

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna 152

3 - 41 Matchmaker

"How are you, my love?" Alaric said, holding Thea's hand.

"Good," Thea said.

"When I saw your car flip, I was so scared," Kai said. He brushed her cheek with the backs of his fingers.

"Feeling your fear was awful. I don't want you to be scared, ever," Conri said. He nuzzled into her neck.

"I think I still have some PTSD triggers to work out," Thea said. "But my fear was mostly for the pups."

"Speaking of, we need to feed you," Alaric said.

"I think we need to feed everyone," Thea said.

"I'll get some food brought to the school," Alpha Ulric said. "Everyone can eat and rest up before the next round. It's almost dawn."

Thea saw Alpha Ledger and Alpha Stoll standing next to each other, talking. Fighting side by side all night, they got to see each other in their most Alpha states. Aside from the matebond, they respected each other now. Thea smiled.

"Do you always play matchmaker, Luna?" Alpha Ford said softly.

"Only when I see people fighting the matebond," Thea said softly. "It is taking forever for these two to get together."

"You took forever to get with us," Alaric said.

"That's different. We hadn't shifted," Thea said.

"I don't know, babe. We all knew we were mates," Conri said.

"Everyone knew, darling," Kai said.

"Will I ever live that down?" Thea said. The triplets chuckled.

"Excuse me. I have some matchmaking to do."

Thea walked over to Alpha Ledger and Alpha Stoll. They turned and greeted her. 1

"Thank you so much for joining us tonight," Thea said. "I know neither of you is taking over a pack tonight, Alaric explained on the phone, but you might in the future."

"Honestly, I'm not ready to take over another pack," Alpha Stoll said.

"I know you feel that way," Thea said. "But you shouldn't."

"I have warriors constantly challenging me for the Alpha position," Alpha Stoll said. "I can't bring in more people when my pack is insubordinate."

"If I'm not mistaken," Thea said. "You took over Near Side pack when you were only sixteen, correct?"

"Yes," Alpha Stoll said. "When my father died, the Alpha power transferred to me, and I shifted on the spot. I dropped out of school. I didn't even finish my training. My father died before he taught me anything of substance about being Alpha or running a pack."

"And yet you've kept the pack for how many years?" Thea said.

"Four."

"Even without finishing your training, you beat the challenges," Thea said. "Do you know why?"

"Blind luck?" Alpha Stoll said.

"Because you're a true Alpha," Thea said. "There are some things that only come naturally to Alphas. You have extra magic flowing through you. The warriors in your pack saw a boy become Alpha before his time, and they saw an opportunity to grab for power, but the goddess intends you to be Alpha. You're twenty years old now. You've proven yourself. You're not that kid anymore. May I try something on you?"

"With your gift?" Alpha Stoll said.

"Yes."

He nodded, apprehensive but also intrigued. "I don't think anyone would turn down an opportunity to have a goddess gift used on them."

Thea smiled. "I want you to think about tonight. How you felt tonight, fighting amongst other Alphas, holding your own. Pull up that feeling of power."

Thea felt into Alpha Stoll as he did just that. She captured that energy and held it.

"Now think about the last four years, the challenges, the insecurities, everything."

Different parts of his brain lit up. Thea dissolved the negative feelings and replaced them with the powerful feelings from tonight.

"I want you to acknowledge your power," Thea said. "When you look at sixteen-year-old boys now, do you think any of them could win a challenge against a full-grown shifted wolf?"

Alpha Stoll shook his head. "It's not a fair fight. They'd have no chance."

"Exactly," Thea said. "Yet, you won every challenge, even at age sixteen. There's no weakness in you. There never was. You were thrust into a position unexpectedly. Not everyone could have done what you did."

Alpha Stoll's eyes were glassy as he stared at her like she'd shown him the holy grail. No one had ever acknowledged his accomplishments or his worth.

"I don't think you'll receive any more challenges," Thea said. "Once you accept who you are and believe in yourself, everyone else will too. All the Alphas here see you as their equal. Would you agree, Alpha Ledger?"

Alpha Ledger cleared his throat. "Yeah. It's pretty obvious. No one is looking at you to see if you need help. They're at ease with you by their side. They know you're an asset, not a liability. They don't have to watch their backs when you're around. They know you're taking care of your end."

Alpha Stoll blushed as Alpha Ledger spoke.

"We're going to help Alpha Ford get his pack together," Thea said. "You're welcome to join him in any training. Though, I think all you need is confidence."

"That would be great," Alpha Stoll said. "I appreciate that."

Thea nodded. "We'll keep you informed."

Alpha Knight finished accepting everyone into his pack. One of the new pack members told him that someone from Storm Moon had called and told them New Dawn was going around, decimating packs, to expect an attack, and to take out the female first. Alpha Knight told Alpha Darwin. Alpha Darwin called his Beta and told him to take care of it.

Then Alpha Knight instructed his Beta on what to do in his absence.

The Moonlit warriors all came up to Xavier and shook his hand.

The Moonlit warriors had planned on following him once he became Alpha. Any coldness he had shown in the past they assumed was Alpha bravado. They were shocked when Alpha Knight announced his crimes and took his canines. Alpha Knight explained the rest to them before they saw Xavier tonight. They saw Xavier helping out, and he was unrecognizable to them. They had never seen him so focused, ready to be of assistance, so competent, so caring and compassionate. They knew what Alpha Knight told them about his brain and Thea fixing it was true. 1

"We're really glad to see you in this new life," they said. "We were honored to fight beside you tonight. We'd be honored to fight beside you in the future."

Xavier nodded, not trusting himself to speak. He didn't expect this.

Alpha Knight watched it unfold. He came up to his son and put his hand on his shoulder.

"I'm proud of you, son," Alpha Knight said.

Thea felt Xavier's emotions. Hope. Love. He wanted to make his father proud. He wanted to be worthy of his name.

So sorry to hear the book got deleted from your app! The only thing I can think is that they made an update to the app this week and maybe that glitched things. I'm glad you found it again, and thanks for your inspiring words! I, like all humans, get down—especially in this time of Covid and reduced human interaction. Your comments mean a lot. Weird thing about the comment system—you can comment on the website, but I can't respond to those comments. At least, I haven't figured out how, and they don't show up on the app version. Anyway, thank you all for reading and for your support!
