries, causing an uproar.

The Gellar family.

“Dad, you wanted to see me?”

At this moment, Myrna entered the study of their mansion and couldn't help but ask this question as she looked at the composed and cultured man sitting in the chair.

“Myrna.”

The man in the chair emanated a powerful aura, yet he looked easy-going. He spoke to her in a kind and gentle tone, “Have you completed your tasks?”

Myrna was taken aback. Usually, her father wouldn't inquire about her work.

Nevertheless, she nodded, “I just got home, and you called me in. Is something the matter?”

“Doesn't Chasel have a sister named Arabella?” Aaron cut straight to the chase.

Surprised at her father's question, Myrna nodded, somewhat puzzled, “Yes, but why?”

Aaron looked at her with admiration in his eyes, “The apple doesn't fall far from the tree. I can tell that Chasel is ambitious. Invite him over to our place when you get a chance.”

A look of surprise and disbelief crossed Myrna's eyes, “Dad, are you okay with us dating??”

Her father used to rarely pry into her work and love life, but now, he was taking the initiative to extend an olive branch, inviting Chasel to their house.

What did Arabella do??

She caught Aaron's attention and even brought Myrna's relationship into the spotlight.

“It's about time you started dating.” Aaron had just finished speaking when his secretary whispered something into his ear. Aaron nodded and waved Myrna out of the room.

Myrna found herself outside the study and then in the living room, unsure of how she got there. Spotting the housekeeper, Phoebe, she hurriedly stopped her, whispering, “Phoebe, has there been anything important happening at home lately?”

Phoebe, who always kept close to Mrs. Gellar and was also the housekeeper, naturally knew a thing or two.

Seeing Myrna's rare, playful side, Phoebe smiled elegantly and answered affectionately, “If we're talking about recent big news in the house, it's that your father is retiring in a month “What does that have to do with Chasel?” Myrna asked, puzzled.

Maintaining her elegant smile, Phoebe reminded her once again, “Chasel is Ms. Bella's biological brother.

“And how does that matter?” Myrna still didn't understand.

Phoebe whispered into her ear again, “All the recent news and the major events were orchestrated by Romeo, the young master of the McMillian family, and Arabella, the daughter of the Collins family-”

Many involved individuals were already under investigation.

Those who could manipulate public opinion both domestically and internationally, bring so many people down, cause such a development without getting their hands dirty, and guide the situation in a better direction, not to mention Romeo's underground power, even Arabella's influence was beginning to draw attention, was indeed powerful.

“All the recent news is related to Bella?” Myrna was stunned. She had indeed noticed recent news online, but she had no idea that it was all related to Bella, let alone that Bella and Romeo had stirred up such a storm behind the scenes.
