

Chapter 997 The Magic Acupuncture

After about five minutes, Sally returned with a pot of tea and filled the cups for her mother and Trevor.

Madison nodded and turned to look at Trevor.

"Please take your shirt off so I can check your body."

Hiding his uneasiness, Trevor brought the cup to his mouth and took a sip.

Although she was Sally's mother, Madison looked much younger and could pass for her sister.

It was kind of embarrassing to take his shirt off in front of two beautiful ladies.

But he knew he had to do as he was told and didn't hesitate for long.

Trevor lifted his shirt over his head. His upper torso was covered with bruises and wounds.

"Goodness! That's a lot of wounds and bruises!" Sally covered her mouth in shock.

Madison gasped. "Poor boy!"

Trevor pressed his lips together.

To him, his injuries weren't a big deal.

After carefully checking Trevor's wounds, Madison took the silver needles from the study.

"You're really in bad shape now. You may appear fine on the outside, but your injuries are internal. They are pretty hard to detect through medical devices. Even if they are detected, they won't be easy to cure."

Sally stuck her tongue and said smugly, "Fortunately, you have us."

Madison looked at her daughter helplessly and continued, "Now, sit straight and experience the magic of our medical skills."

Trevor immediately adjusted his posture and sat upright on the floor.

With a solemn gaze, Madison pulled out a silver needle as thin as a strand of hair and pricked it gently into Trevor's body.

Sally also became serious as she proceeded to assist her mother.

She handed the appropriate needles as her mother stretched out her hand for them.

The two performed the procedure skillfully and stuck the needles with gentle precision.

Trevor didn't feel any pain as the tiny sharp metal penetrated his skin.

He doubted whether they could cure the injuries Madison mentioned.

However, half a minute in, Trevor felt something warm surge through his body. It was as if hot water was poured into his insides.

"Wow! This is amazing," Trevor blurted out.

The warmth made him comfortable and cozy while half-naked in the middle of this cold weather.

He could already feel the strength in his limbs returning and his body recovering slowly.

His internal injuries must be healing.

It was the first time that Trevor experienced the magic of acupuncture. It wasn't a trick!

"How are you feeling now?" Madison asked.

"I feel great," Trevor said excitedly. He looked down and found his arms covered with silver needles, so he didn't move.

"You will still require treatment in the coming days until your wounds heal completely." After a while, Madison gently pulled out the silver needles from Trevor's body.

Trevor stood up and stretched.

His muscles and joints made crisp cracking sounds, and his entire body felt renewed.

"This is so incredible," Trevor exclaimed. "Thank you so much, Ms. Scott."

"Ms. Scott?" Sally asked teasingly.

"What?" After a moment, Trevor understood what Sally meant and hurriedly corrected himself. "Thank you so much, Master."

Madison gave him a warm smile in response and turned to her daughter.

"Sally, get some of those herbs and prepare a therapeutic bath for him to get rid of the scars."

Trevor was astonished. "You can make the scars disappear?"

"Yup. It's a piece of cake."

Sally chuckled at his reaction and went to prepare the herbs.

Before Trevor could start learning the special medical skills of the Scott family, he had unexpectedly experienced them firsthand.
