Chapter 731

Jasper silently lamented. How could he possibly be responsible for what happened in Alyssa's dream?

Regardless, he had indeed scarred Alyssa with his poor treatment of her.

"Why don't you contact Mr. Jonah instead? We learned that Madam had gone home to Belbanks. I believe Mr. Jonah must know where she is," Xavier threw out a good suggestion.

Jasper glared at him. "It's absurd that, as president of Beckett Group, I have to call her family because I couldn't locate her. What if Jonah doesn't know either? Should I call all her brothers then? Get out of my sight."

"Okay. I'm leaving!" Xavier quietly left the office, knowing that Jasper was in a foul mood.

After the door closed, Jasper dialed Jonah's number right away. Jonah picked up and spoke with an emotionless tone, "Mr. Beckett, how's your injury?"

At that moment, Jameson's secretary, Carl, ran over, panting. He exclaimed, "M-Mr. Schmidt, I have bad news.

Jameson knitted his brows. "What's wrong?"

"Mr. David has led the horse for Ms. Alyssa to the racecourse!

Upon learning that, Jameson adjusted his glasses with a burning rage in his eyes.

David's face turned from red to green as he listened to Jameson's taunting words. The crowd began to murmur and gossip. "Are the two sons of the Schmidt family not getting along?"

Someone remarked, "Is this just a lack of harmony or a full blown feud?"

Another quest chimed in, "Did Jameson just claim that the horse is his? Did David use Jameson's horse without permission? Isn't that a bit inappropriate?"

The murmurs reached David's ears, and he couldn't bear it any longer. He clenched his teeth and said coldly. "Jimmy, it's just a horse. Is it necessary to say such things in front of so many people?"

Jameson replied, "Yes, it is." His refined features were icy, and his voice was cutting. "If it were just an ordinary horse, I wouldn't argue with you."

He continued, "But the horse you touched is a gift I intended to give to Ms. Taylor. She has seen it yet,

David was furious, "Are you saying I gave him a chance to humiliate me?"

The secretary immediately explained, "No, no, no! I'm just ticked off on your behalf! You're the one Mr.

"I don't require you to be angry on my behalf. I need you to find a solution for me!" David snapped. He was visibly agitated as his eyes reddened, and his hands started to tremble.

Seeing this, the secretary hurriedly brought another glass of whiskey, which David promptly downed. His composure gradually returned, and his hands stopped shaking.

'The Golden Ausman horse is like the Ferrari of horses. It's a national treasure of Bahari. I used to pester my dad to get me one, but he was always worried I might have an accident while riding. He was reluctant to let me get too close to horses," Alyssa said.

In the glow of the lights, Alyssa excitedly stroked the golden fur of the Ausman horse. The pulses beneath her fingertips made her heart race.

Suddenly, her tongue felt dry, and an image flashed in her mind, Jasper was standing before her. He was bare and muscular, and his chest was wild and firm.

A tingling sensation surged through Alyssa's fingertips. Her cheeks were burning.

Jasper, who once pressed her down in her wildest desires, was like an untamed steed.

"Jameson, is this the time for jokes?" Alyssa raised her voice as she was both anxious and angry.

Jameson dared not tease her further. He endured the pain and softly said, "My arm and back are a bit sore."

Before he finished speaking, Alyssa paused, precisely locating the position of his broken arm. Touching the protruding bone, she recalled the heart-stopping moment just now. A pang of guilt pierced her heart.

"It's okay, Lyse." Jameson's eyes met hers as he said gently.

"And you say it's okay? You have a fracture!" Alyssa's eyes reddened as she shouted at him.

He was the one injured, yet he tried to comfort her. It made her feel even more guilty.

“It happens all the time with celebrities managed by my entertainment company. They’re always Javier pursed his lips and furrowed his brows slightly. Even though they were just expressing their opinions without mentioning anyone, he still felt an indescribable discomfort.

“Mr. Taylor is truly a loyal person.”

“Indeed. After all, Lyla was an actress and on! gave birth to a daughter. Yet, Mr. Taylor treats her well. It

Upon hearing those words, the guests nodded in agreement. On the other hand, Dominic smiled

Upon hearing what Jasper said, the business titans remained composing their expressions

"A man born with a silver spoon like Mr. Beckett has seen countless beautiful women. I'm sure none of
