Seeing Luna getting in the car, Theo did not have many expressions on his face. He furrowed his brows and looked ahead. He said rather despicably, "Young Master, you picked this woman up against our Lady's wishes, are you sure she won't get angry?" Neil, in a suit, looking noble, sat in the passenger seat in front. He exuded a cold, arrogant, and regal aura, just like Joshua. "Shut up."

Theo paused for a while. He did not speak.

"If none of us let slip, how would she know?"

Neil rested his chin on one hand and looked at Luna calmly through the rearview mirror.

"You know who I am, right?"

Luna, who was wiping herself dry with a towel, paused a little. She pursed her lips, lifted her head, and met with Neil's clear eyes. "We've met before."

He looked at Luna rather praisingly. "Not bad, you could differentiate your son from me."

Then, he crossed his arms and calmly sized Luna up from the rearview mirror.

"The first time I saw your son's photo, I almost suspected I was schizophrenic. How could two people on this earth look so alike?"

Luna pursed her lips and said calmly, "Yes, how could there be such a thing? Unless they are identical twins."

"But your son already has an identical twin, right?" Neil articulated, "Your daughter is also very pretty."

Then, he yawned. He no longer continued that topic with Luna.

"Where are you staying? I'll get my driver to send you home."

Luna knew that Neil no longer remembered his siblings, so she did not press on further.

"Blue Bay Villa."

"What a nice name." Neil rubbed the middle of his brows, like an adult resting with his eyes closed at the passenger seat in front.

"Uncle Theo, do you know where Blue Bay Villa is? Send her home."

“Yes,” Theo responded in a low voice and started driving. From the hospital to Blue Bay Villa, it was quiet in the car. Luna silently sat in the backseat, not saying a word. She understood that Neil no longer remembered the past. If she kept bringing up his family, it would only cause him to resent it. He had already stopped the car, got his servant to get her into the car, and offered to send her home. That was already a major piece of good news to Luna. She could not ask for too much.

On the journey back, she dried her hair with the towel while eagerly looking at the man and child in front through the rearview mirror.

She felt as if she was in a dream. Theo was driving with Neil in the passenger seat next to him.

Half a month ago, Luna would dare not even think about that. There was nothing more exciting and joyful than finding out the two most important people in one’s life reappearing after thinking that one had already lost them.

Half an hour later, the car stopped at the entrance of Blue Bay Villa.

Luna opened the car door. She was about to get out of the car when she suddenly thought of something. She turned to look at Neil.

“Right, I have not even asked you your name.” Neil smiled dashingly. “I’m Jake Landry.”

Luna was stunned. If she remembered correctly, the first time Neil appeared, Christian also said that the name tag on Neil’s hand in the hospital was Jake Landry.

Later on, she and Christian took a huge effort to find Jake Landry only to find out that it was not Neil.

However, at that moment, Neil actually said that he was called Jake Landry?

“Are you shocked that when you looked for Jake Landry in the hospital, it was not me?”

Perhaps he could see through what Luna was thinking about, Neil smiled. “Jake Landry is a very common name.”

Then, he touched his chin and looked at the skies in the distance. At that moment, the heavy rain stopped. The night skies were clear. The air was fresh.

He looked into the distance. "I have once asked why I was named such a common name like Jake. If it were me, I would name myself something much grander and sound much better.

"I should be called Neil, like the clouds, or a champion."

Then, Neil shrugged his shoulders and said resignedly, "But, this idea was rejected. My family said that Jake sounded much better."

Luna was stunned, looking at Neil smiling forcefully. She was extremely heartbroken as if someone had stabbed her in the heart.

Neil.

This was his original name! Even if he had lost his memory, he still remained determined to keep his own name!

Luna wanted to rush forward and hug him. She wanted to tell him that he was Neil, that Neil was his original name!

However, she could not. She knew that it was not the time at that moment. It was not the best time to do so yet. Luna could not alarm Neil nor let Neil doubt his own identity.

If not, if Neil ever got into a fight with Aura, everything would be out of her control already!

Thus, Luna sniffled her nose. "Jake Landry is a nice name too. It has a nice ring to it. It sounds adorable too."

Neil pursed his lips. "I „m a man. Why do I want to sound adorable?"

Then, he suddenly thought of something and immediately took a piece of paper and a pen, passing them to Luna.

"Leave your contact, let"s be friends."

Luna paused for a while, then she directly wrote down her name and phone number.

"Okay, that way, we will be friends from now on.

Goodbye."

When he received the pen and paper from Luna, he waved his hands at Luna and closed the door.

"Uncle Theo, drive."

Theo, who was silent all this while, nodded and drove.

Luna stood outside Blue Bay Villa, looking at that black Bendley leaving. She could no longer hold back her tears.

Luna did not know whether she should be sad that Neil did not remember anything, or happy that even if he lost his memory, he still had a good feeling about her.

If not, why would he get his servants to get her into his car under the heavy rain? Neil was a smart kid. He should know that Aura got him to pretend to be Neil the last time because Aura hated her.

However, out of kindness, he still sent her home on a rainy night. Luna sniffled her nose. It was until the car became a little black dot only then did Luna take a deep breath, wiped away her tears, and went back home.

In the black Bentley.

Neil closed his eyes. He crossed his arms and leaned back on the leather seat, like an arrogant and domineering boss.

"I got you her contact. Whether you could successfully pursue her, it's on you."

Theo nodded silently. His voice was as low as his status. "Thank you, Young Master."

Neil waved his hands. "Uncle Theo, you and I went through fire and water together. Don't need to thank me, but..."

Neil sighed, "I do like that woman quite a lot. I want to get close to her."

When Luna returned home, it was already past 10. "Ms. Luna, why are you drenched?"

Lily immediately rushed forward when she saw Luna returning home. She greeted Luna and sent her into the bathroom.

In the bathtub, Neil's cold and aloof face in the car a moment ago appeared on her mind. Previously, she never thought that Neil looked like Joshua, until seeing him that night...

It turns out that when Neil became cold and arrogant, it was similar to Joshua. Only that one was the adult version while the other was the kid's version.

However, at the thought of Joshua, Luna could not help but think back at the scene where Joshua anxiously carried Fiona to look for a doctor at the hospital.

Luna sighed. If it were not for trying to bring Fiona down to force Aura to personally take action, after that night's events, she did not want to have anything to do with Joshua anymore.

He deserved it for being lied to by Fiona!

After her bath, Luna received a call from Nigel and Nellie. They had already returned to Orchard Manor with Granny Lynch.

Granny Lynch found out about the laxative matter, yet she was not angry.

To put it in her words, what Granny Lynch said was,

"Even I would want to lace her drinks with laxatives, let alone Luna. Let her learn a lesson! "

Also, Granny Lynch mistakenly consuming the laxatives meant for Fiona was a blessing in disguise. It cured her problem of being constipated for days.

Not only was Granny Lynch not angry, but she was also extremely happy, asking when Luna would visit them again. She also said that she wanted to try Luna's Grilled Cajun Shrimp sans peanuts.

"Let's talk about it another time."

Luna sighed and calmly comforted Nigel a little before hanging up. The both of them knowingly avoided mentioning Fiona or Joshua, because they did not know whether Fiona's scheme this time considered a success or a failure.

They had already exposed Fiona for who she was, yet Joshua still remained next to her the entire night, waiting for her to be resuscitated.

After hanging up, Luna slumped on the huge bed, closed her eyes, and fell asleep.

She had a dream.

In her dreams, the children and she were back to the house when they were abroad.

In that small rented house, she was being busy in the kitchen with Neil helping her. In the living area, Nigel was on his laptop on the rug, his fingers flying across the keyboard. Next to him, Nellie was sketching on her sketch board, leaning on the sofa like her brother, sketching a jewelry design.

Neil was busy helping Luna out in the kitchen, while he helplessly looked at his siblings on the sofa.

"You two, come over and help! Mommy works hard! "

Seeing how the both of them barely responded, Neil placed his arms on his waist and said in an adult manner.

“You, especially, Nellie! Nigel is sick, he can’t simply move about and help. You! Why don’t you care a little for me and Mommy?”

Nellie smiled and looked at Neil. “I „m in bad shape too. You’re doing great, Neil! Things like helping Mommy out and taking care of her, we’ll leave it to you, the great one! “

Nigel, next to Nellie, sighed. He closed his laptop shut and stood up. “I’m coming.”

Neil immediately pressed Nigel back down on the sofa.

“Nigel, do your thing. I was just joking! Mommy has me to help her out! It’s more than enough! “

Then, Neil went back to the kitchen and helped Luna out with the cooking. Soon, the meal was done. The family of four sat harmoniously together, having a meal.

Right at that moment, two women appeared at the entrance. One was Aura, the other was Fiona.

Neil’s expression also changed immediately. He turned cold and strange.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1016

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1016

“Hello, my name is Jake Landry.”

Then, he followed Aura. He held her hand tightly and left. Fiona also led a group of men, taking Nigel and Nellie away.

Luna panicked when her three children were taken away. She knew that she was no match for the group of men around Fiona, so she could only chase after Neil.

“Neil! Neil! It’s me, Mommy! “

Neil smiled and broke free of Aura’s clutch. He ran over and hugged Luna. Then, Luna’s heart was suddenly in excruciating pain! The knife in Neil’s hand pierced through her heart.

“Neil! “

Luna opened her eyes in fear. She realized it was only a dream. However, the dream was so real that even though she was already awake, she still clutched her chest with both hands in a daze.

She thought about Neil in the passenger seat the night before, asking for her name in all seriousness.

She felt as if someone squeezed her heart tightly. It hurt. She knew that she still had a long way to go to get Neil back to her side and recover his memory. Thus, she could not give up just like that. She should not feel that the effort that she put in was futile just because Joshua cared for Fiona a lot. Even if Joshua liked Fiona a lot, time after time of failed manipulation and scheming on Fiona's side would make Joshua lose interest in her! As long as Luna worked hard and did what needed to be done, she would be able to let Joshua see Fiona's true colors sooner or later! By then, Fiona would no longer be able to help Aura. Flushing Aura out would make finding Theo and Neil even easier! At that thought, Luna took a deep breath. She wanted to get down from her bed when her phone rang.

It was from Aura. Looking at the phone number, Fiona furrowed her brows. Was Fiona not in resuscitation the night before? How did she come around so quickly that she could even call Luna herself?

However, Luna had no intention of picking up the phone. She could guess that if she picked up the phone, Fiona would arrogantly tell her about how Joshua did nothing much to her. Fiona might even put on an act about how much in love they were in front of Luna.

Luna sneered and threw her phone to the side. She turned around and went to wash up. She did not want to pick Fiona's call up the first thing in the morning to ruin her mood.

She still had to fight hard to bring Fiona down to continue looking for Aura. For Neil's sake!

The phone rang for a long time with no one picking up.

On the other end of the line, Fiona furrowed her brows in annoyance. In the end, she suppressed her dissatisfaction and called again patiently. No one picked up still.

After a while, she finally gave up. Fiona kept her phone and looked at Joshua aggrievedly.

"Joshua, Luna's not picking up my phone. Don't worry, I will continue calling her today. If she still does not pick my phone up, I will look for her personally! I will..."

Looking at Joshua's cold back, her voice was rather croaky and she sounded aggrieved. "I will beg for Luna's forgiveness."

"You don't have to waste your time."

Joshua's voice was flat. "Although this is not Banyan City's best hotel, the environment and service are still great. You'll stay here for the time being. I'll get Lucas to send your things over from the Orchard Manor today. You don't have to return there in the future."

Tears instantly fell from Fiona's face upon Joshua's words.

"Joshua, I have been with you for so long. I was always obedient! It was only a small mistake last night. C-Can't you forgive me?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1017

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1017

"A small matter?"

Joshua turned around. His deep, endless gaze bore into Fiona. "If Luna did not predict what you were about to do last night and intentionally added lots of crushed peanuts into the Grilled Cajun Shrimp, do you know what the ending would be!?"

He slowly approached Fiona. His voice was as cold and sharp as his tone. "You were the one that prepared the poison. You knew that it would kill an elderly! "

Joshua reached out and clasped Fiona's chin. His gaze was so cold it could freeze Antarctica over. "I never had a mother since I was young. My dad was always not around. I was brought up by my grandmother.

"Granny Lynch used to dislike Luna. She used to dislike all the women by my side, but even if they were being targeted by Granny Lynch, they would never think to kill an eighty-year-old elderly woman!

"Fiona, I always thought that you were kind and gentle. How could you do such a thing? This time, you dared to do such a thing to the elderly to frame Luna. If I don't send you away and let you continue staying with Granny Lynch and the children, who would be your next victim?"

Joshua flung her away violently. "Because you saved Nigel before, the Lynch family owe you a life, so I won't announce to the public that you and I had split up and you have moved out, to let you have some dignity.

"If you think that this is just a small matter and you can't even see what you have done wrong, I should just send you back abroad to where you should be! “

Then, Joshua turned and left.

Fiona bit her lips and immediately got up from the sofa. She ran to the entrance and grabbed Joshua’s arms.

“Joshua! “ Tears streamed down her face. “Joshua, you can’t treat me that way...

“Have you forgotten, you swore that you would accompany me till the end of my life. I’m a sick patient, you can’t...”

“Huh.” Joshua flung her hand away coldly. He did not even bother turning his head back. He said, “ Fiona, if you’re not a terminal illness patient, if I have never promised you, do you think you’ll still be here staying at a hotel under my name?

“The Lynch family does owe you indeed, but not to the extent where you could joke about my grandmother’s life!

“If you would be obedient and good in the future, I would still leave you some basic respect. I won’t let the public know that you and I had already split up. If not, you know the consequences! “

Then, Joshua stormed off.

Looking at Joshua leaving coldly and determinedly. Fiona could no longer pretend to hold on. She slumped and fell to the ground.

How could this have happened?

Her plan was supposed to be flawless. Why would Luna guess that she would drug Granny Lynch and do so many preparations in advance?

She should be the one fanning the flames in front of Joshua that day, taking care of Granny Lynch while sending Luna into prison...

However....

Fiona gritted her teeth and immediately picked up her phone and dialed a number.

“My plan was so perfect, how did it leak? Did your men leak it to Luna?”

The woman on the other end of the call laughed at Fiona. At that moment, Aura was sitting in front of the French windows at the hotel. She gently played with the teacup in her hands. Her voice was elegant yet aloof.

“You were the one that treated Luna as a fool. How could you blame me? I only provided you with the drug. I never told you that Luna was an idiot that you could manipulate easily. If you have the time to blame me, why don't you have a good look at yourself in the mirror? Look at how stupid you are."

Then, Aura yawned and said flatly, "Fiona Blake. You should know that in the diagnosis by Robert Jenson's team, you only have a year left to live."

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1018

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1018

"Two months have already passed. If you don't quickly get pregnant with Joshua's child...

"When the time comes and you're not dead yet, even the gods would not be able to help you."

Then, Aura hung up the phone coldly.

After the conversation, she placed her phone in the hands of the person next to her. A child's hand reached out and accepted the phone. Neil looked at the screen of the woman's phone seriously and wiped it. Then, he placed the phone tidily back into the wooden box on the table.

Looking at Neil's action, Aura picked up her teacup and took a sip in satisfaction. "Jake, where did you go during the heavy rain last night?"

Neil lowered his gaze and replied respectfully, "I got Uncle Theo to take me out for a ride. You said that Banyan City is dangerous. I should not be seen by others, but, after all, I'm only a six-year-old child, I would get curious. So, last night, while it's dark and raining heavily, I got Uncle Theo to take me for a ride. Because the rain was so heavy, there was no one on the road. I did not see anyone either."

Aura calmly smiled and nodded. "This cannot happen again."

Neil nodded seriously. "Hmm! "

Then, he hesitated for a while before asking, "The couple whose son looks exactly like me... What is your relationship with them?"

Aura narrowed her eyes and looked at the busy traffic in the city down below through the window.

"Enemies."

Luna washed up and headed downstairs for breakfast. After breakfast, she comfortably cleaned the house together with Lily. When she finished everything, while sitting on the sofa eating fruits out of boredom only then did she suddenly recall her phone was still upstairs.

Because she received a call from Fiona that morning, she felt that her phone was an unlucky object, so she just threw it aside by her nightstand and ignored it.

A few hours have passed since then.

When she picked up her phone once again, there were more than 10 missed calls.

Other than three or four missed calls from Fiona, there were calls from Anne and Bonnie too.

Bonnie's missed calls were the most, there were at least 10 of them!

Luna furrowed her brows and was about to return Bonnie's call when Bonnie's call came once again.

"My God! I finally reached you!" Bonnie, on the other end of the call, let out a long sigh of relief.

"If I still can't get hold of you, I am going to go straight to Blue Bay Villa!"

"Luna, do you remember you told me to help you get Dr. Robert Jensen's medical team?"

Upon hearing Robert's name, Luna was immediately alert. "What? Are they willing to come to Banyan City?"

"Of course!" Bonnie sounded happy.

"Luna, do you think this is fated? This is such a surprise! Turns out the person who booked Robert's team at a high price was from Banyan City!"

"Dr. Robert has brought his team to Banyan City! They are staying at my Yacht Club Hotel!"

"It'll be easier to do what you want to do now that they are so near! Do you want to come to my hotel to look for them?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1019

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1019

Luna was so excited she almost jumped! Robert's team was actually at Banyan City!

Coincidentally, they were also staying at Bonnie's hotel!

"I'll come over now!"

Then, Luna immediately hung up and changed into formal yet decent clothes.

Luna roughly knew the reason Robert's team gave Fiona a fake medical certificate. Last night, at the hospital, Christian sent a few voice messages to her.

Although Christian's voice was rather muffled, Luna roughly understood what happened.

Back then, Violet Lewis, who was accidentally pushed down the building by Christian, as well as her father who died in the accident, were both resuscitated by Robert!

Robert was a famous doctor, yet he failed to save them both.

This was a huge scandal for the hospital at that time, so the hospital spent a huge effort to cover that incident up.

Even Robert's current wife did not know that Robert failed to save the both of them.

Because of that, Luna speculated that Robert's team giving Fiona a fake medical certificate had something to do with Violet and her father's death.

After all, after Violet and Shaun passed away, Robert immediately married Janice Yale, who was more than 10 years younger than him.

Robert benefited the most from this.

Thinking about that, Luna's taxi had already arrived at the Yacht Club Hotel.

When Bonnie saw her, she immediately approached Luna and rolled her eyes at her.

"Why won't you listen to me finish talking? I told you that Robert and his team are staying at my hotel and I asked you if you want to take this opportunity, but I didn't ask you to come now!"

Bonnie helplessly raised her finger with bejeweled fingernails and poked Luna's head.

"The news of Robert's team arriving at Banyan City has spread all over the medical world in Banyan City. Robert's team barely checked in when they were whisked away. They're Central Hospital giving a talk right now. I'm not sure when they will be back. Only their family members are in the hotel right now."

Bonnie sighed and continued, "I also asked their family members. Is the big boss that hired them not anxious to get them over to treat them?"

"Guess what they said? They said that the big boss arranged for tomorrow, so they had today to themselves."

Bonnie pulled Luna into the hotel, walking while grumbling angrily, "Back then, when I got them to take some time to come over, they were extremely unwilling! Yet they dare say they have time for themselves now! "

Looking at how undignified Bonnie was, Luna could not help but laugh.

"Don't get angry. Them being in Banyan City is a good outcome." Bonnie also sighed and turned to look at Luna, " Then, do you want to head back home first? I don't know when they will return."

Luna shook her head and sat down on the sofa in the lobby. "I „ll just wait for them here." Luna was afraid the moment she went home they would return. She would rather waste her time waiting there than miss the opportunity to meet Robert Jenson's medical team.

This was because she had a feeling that she would not be able to get him to tell the truth just by meeting him once. This was a long battle and Luna was ready for it.

Bonnie initially wanted to persuade Luna to go back, but seeing how serious Luna looked, she could only sigh and wait with her. The entire morning passed yet no one from Robert's team appeared.

By noon, Bonnie could no longer take it. She started to persuade Luna to leave. In the end, she realized that she could not get through Luna. Bonnie could only get the hotel staff to prepare lunch for Luna and secretly ran off.

Luna was not angry at all. She knew that waiting for someone was a boring thing to do.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1020

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1020

However, Luna had no choice. For Neil and Theo, she had to wait. She had to expose Fiona's true colors. She had to let Aura lose her pawn.

Time ticked away.

When the sun started to set, Luna still did see anybody from Robert's team. However, she got some news from Christian. (Luna, I suddenly remembered that it's Violet's death anniversary. I have been anxious all day, maybe because I have been investigating her recently. I „m afraid. Could you help me visit her at her grave and bring something for her?]

Looking at the message on her phone, Luna furrowed her brows.

(Why can't you go yourself?)

(I'm scared.)

It was as if Christian thought he could not express his true fear via messages, so he called Luna.

"Luna, please bring something for her. I'm really scared. I should bear half of the responsibility for her death. I'm a little guilty.

Also, I'm abroad right now. It's already so late, I could not find any florist, so..."

Hearing how timid Christian sounded, Luna sighed. She was just about to give up waiting for that day to help Christian when a middle-aged woman's voice rang in the distance.

"Hello, do you know where I can find a florist? It's my daughter's death anniversary. I want to bring something for her."

Luna was instantly spirited upon the woman's words. She immediately stood up and looked in the direction of the voice.

Standing by the concierge was a middle-aged woman in a pure white dress. It was Janice Yale, Violet's mother! The woman from the information she found out previously!

Luna excitedly hung up Christian's call. She heard Bonnie say that Robert's team brought their family members over. However, she did not expect that Janice would tag along too!

Luna quickly got up and walked over.

"Hello, Ma'am, are you looking for a florist? Coincidentally, it is also my friend's death anniversary. Why don't I take you there?"

Janice swept a glance at Luna. "Thank you. You can call me Aunty Janice." She sighed. A trace of grief appeared on her face.

"You said that it's also your friend's death anniversary? Did your friend pass away today too?"

Luna nodded while leading Janice to the florist. She sighed and said calmly, "Yes, she passed away a few years ago. She was a pretty and smart girl. It's a pity Luna's words evoked a sense of sadness from Janice. Janice sniffled her nose and forced her tears back.

"My daughter was also pretty and smart. It's only too bad she did not have such a gentle and kind friend like you. If she did not foolishly become friends and roommates with that manipulative woman, she would not have...”

Then, Janice sighed and said, “I did not teach her well too. If I did, she would not have listened to that woman wholeheartedly to the extent of losing her life.”

Luna shuddered a little at Janice’s words. Did she say that Violet would obey everything Fiona said?

However, from what she heard from Christian, it was Violet who had always been bullying Fiona.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1021

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1021

After Luna brought Janice to the florist to get some flowers, the both of them took a taxi to the cemetery.

Because Violet’s tombstone was not at the cemetery, the two of them stood at the corner of the cemetery to pay their respects.

Under the dim firelight, Luna could see the grief and exhaustion on Janice’s face.

Inexplicably, she thought of herself. Back then, when she thought that Neil passed away, she must have been like Janice, right?

There was nothing worse than the grief of losing a loved one.

“Violet...”

Sitting on a boulder, Janice looked at the firelight in the skies.

She could no longer hold back her tears.

“I’m so sorry, I’m so sorry...”

Luna could not help but feel sad together with Janice, looking at her crying.

Janice cried in the cemetery for a very long time. Luna accompanied her.

Perhaps, she felt that Luna was trustworthy, also a friend that lost a friend on the same day, so Janice trusted Luna a lot. She cried and recounted Violet’s past to Luna.

When she finished, it was already nine at night.

Seeing how it was already late, Luna could only help Janice along while comforting her, taking her back to the hotel by taxi.

“My husband should be back at the hotel already at this hour.”

Getting into the taxi, Janice took a deep breath and said in a suppressed tone.

“Later if you see my husband, please don’t tell him about this.”

Luna nodded. “Your husband, he...”

“He was once my teacher.” Janice smiled bitterly. “He has liked me for many years. We were once each other's first love, but later on, my family despised him for being older than me. They forced us to break up.

"Then, I married Violet's father. A few years ago, Violet and her father passed away consecutively. Then, I met my current husband, so we got back together."

Janice closed her eyes. "My husband doesn't like me mentioning my past and my daughter. He felt that it was because he did not protect me well back then, that was why I became someone else's wife and bore him a daughter, suffering half of my life."

Luna shuddered a little upon Janice's words.

Previously, she could not judge properly the connection between Robert and the death of Violet and her father. However, at that moment, when she heard what Janice said, she could roughly guess most of it.

Perhaps, this great doctor was not as glamorous as he appeared to be. Soon after, the taxi reached the Yacht Club Hotel.

Luna accompanied Janice into the hotel lobby when she bumped into a man at the hotel lobby.

Robert was just like the information Luna got. He was grey-haired with golden-rim spectacles. He looked stern and cold, exuding a noble aura.

His expressions were darkened. With his hands behind his back, he looked at Janice coldly.

"Where did you go?" Janice paused for a while before smiling and holding Luna's hand.

"This is my new friend I met today. Her name is Luna. We went for coffee."

"Coffee so late?" Robert looked at Janice coldly. Then, he looked at Luna next to her. His voice was cold and arrogant.

"It's late. Why are you not heading back to rest yet?"

Janice nodded slowly and let go of Luna's hand. She walked over to Robert and held his arm.

"I only left because I was bored waiting for you. Let's head upstairs to rest."

Then, Janice smiled and bade Luna farewell. "Luna, goodbye."

"Hold up," Luna smiled and said as she lifted her head. "Dr. Robert Jenson."

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1022

Luna smiled and looked at the man next to Janice.

"I have been waiting for you for a day. I would like to see you for a medical consultation."

Robert instantly frowned hard at Luna's words. He turned his head and harrumphed coldly.

"You waited for me for a day and got close to my wife just to get me for a medical consultation?"

You're young, yet manipulative! "

Janice, who was next to Robert, looked at Luna in shock. "You..."

Luna was polite just enough. "I heard that you came to Banyan City this morning, so I waited here. As for Aunt Janice, I knew her by chance. I did not know that she was your wife. Since Aunt Janice is your wife, we're quite meant to meet. I hope you could take a few minutes to give me a medical consultation, please?"

Robert harrumphed coldly. He wanted to say something when Janice tugged his arm and sighed, "Just give her some time."

Since Janice has already said so, Robert was silent for a while. In the end, he entered the elevator with a cold expression.

"Get in."

Luna immediately followed them into the elevator excitedly.

Robert and Janice were staying in the Yacht Club Hotel's best presidential suite.

The moment he entered, Janice brewed and poured tea for Luna, then she understandingly returned to her room to give Robert some space to work.

Luna respectfully placed the information of Fiona's physical status and symptoms in front of Robert.

"Dr. Robert. This is my body's current status, also the doctor's diagnosis as well as my own subjective narration. Please have a look. What sort of illness do I have?"

Robert furrowed his brows and picked up the things Luna placed on the table with a disgusted expression.

Initially, his expressions were filled with impatience, but when he saw the things Luna passed to him, his gaze turned serious.

After a while, he closed the documents and slammed them on the table.

"This is not your medical record! "

Then, he narrowed his eyes and looked at Luna coldly. "Who the hell are you and what are you trying to do?"

Luna pursed her lips and chuckled lightly at him.

"How do you know that this is not my medical records, Dr. Robert? Can't I have such a weird illness?"

Robert narrowed his eyes and swept a glance at Janice's room. Once he made sure Janice would not come out, he harrumphed coldly and laughed.

"You're not here to consult me. You're here to stir up trouble."

Then, he changed into a more comfortable posture on the sofa.

"I've diagnosed this patient before. She has a terminal illness and has less than a year left to live. You bringing up this medical record will not change my diagnosis."

Looking at his reaction, he clearly already knew Luna's intentions.

Luna squinted her eyes. "Old Mr. Jenson, you swear on your professional career that your diagnosis on this patient is correct?"

"Of course." Robert sneered, "I'll bear responsibility for every word I say. She has a terminal illness. There is no room for discussion. As for you..."

Robert sneered, "I don't care what you want to do, but let me tell you, don't waste your time and energy on this. Even getting close to my wife will not change my diagnosis."

Luna laughed, "I did not purposely approach Mrs. Jenson. It was just a coincidence, but due to coincidences, I also know that you're hiding something from your wife. Tell me, if Mrs. Jenson found out that you have been lying to her by colluding with her daughter's murderer, how would she feel?"

Robert's eyes turned cold upon Luna's words.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1023

The atmosphere in the living room instantly turned cold and heavy.

Robert said in a suppressed tone. His gaze looked at Luna dangerously.

"What else do you know?"

Previously, he only thought that this woman deliberately got close to Janice to get him to see her.

However, when she took Fiona's medical records to see him and told him such words...

Robert immediately knew that this woman came with ill intentions!

Luna laughed, "Old Mr. Jenson, what else do you think I know about?"

Luna elegantly leaned back and looked at the grey-haired man flatly. "Falling for your student but forced to split up due to the age difference. Many years later, her daughter and husband fell into your hands, yet you failed to save both of them. Now that you got to marry her, yet you are threatened by Fiona, forced to help her fake her medical records... "

Luna narrowed her eyes. "Old Mr. Jenson, am I right?"

Robert looked at Janice's room in the distance.

Thank goodness. Thank goodness the water he gave Janice a moment ago was laced with sleeping pills. If not, if she were to overhear what Luna said, the consequences would be dire!

Robert turned around and looked at Luna closely. He almost forced those words out of his mouth.

"What on earth do you want?"

"I „ll give you some time to consider. " Luna took a deep breath and stood up. "What Fiona has on you, I have too. I have also become friends with Aunty Janice. You saw it too. Even if you protected her well, I would still be able to let her know the things I wanted her to know. I can do this, but Fiona is different. We do not know whether Aunty Janice will believe Fiona or not."

Luna elegantly laughed, "The thing I want you to do is not hard either. As long as you admit that you misdiagnosed Fiona and she did not have any terminal illness. That's all. I „ll look for you at this time again tomorrow. I hope you give me a satisfactory answer by then."

Then, Luna did not care about Robert's terribly pale face. She immediately picked her bag up and left.

Robert glared at her as she left, his fist clenching tightly.

Coming out of the hotel, Luna immediately took a taxi home.

The taxi stopped directly at Blue Bay Villa's entrance. Luna got out of the car when she noticed the black Maseratee not far away from the entrance.

The people in the black Maseratee also noticed her.

The car door opened. Joshua, in black, got out of the car first.

Then, Fiona, in a white dress, came out from the backseat.

The two of them looked at each other. Joshua casually fished a cigarette out from his pocket and lit it, smoking by his car.

Fiona, on the other hand, carefully approached Luna.

“Ms. Luna.”

In the end, Fiona stood in front of Luna. She looked at Luna with a pitiful expression.

“Joshua and I have been waiting for you here the entire night.”

Luna was accepting change from the taxi driver while closing the car door.

“Why are you waiting for me? What? You still want to invite me to the Orchard Manor to make the shrimp dish for Granny Lynch again?”

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1024

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1024

Fiona's face instantly turned pale upon Luna's words. She bit her lips and said in a low and aggrieved tone. “I „m here to apologize.

Last night was indeed my fault. I should not have...poisoned the dish.”

Fiona lowered her head. Her voice was feeble yet aggrieved. “I did not sleep well last night. I regret my actions a lot. Thank goodness you know Granny Lynch is allergic to peanuts, that's why you put so much crushed peanuts in that dish. If not, if Granny Lynch were to eat the dish that I poisoned. I...would have already regretted it for life! “

Fiona said while wiping her tears away. “So, Luna, I'm here not only to apologize to you. I came here to thank you too. I almost made the worst mistake of my life.”

Then, she subconsciously looked at Joshua in the distance with the corner of her eyes.

Once she noticed that Joshua had already put out his cigarette and was talking on the phone, she narrowed her eyes a little and continued, “If I really killed Granny Lynch, what would happen to Joshua's child in my womb...”

Luna furrowed her brows a little at Fiona's words. She looked at Fiona's flat tummy and sneered, “ You're pregnant?”

“Hmm...” Fiona lied shamelessly without missing a beat. “I found out after I passed out last night.”

Fiona said while placing her hand on her abdomen as if she really had a child.

“It’s still early. I have not told Joshua yet. You should know that I am ill. I still don’t know how to tell him. I want to give birth to this child. Although I did not tell him about the child, I told him that I would move out from the Orchard Manor.”

Then, she sighed, “Although Nellie and Nigel are good kids, what if one day they were instigated by someone to push me down. It would be a huge loss then.

“Joshua respects my opinion a lot. The moment I told him I did not want to continue staying in Orchard Manor with the kids and Granny Lynch, he agreed with me and moved me to the hotel.”

Luna narrowed her eyes and crossed her arms.

She could see that Fiona was not there to apologize. She was there to provoke.

First, she said that she was pregnant, then she said how much Joshua loved her to let her move out of the Orchard Manor.

Luna snickered, “So you two wait for me in front of my house so late at night just to show off? Great.

I’ve heard it. You can sod off already.”

Then, Luna turned and headed into the villa.

Fiona bit her lips and immediately caught up after Luna. “Hold up!

This is an address, come over at ten in the morning tomorrow.

Joshua and I had arranged the best medical team for you to give you a thorough mental condition assessment.”

Luna raised her eyebrows.

For the past few days, Joshua has not mentioned her having mental issues. She thought that he had finally thought it through that she was not ill.

It turned out that he found a professional medical team to give her a full mental assessment and treatment?

Was she really mentally ill in Joshua’s eyes?

“Since you have a professional medical team to do a mental assessment and treatment...”

Luna looked at the address on the card in her hands coldly. Then, she immediately stuffed the card back in Fiona’s hands.

“Since there is a professional team, you and Joshua should not waste it. Both of you could properly check up on your brain and mental health. If you’re sick, cure it quickly. Don’t cause trouble at my house so late at night! “

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1025

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1025

“Joshua...”

Looking at Luna entering the villa, Fiona could not stop her. She bit her lips and carefully approached Joshua. She lowered her head and admitted her mistake.

“Not only did she not accept my apology, but she also refused to follow us for a check-up tomorrow.”

Joshua calmly swept Fiona a glance. He kept his phone away. “I see.” Actually, he had already expected this outcome.

Luna would not easily accept Fiona’s apology, nor would she admit that she had mental issues.

Although, for the past few days, she was so normal that Joshua even doubted whether he made a wrong judgment.

However, the scars on Nigel were real. Nigel crying to say that she beat him up was real too.

Although later on, Nigel regretted and took back what he said...

Joshua let out a breath, opened the car door, and let Fiona enter the car.

“You’ve already tried. If she doesn’t accept your apology, stop bugging me to bring you to her in the future.” Then, Joshua also got in the car.

“As for the check—up tomorrow, I’ll deal with it.”

Fiona sat in the backseat. Her face turned pale. “I... want to come along too tomorrow.”

Fiona lowered her gaze and clasped her hands together. “Joshua should know that Dr. Robert is a great doctor too. My previous illness was diagnosed by him.

“I want to see him again tomorrow. It has been some time since the last consultation. What if throughout this time, he found a new way of curing my illness, perhaps I could live another few years.”

Joshua, in the passenger seat in front, gently furrowed his brows.

“Okay.”

If Robert could cure Fiona, he did not need to be like how he was at that moment, letting the people he cared about suffer. Once Fiona got Joshua's approval, she lowered her head and smiled maliciously.

Back then, when she got Joshua to get Robert's medical team to see Luna's mental illness, she already had her own plans. The things she had in her hands were more than enough to send Robert to prison.

Robert had to listen to her. Only to her!

"Mr. Lynch, we are ready. When are you arriving? Okay, we'll wait for you."

The next morning, Luna was still groggy when she heard a foreign man's voice by her ears. The voice vaguely mentioned Mr. Lynch. Was that Joshua?

She yawned and opened her eyes. The moment she opened her eyes, she was baffled.

Although she was still in her bed, her limbs had been tied up!

At that moment, she was tied up to the bed like a puppet!

A few tall bodyguards were blocking the sunlight from entering the house. The bodyguard furthest away from her was still on the phone.

Clearly, the voice that woke Luna up a moment ago, was that bodyguard on the call.

Luna looked at this scene in front of her in shock. She started to struggle.

"Who are you? What are you trying to do?"

Hearing Luna's voice, the bodyguard responded to the call. "Yes, she is awake."

"Okay." After exchanging a few more words, he placed the phone by Luna's ears. "Mr. Lynch is looking for you."

Luna bit her lips hard. "Joshua?"

"Yes." Joshua's low and aloof voice came from the other end of the line.

"Yesterday, Fiona asked you to see the doctor, yet you refused."

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1026

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1026

"I guessed you must have felt that you are not sick, so not only you won't come to see the doctors, you will also avoid me, so I took action first."

Luna was so furious her eyes widened.

“Joshua! I have already told you that I’m not sick! My mental health is in great condition. You and Fiona are the ones who have a mental disorder. I will never have a mental breakdown! “

“However, the Luna I know, without a mental disorder, would not abuse Nigel.”

Luna gasped, “I didn’t do it!”

“Then, how did the bruises on Nigel come about? He hit himself?”

Joshua’s voice was cold and indifferent.

“I’m on the way to Blue Bay Villa with Dr. Robert Jenson and his medical team. Since you’re not willing to see us, we’ll go to you. If in the end, your mental condition is normal, we won’t do anything to you.”

Then, Joshua directly hung up.

Luna was thunderstruck. She could not move. Her blood froze.

Robert Jenson.

Joshua was going to bring Robert Jenson’s medical team to diagnose her mental state!

Luna sat in the bed in a daze. Her mind was blank.

At that moment, Robert’s face when she threatened him the night before appeared on her mind.

Back then, she knew that Joshua wanted to get someone to give her a mental assessment, but he did nothing for the past few days. She thought that he had already given up on it.

She did not expect that, he was like her, waiting for Robert’s medical team!

The rich person who kept outbidding Bonnie to get Robert’s team over was Joshua!

Luna wanted to reach out to touch her aching head, but her limbs were tied up. She could not even do such a simple action.

Luna closed her eyes. She was instantly disheartened.

How did she not think of this? Joshua would listen to Fiona.

Getting a medical team to assess her mental state, Joshua would listen to Fiona on that too.

Robert Jenson, that person...

He could even fake Fiona’s medical records, making her a terminal illness patient with less than a year to live because Fiona had something on him in her hands.

Diagnosing her with a mental illness was not a problem to him! By then, as long as he came up with a certificate saying Luna had a mental illness, all of her struggles would be futile.

Even those things that she threatened him with the night before would not count as well!

She planned but did not think of this that one day she would be Robert's patient!

Suffering, helplessness, and confusion swept over Luna at that instant. Her limbs were all tied up. Luna could not even make an emergency call.

How would she have thought that she would be kidnapped in her own home after a night of sleep?

She never would have thought that after being tied up, she was going to face the judgment of the man whom she threatened the night before.

Not long after, the sound of cars stopping came from downstairs. Then, Joshua's low, charming voice rang.

"Dr. Robert, you have to help me assess her properly. This has to do with my children's future lives."

What came after Joshua was not Robert's voice but Fiona's.

She laughed seductively, "Dr. Robert is one of the greatest doctors in the medical world. Since he had agreed to come over to help, he would do the best he could. But..."

Fiona sighed, "Joshua, have you ever thought that if Luna's mental issue is very serious, what are you going to do about her?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1027

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1027

Luna also wanted to know the answer to Fiona's question. She cocked her ears and listened to the sounds outside. She breathed cautiously as if she was afraid that if she breathed heavily, she would miss out on hearing Joshua's answer.

After a long time, Joshua's low and indifferent voice came from outside. "If she's sick, I'll treat her. If it's serious, I'll send her to the hospital."

Luna closed her eyes. Her heart sank instantly. The hospital that Joshua mentioned was no ordinary hospital. It was the prison-like mental asylum that locked up Aura and Bonnie previously.

She bit her lips. Her hands were tied up together. Her fingernails dug into her flesh. She was bleeding, but Luna could not feel it. The despair in her heart washed over her. The mental asylum was tightly guarded. Even a criminal like Jason Lane could not even escape!

If she was locked up, would she still have her freedom? Nigel, Nellie, as well as Neil and Theo. She would not be able to do anything in the future!

When she heard Robert's name, Luna already knew what her mental assessment outcome would be.

However, before she woke up that morning, she knew nothing about this! At that moment, she did not even have a chance of asking for help. At that moment, the phone on her nightstand rang.

Luna immediately opened her eyes and looked at the man in black guarding her beside her bed pleadingly.

"Can you pick the call up for me?"

The bodyguard hesitated for a while. He did not move.

Luna took a long breath. Her gaze turned cold. "Mr. Lynch only suspects that I have a mental condition. Nothing is set in stone yet. Also, even if I have a mental disorder, I am not a prisoner! Can't I even pick up the phone and contact the outside world?"

Her voice was cold. Her gaze was arrogant.

The bodyguard hesitated for a while. In the end, he was persuaded. He picked her phone up and answered the call. He put it on the loudspeaker.

"Hello." A clear child voice came from the other end of the line.

"Luna, right?"

Luna was violently stunned. This voice...was Neil!

Luna immediately pursed her lips. "That's me."

"Hello. " The child's voice on the other end of the line was clear and aloof.

"I'm Jake Landry, the kid that looked exactly like your son.

Initially, I asked you for your phone number to help my driver and bodyguard, Uncle Theo.

"But, Uncle Theo is cowardly and stupid. He does not know how to pursue a woman. Your identity is rather special too, so he is even more afraid.

"That is why I called you. Uncle Theo wanted to ask you out to meet by the beach tonight. Do you have the time?"

Luna bit her lips hard to not let her tears fall.

In such a desperate moment, she received Neil's call. Is that not the work of the universe?

The universe did not want her to despair too much. Luna took a deep breath and cut to the chase.

"I don't think I have the time tonight. I'm getting prepared to go through a mental assessment. If the assessment deems my mental condition serious, I would become a patient in the mental asylum even before nightfall, so I don't have the time." Neil, on the other end of the line, furrowed his brows upon Luna's words. "That serious?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1028

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1028

Actually, Neil did not know whether this woman has a mental illness or not. Aura told him that she had mental issues and abused her son daily, but her son was secretly bearing through it, not planning on telling others. That was why Aura got him to help out.

At that time, he did not even know who Luna was, but he did it still.

However, a few nights back, when he saw her walking alone under the heavy rain, he still could not help but get her to get in the car.

Later on, he also chatted with this woman. He felt that this woman was not the type who would suddenly be depressed and turn violent, hitting people.

At that moment, she said she was about to be locked up in a mental asylum...

"S -Since you don't have the time, it's fine, then. "

Neil was silent for a while. In the end, he sighed and said, "I hope you get well soon, pretty lady."

Luna opened her mouth. The words she wanted to say were still stuck in her throat, yet the disconnecting tone already came from her phone.

She was stunned. Finally, she closed her mouth. She had too much hope. At that moment, to Neil, she was just a stranger whom he met twice. How would he understand her hints?

Even if he understood her hints, he would not find a way to rescue her, right? Luna laughed bitterly. She shook her head to get rid of her disappointment. At that moment he was just a stranger to her. She should not have too much hope.

At that moment, footsteps came from outside the door.

What accompanied the footsteps was Robert's old yet pretentious voice. "Don't worry, Mr. Lynch, Ms. Blake. I will do as best as I can to diagnose this lady properly. We will cure her with the right method."

Then, Luna's room door was opened.

Luna was wretchedly lying on the bed with her limbs tied up. She looked at Joshua, Fiona, and Robert entering.

When they noticed Joshua entering, the bodyguards retreated to a side, opening up a pathway for the three of them.

Joshua led Robert into the room and pointed at Luna on the bed.

"It's her."

The moment Robert saw Luna, he was shocked! It was her!

He subconsciously turned to look at Fiona. Fiona smiled and replied Robert. "Her name is Luna. She had previously abused her son."

Fiona looked at Robert gently, her tone was extremely docile too.

"Dr. Robert, you have to properly diagnose her."

Then, Fiona winked at Robert. Robert adjusted his spectacles.

"Ms. Blake, Mr. Joshua, don't worry! "

He turned to look at Luna's desperate eyes. He smiled ambiguously and said, "Ms. Luna, don't worry too. I have been in the medical field for so many years. I have never once caused anyone to be misdiagnosed. I will...properly diagnose you."

Then, Robert looked at Luna coldly, but his tone was still humble and friendly.

"Why don't all of you leave the room first? I need to be alone with Ms. Luna to diagnose her."

Joshua nodded. He led Fiona and a room full of bodyguards and left.

The bedroom door was shut.

Robert gracefully sat in the chair in the middle of the room. He sized Luna up with his old, murky eyes. In the end, he laughed.

"I never would have thought that the person Mr. Lynch got to make a mental assessment of would be you."

Robert said while writing in his folder.

“You got close to my wife yesterday and threatened me. You wanted to tell my wife what I did, you got what you deserve today.” Robert smiled smugly. “Tell me, if I were to assess that you are seriously schizophrenic, tell me, would anyone believe what you say in the future?”

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1029

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1029

Luna lifted her head and looked at Robert in front of her. He had a head full of grey hair. He looked stern and noble, there was compassion in between his brows.

However, who would have thought that such a great doctor in the medical field would deliberately make a mistake killing Violet and her father just to be with Janice?

His heart was despicable. It was so disgusting it was nauseating! However, even if Luna hated him, she still had to bow down to him at that moment.

She pursed her lips and looked at the middle-aged man in front of her with a feeble gaze.

“Old Mr. Jenson, I think there is still room for discussion.”

Luna sniffled her nose and moved her tied-up limbs a little. “What you want, I can actually...”

“I have already gotten what I want.”

Robert adjusted his golden -rimmed spectacles, he smiled evilly and arrogantly.

“All these years, the thing I mattered the most was Janice’s parents looking down on me because of our age difference. I did not get to marry the person that I wanted.

“However, my wish has been realized. I am now an internationally renowned authoritative doctor.

Whatever I say is a decree in the medical world.

Whether it’s wrong or right, no one would doubt me,” Robert said while looking at Luna’s miserably pale face.

“Such a lowly person like you, what are you going to use to trade with me? Do you know anything about Janice and her family?”

Then, he continued writing in his folder.

“I’ve already said, if my diagnosis is that you are someone with a mental disorder, no matter what you say, Janice would not believe you. I could so easily get rid of your threats, why should I make a deal with you. Do you think I'm an idiot?"

Then, Robert looked at Luna's hands being tied together. Because of nervousness and desperation, Luna's fingernails had dug into her flesh. Her hands were bloody at that moment.

Robert smiled and took Luna's phone. He took a picture of her hands.

"This is proof of your mental disorder."

Luna paused for a while. She subconsciously lowered her head and looked at her bloody hands.

Luna closed her eyes in despair.

Those injuries were made out of desperation and helplessness when she found out that Robert was going to be the one doing the assessment. However, at that moment, it became proof of her intermittent mental illness!

"If not for diagnosis needing time, I really want to head out right now to tell Mr. Lynch the results."

After taking photos, Robert calmly sighed. He looked at Luna indifferently.

"Do you know why you've lost? Because you don't know your own powers. Do you think that Fiona could force me to produce the medical certificate of her terminal illness because she's like you, knowing about my connection to Violet and Shaun Lewis?"

Luna lifted her head and looked at Robert in shock. Her voice was hoarse.

"Isn't it?"

If Fiona did not have proof of Robert hurting Violet and Shaun, why would Robert want to help Fiona?

"Yes, and no." Robert sneered, "You think that I only did not rescue Violet and Shaun after their accident? You're wrong. I was the one that planned it. Fiona was a conspirator."

Something exploded in Luna's mind upon his words. It turned out that Fiona and Robert planned Violet and Shaun's death together! That was why Robert had been in the same boat as Fiona from the beginning!

No matter how hard she tried, she could not drive a wedge in between these two evil criminals, making them have a fallout with each other.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1030

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1030

Luna bit her lips. Despair washed over her in waves.

If she could not get Robert to prove that Fiona's diagnosis was fake, she could not bring Fiona down. She would not be able to let Joshua see Fiona's true colors!

That would mean that she would not be able to flush Aura, who was hiding in the dark, out. She would also not be able to get Neil and Theo to return to her.

Even if she and Christian thoroughly investigated Robert's most terrifying matter, at that moment, it looked like it was all in vain. Robert and Fiona were a team. From the beginning, it was a dead-end. She could not solve it.

Looking at Luna's pupils gradually turning lax, the light in her eyes dimming, Robert laughed smugly. He got up and kept his folder.

"I hear that the mental asylum in Banyan City is tightly guarded. No one could escape. Ms. Luna, I wish you all the best."

Then, Robert opened the door and left. Luna lay in bed, her mind was in a mess.

She could vaguely hear Robert using a serious tone telling Joshua how serious her condition was.

"Although she looks normal now, if her illness flares up, she might not only hit her own son. She might even throw them off the stairs, or hurt someone with a knife. It is also a possibility. Mr. Lynch, look. I have many examples of patients with this illness..."

What Robert said after that, Luna could not hear. She could not hear Joshua's heavy sigh. She also could not hear Fiona's pretense of lamenting.

Her mind was only filled with despair.

Aura has been once locked up in that mental asylum. Bonnie had been locked in there also. Jason too.

She had visited others at the mental asylum quite a few times.

She never expected that this time, the person who was going in was her. The person that was locking her up was Joshua.

Her heart started to hurt. It was painful and numbing, prickling at her heart.

After a while, the conversations in the corridor stopped.

Luna heard a man's footsteps approaching the bedroom.

A step, another step. It was like the devil from hell was coming for her. She was extremely terrified.

In the end, the door was opened. Joshua, by the door, looked at her in the bedroom and sighed heavily.

He walked over and sat on the bed by the side. His eyes were filled with worry and sadness. There was even reluctance in them.

"Luna. I know that Neil and Theo's death is a huge blow to you, but I never would have thought..."

He never would have thought that Neil and Theo's death would be such a huge blow and shock to her.

She had been hiding her grief very well. If it was not for Nigel running out, to tell the truth after donating blood, Joshua might very well be kept in the dark forever.

However, it was great too, at that moment. To find out about it earlier would be much better than when she left Banyan City with her children and her illness flared up later on.

What if her illness flared up like the videos of the patients that Robert showed him, not recognizing anyone, murdering ruthlessly.

When she came to her senses, she might feel even more terrible, right?

Luna lifted her head upon Joshua's words.

He really knew how to find an excuse! He said that she had a mental disorder because of Neil and Theo's death!

She lifted her head. Her hair was in a mess because of the struggles previously. Her limbs were tied up, she could not tidy them.

From a distance, Luna did indeed look like a lunatic. Through her hair, Luna coldly glared at him.

"What if I said that Theo and Neil are still alive?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1031

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1031

Joshua sighed helplessly at her words. He reached out a hand and tidied her messy hair. "You're spouting nonsense again."

The words that were about to leave her throat remained stuck there when she heard him. She wanted to tell him that the boy who accused her of domestic violence, of having an unstable mind, was actually Neil.

She also wanted to tell him, that night at the fireworks celebration that the man she hugged whilst hidden behind the rocks on the beach was actually Theo.

But his words „spouting nonsense“ made her swallow the truth down into her stomach again. What was the point in talking to him any further? To him, she was only „spouting nonsense“. So she chose to shut her mouth, no longer wasting energy to explain herself to him.

However, to Joshua, Luna's actions looked like obedience gained after her little secrets were exposed.

He sighed deeply. It was all his fault. When Luna just woke up, he was busy with Nigel's bone marrow transport and taking care of Fiona who provided the bone marrow that he had forgotten to care for Luna.

It was only normal for her to react this way, she had lived with Neil for six years, and an accident blew him to bits...

Maybe she was indeed having difficulty leaving her pain and sadness behind her. When her pain was the greatest, Nigel was critically ill while Nellie suffered from autism and he was busy caring for Fiona... This was what caused her mental disorder right?

Sighing, Joshua could not help but reach out to stroke her hair. "I will make sure you're cured, don't worry."

Luna scoffed, not even bothering to raise her head to look at him. Soon, an ambulance's siren was heard wailing outside. Luna knew it was the ambulance from the mental asylum that was here for her.

Just a few hours ago, she was resting in her home, well and at peace and now, a few hours later she was considered a lunatic and had an ambulance sent specifically for her. How could she have expected this drastic change?

They came so soon, not only did she not have the time to hide, she did not even manage to inform Bonnie and Anne either...

Luna closed her eyes, her hands wrung together tightly.

The sirens stopped wailing. The doors to the ambulance were flung open. They headed upstairs and pushed open the bedroom doors.

Luna listened to all these sounds with her eyes closed, feeling as if every footstep was an extra knife slicing at her flesh, turning her body into a chunk of wet, bloody meat.

“Mr. Lynch.” The leader amongst them, a man in a white coat took the psychiatric assessment that Joshua handed them. It was just freshly written by Robert Jenson.

“The old Mr. Jenson is a highly skilled doctor, his assessment is definitely accurate. This woman’s mental illness is so serious, she needs to be hospitalized for treatment.”

With that, he waved toward the two men beside him and Luna was unceremoniously thrown onto the stretcher. Even while on the stretcher, her hands and feet remained bound. The blood seeped out of her wound, almost dyeing the ropes that bound her wrists in red.

Joshua watched, his heart aching slightly. He turned away, not daring to look any longer, yet he ordered the men and said, “Treat her wounds when you’re at the hospital. Her hands are quite pretty, it would be a pity if they were scarred.”

Their leader nodded hurriedly and answered, “Don’t worry, Mr. Lynch, we will provide Ms. Luna with the best treatment!” With that, he ordered his subordinates to carry Luna away.

Laying on the stretcher, Luna opened her eyes. The scene that entered her eyes was of Fiona with her arm in the crook of Joshua’s arm, laying in his arms weakly as if she had no bones to support her.

Fiona said, “Joshua, what a poor thing she is...

Losing her child and then suffering from this incurable mental illness... You must ask the hospital to take good care of her...”

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1032

As she spoke, she even started wiping at her tears. “If I knew Ms. Luna was in this condition, I would not have argued with her over certain matters...”

Luna raised her lips in a sneer. In front of her, the figures of both Fiona and Joshua became smaller and smaller, but she could still vaguely hear Fiona’s hypocritical tone. It made her sick.

Luna was brought to the mental asylum. All of the staff members were polite and courteous to her, the man that brought her there even tended to her wounds personally.

Luna looked at the man as he held his head low, focused on applying the balm on her wounds, and her eyebrows furrowed together.

“Can you untie me?” The rope had bound her wrists together for the past five or six hours, the part of her skin that came in contact with the ropes was already rubbed raw, every movement brought pain that echoed in her core.

But the man smiled coldly. “I’m afraid I can’t do that. If I untie you, problems will arise when I treat you later on.”

Luna took a violent pause. “The treatment you’re talking about...”
“Electromagnetic stimulation therapy.” He applied a band-aid on Luna’s wound as he spoke. “We’re going to stimulate the nerve cells in your brain with electromagnetic stimulation. Old Mr. Jenson specified this in his assessment report, he said it would be particularly effective on you.”

Luna bit her lip tightly. Electromagnetic stimulation, She closed her eyes. She had to find a way to escape. If she stayed here, sooner or later, she would be tortured so badly that she would really turn crazy!

Throughout the entire afternoon, Luna underwent the various treatments that Robert Jenson specified for her. Electromagnetic stimulation, by applying various magnets to her body and shocking her with electric shocks. Acupoint stimulation, planting needle after needle into her body. And the medication ..she was fed some unknown medication that made her whole body soft and listless, she could not muster any strength in her muscles at all.

After a few short hours of supposed „treatment „, Luna looked dazed and lifeless, like the other patients in the asylum.

After dinner, she lay on the bed and watched as moonlight filtered through the tiny little window, her tears rolling down her cheeks, out of her control. Here, she had no privacy, had no sense of self, even her body was being controlled. How was she going to escape, how was she going to find her children, Nigel, Nellie, and Neil...

Luna wanted to cry. She wanted to sit up. But her body did not have a single ounce of strength. She could only lie on the bed, helpless as her tears flowed down the side of her cheeks and onto her ears, then further down the shell of her ear and onto the pillow.

Sometime later, suddenly, the beautiful sound of a bird chirping rang from outside. The sluggish and mentally distraught Luna finally regained her senses. The bird chirped again several times outside the window. Luna could tell it was not a real bird, it was a human's voice!

She forced herself up onto her elbows on the bed. Suddenly, a ball of paper was thrown into her room from the window.

Someone was looking for her!

Luna was delightfully surprised, she hurriedly swung her feet off the bed, intending to stand up. But her body was completely devoid of strength, the moment her feet touched the ground, she fell to her knees on the floor with a bang.

The loud noise attracted the attention of the nurse on duty outside. She slammed the door open and walked in, switching the lights on with a slap of her palm. "What are you doing?!"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1033

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1033

Luna bit her lip and threw herself on the floor, squashing the ball of paper beneath her. Then she turned and smiled cheerily at the nurse and said, "This is fun...so fun!"

She exerted all her strength into twisting and turning her body, acting as if she had really lost her mind, and turned and laughed cheekily at the nurse.

The nurse must be used to seeing patients getting such attacks like this in the middle of the night, she merely frowned and slammed the door shut with a bang, shouting, "Get some sleep!"

Listening to the nurse's retreating footsteps outside the door, Luna sighed a long breath of relief and wiped at the cold sweat beading on her forehead.

Finally, she took out the piece of paper hidden underneath her body.

Opening the ball of paper, she saw a line of strong, big letters that read, „Hang in there. I'm thinking of a way to contact your friends so they can come to save you. I'll try to come up with a plan too. This is a communication device that I made. If it works, contact me anytime. From: Jake Landry."

Reading the sentence written on the paper, tears instantly streamed down Luna's face. It was Nigel! Her Nigel! He came looking for her, he came to save her!

She clutched the ball of paper to her chest and cried her eyes out.

Nigel still cared about her. Even though he lost his memories, even though he no longer remembered her, he still cared about her, still believed she was not really sick, and was even thinking of a way to save her.

After crying for a long while, she switched on the tiny communication device and slipped it into her ear. Besides the sound of crackling static, Luna did not hear anything else. She closed her eyes and sighed helplessly. The asylum must have installed a signal jamming device.

Before losing his memory, every time Neil followed in Nigel's footsteps and tried to make a communication device, he was never able to bypass signal jammers. And now after losing his memory, the device he created still carried the same flaw.

She switched off the communication device, sat on the floor, and hugged her blankets to her chest as she watched the moonlight filtering in from outside her window. The moonlight looked cold and serene. Under the glow of the moon, she wondered what Nigel, Neil, and Nellie were doing at this moment...

Outside the asylum.

Neil sat in the passenger seat, pulled the comms device out of his ear, and threw it onto the seat angrily, shouting, "Why isn't it working? Uncle Theo, didn't you compliment me, saying that this version is much better than the previous one? Then why can't it be used at all?"

Sitting in the driver's seat, Theo hung his head low and muttered, "I meant that...it looks much better. "

Not to mention the fact that right now, in the eyes of the public he was just a simple-minded, slow-witted bodyguard cum driver, even in the past, he was just an artist who was good at painting and drawing! How would he know how to make a comms device that could bypass a jamming device?

Neil sighed and quietly took out his laptop, "Something's still wrong. I need to ask my brother."

Hearing him mention the words „my brother“, Theo frowned and studied him through the rearview mirror. "Young Master, the brother you're talking about...who is he?"

"A guy I met online." Neil continued typing away on his keyboard without even raising his head. "Last time when I embedded a virus in the video, he wanted to crack the video, so we became friends.

He's good at this stuff, I should ask him."

As he spoke, he tapped away at the keyboard and sent a message to an online user named „Midas“.

(Midas, Midas, I need your help! Why can't the comms device that you taught me how to make bypass the jamming device?)

After sending the two messages, there was complete radio silence, as if the messages had disappeared into a digital void.

"Beep beep beep beep "

In the Orchard Manor, Nigel's computer kept beeping, notifying him that a new message had been received. But the little guy was not in the mood to check his messages at all. At that moment, he and his little sister were busy conducting a hunger strike to protest against Joshua.

Throughout the entire day, no matter what they did, they failed to get in touch with Luna. At first, they thought she was sleeping at home and did not pay much thought to it. But later on, no matter how many calls they made, they still failed to contact her in person. In the end, her phone was even switched off completely. So Neil contacted Anne.

Anne and John rushed to the Blue Bay Villa but did not see Luna, instead, they saw Joshua and Fiona walking out one after the other. There was someone else with them, an old man with snow?white hair and wearing a pair of wire-rimmed glasses.

After that, no one could contact Luna, no matter who it was.

Nellie and Nigel contacted everyone they knew but no one had any idea where she was.

Nellie sobbed out of anxiety but Nigel was certain that their mommy's disappearance must have something to do with Fiona and Joshua.

That's why the two children both agreed to go on a hunger strike, to protest against Joshua with physical action, and force him to tell them about Luna's whereabouts!

"Oh, dear Gods!" Granny Lynch tried to feed Nigel and Nellie some dessert, but the two children would not take a single bite. Especially Nellie who usually loved desserts, kept her lips sewn tightly together. Even when the old lady held the spoonful of cake to her lips, Nellie turned away, refusing to take a single bite.

"Joshua, what's wrong? Why did you hide Luna away?"

Seeing the two children obstinately refuse to eat anything, Granny Lynch slammed the spoon in her hand on the table and turned to scream her head off at Joshua, saying, "You know better than I do how important Luna is to Nellie and Nigel! Why are you hiding Luna away?"

Joshua frowned and glanced at the stubborn little boy, then turned to sweep his eyes across at Nellie whose cheeks were puffed in anger, and finally sighed deeply. He lifted his legs and walked toward her, pulling her softly into his arms. "Nellie, Mommy is sick, Daddy just sent her to get treated. I didn't tell you where she is because I was worried you would get in the way of her treatment."

Before Nellie could say anything, Nigel scoffed from his position seated beside her. "What sickness can Mommy have? She's well and healthy. She's waiting to bring Nellie and me abroad to see Uncle Malcolm, what sickness can she have?"

Hearing Nigel mention Malcolm Quinn, Joshua's eyebrows screwed together tightly. He glanced at Nigel coldly. "Your mother is mentally ill, she often hits you, weren't you the one who said all these?"

Nigel lifted his eyes and met Joshua's gaze fearlessly. "I told you, I never said all these! "

Joshua obviously did not believe him. He narrowed his eyes.

"You've been polluted by Luna. You're so young and yet how can you deny what you said yourself?"

Nigel rolled his eyes at him fiercely. "I told you I never said them, and that means I never did! " With that, he sat down on the sofa firmly. "Mr. Lynch, if you insist on keeping my mommy's whereabouts a secret, I can find her myself! I'm sure I can find her as long as I search through all the CCTV recordings in the city! "

He raised his head and looked at Joshua coldly. "But. If I realize Mommy is hurt in any way during this time where we can't find her... Nellie and I will no longer see you as our father! "

When the words left the little guy's mouth, the entire villa fell silent. Joshua looked at the little boy in front of him who was only six years old but with a sharp gaze despite his young age and was about to say something when the little girl in his arms wrangled herself free.

The little girl jogged to stand beside her brother and hurriedly held his hand. "I agree with Nigel. If Mommy is hurt, then I don't want Daddy anymore! "

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1035

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1035

Joshua sighed and glanced at the two children in front of him. For Luna, they refused to eat or drink and insisted on confronting him. He knew that if he did not give them an answer tonight, they would not give up.

"Joshua, say something! " Beside them, Granny Lynch wiped at her sweat anxiously and sat on the chair coughing. The two children had not eaten or drunk any water in the last 13 hours! Joshua sighed, and promised reluctantly, saying, " Eat, I'll bring you to see Luna tomorrow."

Nellie turned and met her brother's eyes. He gave her a meaningful glance.

Even though he and Joshua had not known each other for long, he understood how difficult it was to make someone like Joshua, who was resolutely firm in all his business decisions, offer them a compromise in such a short period of time. They should not cross the line. Otherwise, if they angered him, they might not even be able to meet their mommy.

The two children exchanged glances, then climbed onto their chairs and started shoveling food into their mouths. After forgoing food and water for 13 hours, they were starving!

"Look, children are so easy to please, why do you insist on locking horns with them?" Watching Nellie and Nigel eat, the old lady could not help but sigh.

However, Joshua's eyebrows screwed tighter together. They know how and when to negotiate, pushing forward when they need to and taking a step back when the time calls for it. Nellie and Nigel...

They were not as simple as they seemed.

The next day.

Early in the morning, Luna was rudely awakened by the curses and insults of the staff nurse. She wore the hospital gown, caught the slice of bread and bowl of sauerkraut the nurse threw into the room and lay on the door eating the food. As she ate, she looked at the sky through the window.

It was a sunny day. On a day like this, Nellie would most probably put on a little dress, and drag Nigel to the gardens to play with her. Nigel would sit in the pavilion with his laptop on his laptop and watch as the little girl jumped around excitedly on the grass...

Luna closed her eyes and sighed. Probably after losing freedom and self-esteem here, she would miss her children more, right? Since last night, as soon as she closed her eyes, the figures of her three children appeared in front of her eyes.

Soon, she was done with breakfast.

The moment Luna pushed the empty tray out from beneath the gap under the door, she heard the nurses shouting outside that it was time for treatment. She closed her eyes in despair, thinking that today would be the same as yesterday, that she would have to endure such inhuman torture again. But after a long while, still, none of the nurses came for her.

Right when she was confused as to the lack of movement, her door was pushed open. A man wrapped tightly in a white coat and a mask walked in. He glanced at the nurse indifferently and asked, "This is the woman?"

The nurses nodded. "Yes. It's her."

The man scoffed and walked toward Luna, ordering the nurse to press one of Luna's hands to the ground.

"Boss says you have very pretty hands." Then, under Luna's shocked gaze, he lifted a hammer — —

"Ah— —!" A scream of pain and despair rang throughout the entire asylum. He had smashed one of her fingers with the hammer.

Luna was in so much pain she fainted immediately.

Seeing him smash one finger, the nurse went to press another finger to the ground but the man shook his head. "Boss said, one finger a day. The number of fingers she can preserve depends on how long Mr. Lynch wants her to stay here." With that, he walked away with his hammer in his hands. The nurse threw Luna back into her room in disgust. Sometime later, Luna awoke from the pain.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1036

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1036

The little finger on her left hand was now lying flatly on the ground as if it had no bones to support it. A heart-wrenching pain radiated from her smashed little finger. She was in so much pain her consciousness was starting to fade.

No matter how hard she tried to recall, she could not remember who it was who refused to let her go even when she was sent to an asylum. The only thing she remembered was the words Joshua said to the leader of the nurses yesterday when she was lifted out of Blue Bay Villa on a stretcher. "Treat her wounds when you're at the hospital. Her hands are quite pretty, it would be a pity if they were scarred."

Luna closed her eyes, Fiona's baleful gaze floating in front of her eyes when Joshua said those words.

She laughed bitterly. She was already in this condition, and yet Fiona would still feel jealous of her just because of a single sentence out of Joshua's mouth?

The severe pain prevented her from pondering on this issue for too long. The pain was all that filled her mind. Too much pain. No one treated her, no one dressed her wound. Every smashed blood vessel on that finger was clamoring and protesting, the pain was violent and severe. She had a high fever.

Only after lunch, two nurses came and fed her medicine, then washed her face with cold water.

"Wake up! Someone's here to see you! "

After dressing her wound with a simple layer of gauze, Luna was dragged out of her ward to the same visiting room that felt like a prison visiting room. The last time she was here, she was outside. This time, she was inside.

Sitting behind the iron railing, Luna raised her eyes to look at the woman sitting outside. "It's you?"

The woman sitting opposite her curled her lips in a smile, tucked her hair behind her ears gracefully, and lifted her painted- red lips lightly, and said, "Of course it's me, dear sister."

Sitting on the chair outside, Aura smiled gracefully. " You have been looking for me for so long, now I have finally come to you, you must be delighted, right? "

Seeing her again after a long time, Aura seemed to be enjoying life , dressed from head to toe in designer apparel, with her long chestnut-brown hair and sexy, red lips. However, Luna who was sitting opposite her behind the iron railing looked as disheveled as a crazy woman from a slum.

"So , it is you..." Luna closed her eyes and scoffed. Since the day Neil reappeared and said that she was mentally ill, Luna had vaguely guessed that Aura was definitely behind the idea of sending her into an asylum.

Because back then Joshua had sent Aura here too. So now, she was back for revenge.

"Didn't you know that it was me a long time ago?" Aura lifted her lips in a proud and arrogant smile. "So, how are the arrangements I made for you? Do you feel comfortable?"

With that, she shifted her eyes onto Luna's tightly- bandaged little finger. She pressed her hand to her mouth in feigned shock. "My dear sister, what happened to your hand? Your hands are so pretty, what happened?"

Luna glared at Aura. "What did you come here to say?"

"I just wanted to tell you..." Aura raised her lips and laughed lightly. "You can never beat me." She lowered her head elegantly and played with her diamond-encrusted fingernails. "Six years ago, you couldn't beat me, and now six years later you still can't beat me."

Aura's voice was cold like a gust of freezing winter air. "You are in an asylum now, just as miserable as I was back then. No..."

Her gaze landed on Luna's little finger. "You're worse off than I was." She lifted her lips. "So, even if Joshua loves you and protects you, so what? He still sent you here."

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1037

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1037

Hearing the words of the woman sitting outside the railing, Luna fell silent for a second, and finally laughed out too loud.

“Joshua loves me? Protect me?”

In the past, when Jude said that Joshua loved her, she would still remain skeptical and doubtful.

But now...

When he sent her into an asylum, to endure inhumane torture, all she felt was that the people who claimed that Joshua liked her were either stupid or were simply mocking her. And Aura was obviously doing the latter.

“Yes, Joshua used to love and protect you, but you just didn’t know.” As she spoke, a taunting sneer hung from her lips.

“Otherwise, Luna, do you think you could survive till this day? Without Joshua, even your ashes would’ve been spread in the wind!”

Then, she yawned, “But never mind, that’s all in the past. Since the moment you were brought here yesterday, everything’s changed.”

As she spoke, she glanced at Luna’s tightly-wrapped little finger.

“It must hurt terribly, right? But let me tell you, this is just a start. Here, all forms of torture can be attributed to two reasons, one is your mental illness and you did it to yourself, and the other is the need for treatment. Joshua wouldn’t even suspect anything. Perhaps he’ll only know the pain you endured the day he sees your corpse.”

Aura bellowed in laughter and stood up, “Luna, you can’t beat me, why are you doing all this? I told you when we were kids, you stood out too much. You should tune it down a little, otherwise, you’ll make me look too mediocre by comparison, but you didn’t understand and even asked me to work hard. Now you understand what it means to stand out in every aspect of life, don’t you?”

With that, she turned and left, her high heels clicking behind her. Luna sat on her chair and watched Aura’s retreating back, biting her lip tightly. When the other woman was about to step out of the room, Luna pursed her lips. She could not hold herself back anymore and called out to Aura, saying, “Neil... Our feud has nothing to do with Neil, don’t involve him.”

Aura’s footsteps paused violently. She turned and glared at Luna coldly. “What Neil? Neil is not with in e!” She narrowed her eyes and said solemnly, “The little boy who looks like your son is Jake Landry. He's my slave. As long as he obeys my every command, I will be nice to him. Otherwise, don't be surprised at the things that I can do. Neil no longer exists in this world, Luna. Your son is dead! "

After leaving this sentence behind, Aura lifted her feet and strode away.

Luna sat on the chair and closed her eyes quietly. At this point, she had lost most of her goals and ambitions. The only hope supporting her to stay alive was her three children.

Especially Neil, who had lost his memory.

Outside the asylum.

A black Bentley was parked in the corner. Neil sat in the passenger seat, wearing a pair of sunglasses. He turned to look at Theo who was also wearing sunglasses and asked, "Uncle Theo, say, what do you think is the relationship between her and that woman? She wanted me to help send her there and forbade me from contacting her, and yet now, she came to visit her herself. That's weird."

Beneath his sunglasses, a flash of cold streaked through Theo's eyes, but still, he smiled dumbly. "I don't know." "Sigh, whatever, you won't know either."

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1038

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1038

Neil sighed and patted Theo's shoulder lightly. "But don't worry, Uncle Theo. You risked your life for me, back then, you lost your memories because you tried to save me. That's why you're in this state now. I will help you get your girl, whether she's a good woman or not."

"Who does your Uncle Theo like?"

The moment Neil's words left his mouth, the door to the backseat of the car was opened. Aura put on the same pair of sunglasses and settled into the backseat, asking faintly, "You're just a boy and already you're helping a man pursue a woman?"

Seeing that Aura was back, Neil laughed awkwardly and said, "No, it was just a joke. Uncle Theo isn't young anymore, I was just wondering whether he used to have feelings for a woman..."

Aura scoffed, "He was in love with a woman once. But unfortunately, she's about to die soon."

Theo's body stiffened violently. Luna...was about to die? The last time he saw her, she was still fine...

Seeing the slow-witted expression on Theo's face, Aura waved her hand impatiently and ordered, "Just drive." He irritated her so much. If she had known this would happen, she would not have given him the memory-loss pills. Let him remember Luna, so he could watch her die bit by bit. That would be wonderful...

The black Bendley's engine was ignited, Not long after it drove out of the asylum, a black Masevati drove past it. At that moment, Neil, who was never curious about anything, raised his head and glanced at the car. In the backseat, there was a little girl wearing a pink dress with her hair tied up in two little pigtails. Her lips were red, her teeth pearly white, with big and bright eyes, she looked so beautiful, as if she had just walked out of a painting.

He stared at her dazedly, not because she was pretty, but because...somehow, she seemed familiar. As if in his past life, she was a part of his family, as if she was his younger sister.

The two cars sped past each other. Soon, the other car was nothing but a black dot in his line of sight.

Neil sighed and shook his head. What was he thinking? His mommy only had one child, him, where would he find a sister? Sitting in the backseat of the Masevati, Joshua looked at Nellie who was lying on the window, staring into the rearview mirror. He frowned and could not help but ask, "Nellie, what are you looking at?"

Nellie pouted and reluctantly shifted her eyes back to him. "I saw a cute boy in sunglasses sitting in the passenger seat of that car." Beside her, Nigel side-eyed her. "How can you still be looking at cute boys at a time like this? Mommy is suffering! "

Nellie flattened her lips and was about to say something to explain but swallowed the words back into her stomach.

Actually...she was staring at that cute boy not because he was cute. But because...that boy felt like Neil. But now, she could not bring up Neil at any moment, because Nigel told her, if she talked about him too much, she might end up like Mommy, Daddy might send her to an asylum!

The two children's conversation made Joshua's eyebrows screw tightly together. He turned and looked at Nigel. "Nigel, your mommy is receiving treatment in hospital, she's not in pain or suffering."

"Is that so?" Nigel scoffed and threw the newspaper report detailing the murders and suicides of the patients in the asylum to Joshua. "Do you have to wait for Mommy to appear in these newspapers before you think she is suffering?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1039

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1039

Joshua frowned and set the newspapers aside. "Not all hospitals are the same..." Before he could finish, the car had slid to a stop in front of the hospital.

Nellie pushed open the door and flew to the entrance of the hospital as if she had wings on her feet. "Mommy, I'm coming!" After Aura left, Luna was sent back to her ward. She climbed onto the bed painfully and was about to rest for a while when the nurse in charge of her rushed in again. This time, she brought a few others with her.

They pressed her onto the bed, one of them dabbed makeup onto her face, while another changed her clothes, one more even threatened her and said, "Mr. Lynch is bringing someone to see you, be smart! You should know, no matter what you say, Mr. Lynch won't take you out of here because he thinks you're sick. If you said anything you shouldn't say and Mr. Lynch puts the blame on us, after he leaves, you will suffer a thousand times over! If you don't want to break two fingers tomorrow, put on a good show!"

Luna was moved and turned like a doll. She had no other option except to agree. They were right, even if she told Joshua the truth, he would not take her out. After all, no matter what, he would not let her leave. She could only obey them and put on a show in front of outsiders.

A short while later, she was well made-up again. Her messy hair had been combed into place; her pale complexion covered by foundation. They even applied lipstick on her.

Her injured hands were stuffed into gloves. They were ordered to explain that the gloves were needed for some physical labor.

After everything was ready, a few of the workers led her to the visiting room.

Initially, Luna thought Joshua and Fiona were the ones who came to visit her, she did not expect "Mommy — — !"

The moment she stepped into the visiting room, a small body hurtled toward her. Nellie rushed into her arms, her usually clear voice now containing a sob. "I miss you so much ! I haven't talked to you in a whole day! Mommy, how are you!"

When the little girl rushed toward her, she accidentally knocked into Luna's left hand. Her little finger that was smashed to bits started hurting again, the pain made her want to scream out loud. But still, she gritted her teeth and held it in.

Before, those people kept warning her not to show her injury in front of people who visited her. At that time, Luna did not know that her visitors were Nellie and Nigel. If she knew her children were here, even if they did not order her to, she would still pretend that she was doing well. She did not want the children to see her all injured and beaten up. She did not want them to feel sad because of her.

She took a deep breath, smiled, and pulled Nellie into her arms.

"What are you worried about? Mommy is here to receive treatment, not to suffer." With that, she turned and smiled cheerily as she glanced at Nigel who was seated on a chair, a myriad of emotions in his eyes. "Your sister is so excited, aren't you excited to see Mommy?"

Nigel looked at Luna's feigned smile and the moisture in her eyes that she held back forcefully, a swirl of emotions whirling in his chest. A long while later, the little guy sighed, jumped down from the chair, and strode to his mother, pulling Nellie out of his mother's arms. "Mommy is a patient, and yet you want her to hold you, don't you feel ashamed?"

Nellie pouted and climbed out of her mother's arms. During the process, the little girl's body bumped into Luna's injured finger. Mind-numbing pain radiated from her finger, causing Luna to tremble violently. But still, she gritted her teeth, forcing the pain down, and turned to smile at Nigel.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1040

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1040

"Why are you being so fierce to your sister? In the future...in the future when I'm not with you, you have to take care of her, you cannot be so fierce to her."

Nigel pursed his lips and nodded, his eyes staring intently at Luna's gloved left hand. He wondered whether it was just an illusion...but when mommy held Nellie up and then put her down, he could clearly feel that Mommy's little finger was out of control. Her little finger did not seem to be on the same track as her other fingers.

A bad premonition loomed in his chest. Nigel strode to her and grabbed her left hand. "Mommy, your hand."

Luna paused and quickly pulled her hand back and hid it behind her. "I got a cut on my hand yesterday, so I'm wearing gloves to make sure I don't get hurt again in the treatment process." With that, she sucked in a deep breath, forced the pain down, and said, "Nigel, take your sister home. Children shouldn't be here, I...after I'm well, I'll go home.

Don't worry."

Seeing Luna chase her away so quickly, Nellie could not hold back her tears anymore. "Mommy!" The little girl sobbed and rushed into her mother's arms again but was stopped by Nigel. She could only cry and sob. "Mommy, Nigel, and I looked for you for so long, we were so worried, and now we finally found you but you want us to leave... Mommy, how can you do this to us, do our worries mean nothing to you? We're so worried about you..." Looking at her daughter's crying face, Luna felt as if a knife was slicing her heart into shreds. But she knew if she did not make them leave now... She could not take it anymore. Right now, every breath hurt for her.

"Alright, Nellie." Nigel sighed and pulled Nellie into his arms.

"Mommy is having a tough time too, if she had a choice, she wouldn't be here. We should go home now, don't make Mommy worry."

The little guy turned and glanced at his mother meaningfully.

"Mommy, take care." With that, he held Nellie's hand, turned, and strode away.

Luna knelt in her spot and smiled as she watched the children leave. When the big metal doors to the visiting room slammed shut, the smile on her face disappeared in an instant. With a loud plop, she slumped onto the floor, her body still in its kneeling position.

Tears flowed down her cheeks in rivulets, whether out of physical pain or from the heartache of seeing her children, she did not know.

“Luna! “ Outside in the surveillance room, Joshua saw the children leave and was about to turn and walk away when he saw Luna fall onto the floor. His mind exploded!

He pushed the person in charge out of the way and strode into the visiting room, heaving Luna into his arms. “What’s wrong?”
“It hurts...”

At that moment , the pain that she had hidden for so long exploded in an instant, muddling her mind slightly. But even so , when she saw that the person holding her was Joshua, she tried her best to push him away.

“Go... Go away...! “

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 1041

Joshua was pushed to the side roughly by Luna. He staggered, his body unbalanced, and he almost fell down. He frowned and was about to speak when Luna curled up like a cooked prawn. She trembled, curled up in a ball on the ground, almost every bone and blood vessel in her body was quivering. “It hurts... ”
These were the only two words she could say.

Seeing her like this, a trace of pain flashed in Joshua’s eyes. How could this happen? Yesterday when she came here, she was fine. How come she was in this condition today?

He leaned in again, trying to pick her up again. But even if pain blurred her consciousness, she could still identify Joshua’s smell. She was so familiar with him, the moment he approached her, she could tell that it was him without lifting an eyelid.

Joshua reached out and wanted to pull her into his arms but she pushed him away. Her movements were small but powerful. Beads of sweat appeared on her forehead, he wondered whether it was out of pain, but because her actions exhausted her. Joshua was dazed. She was in so much pain, and yet she exerted all her strength to push him away. To her. Did she hate him that much?

At that moment, the person in charge of the asylum rushed in.

“Help her back to her ward! Prepare medication! “

Watching as the nurses lifted her up from the floor, the person in charge smiled brightly and turned to Joshua. “Mr. Lynch, are you okay? I saw that you were pushed by the patient... Such patients are usually very strong, you're not hurt, are you?"

Joshua frowned and ignored him. He stared intently at Luna who was being carried away by the nurses.

When they walked past the entrance, the little finger on Luna's left hand accidentally bumped into the door frame. It swayed limply in the air. Then, Luna sucked in a cold breath in pain.

Joshua's eyebrows furrowed. Something was wrong! Something was wrong with her hand!

He immediately pushed away the person in charge standing in front of him and rushed up to her, grabbing onto her left wrist. The moment his fingers touched her left hand, he heard her gasp in pain again.

"What is this?" Joshua grabbed the glove on her left hand and dragged it off. The scene that met his eyes was shocking.

Luna's originally pale and slender left hand was filled with tiny holes and pits that she dug out herself with her nails. And her little finger was wrapped in a layer of thick bandages. But even so, he could easily see that her little finger...did not listen to her brain's command and was out of control.

A flash of pain streaked across his eyes. He grabbed her hand and was about to undo the bandages to see what lay under them when the person in charge stopped him.

He pulled at Joshua's arm. "Mr. Lynch, please, don't look..."

Joshua frowned, his voice turning cold. "Mr. Chase, you promised you would take good care of her. Is this what you mean by taking good care of her?!"

Mr. Chase hurriedly lowered Luna's hand and ordered the nurses to return her to her ward. He sighed faintly and said, "Mr. Lynch, yesterday Luna dug out of her own flesh right in front of you, you saw it too. A mental patient like her will start to harm herself when she feels nervous or cornered."
