The Ex Husbands Revenge

The Ex Husbands Revenge Chapter 2585-Once he was in front of Leon, Roman fell on his knees.

"Mister Wolf, I'm sorry. I was wrong for accusing you of something you didn't do.

I apologize. At the same time, I would like to thank you for saving my grandson.

We won't forget what you've done for us," he said sincerely.

Leon was kind enough to treat Jaxon, yet they kept attacking Leon and attempted to kill him over false belief.

Thankfully, Leon was formidable and managed to fend them off, or he would have been killed by now.

If that happened, the Peaks would have taken an innocent life and gotten Jaxon killed in the process as well.

Thinking back to it, Roman felt chills down his spine.

It was Leon's kindness and tireless effort that saved Jaxon. To express his guilt and gratitude, he let go of his pride and kneels to seek Leon's forgiveness.

"That's not necessary! Just don't keep accusing me of murder. I don't need your apology!" Leon scoffed and walked away with a dark expression.

He was still human with feelings.

Before he treated Jaxon, he explained to the Peaks multiple times that he was not the culprit, yet the Peaks refused to listen and attacked him time and time again.

On top of that, they even called upon the Dragon Guards to eliminate him.

This was extremely out of line.

If Leon was not so formidable and was lucky enough to come across Fletcher, he would have been killed.

He was furious about it and could not quite let it go for the moment.

"Mister Wolf, I'm sorry. It's our fault," Roman said guiltily.

He knew that he and the others were too foolish. Not only did they wrongfully accuse Leon, but they also almost got him killed.

Anyone would be furious as well and Roman could empathize.

Recalling something, he turned his sharp gaze to Romeo and roared, "Romeo, what are you doing there? It's because of all the things you said that almost got Mister Wolf and Jaxon killed. Come over here and seek his forgiveness."

"But," Romeo opened his mouth and found himself rendered speechless.

He knew that Roman was right and he was mostly responsible for how the situation escalated.

At the very beginning, Roman was rather composed and held a neutral stance to what Leon said.

It was Romeo who snapped and lost his mind over the death of his son. This led him to attack Leon and the situation escalated from that point onward, almost getting Leon and Jaxon killed in the process.

He could not deny his part in the outcome

The Ex Husbands Revenge Chapter 2586-ugh this was mainly Romeo's fault, they helped and were equally guilty.

Upon learning the truth, they both felt ashamed and wished to be forgiven.

"What are you doing?" Leon's expression darkened.

Though frustrated that he was falsely accused, he could not stand having elderly men kneeling before him for forgiveness.

Instantly, he could not decide how he felt.

"Mister Wolf, this is my fault. I lost my mind and thought that you killed Jaxon.

I've recognized my mistakes now. Please find it in your heart to forgive me,"

Romeo said and bowed his head earnestly.

A man should own up to what he did.

He initially thought that he lost his son and lost his composure, which came close to causing such a mess.

Now that the truth was out, he kneeled and apologized sincerely.

"Yeah!"

"Mister Wolf, we didn't mean to wrong you. Please forgive us, " the elders and Roman pleaded.

"You guys! Forget it! This ends here. Just get up!" Leon hesitated and sighed.

Because he did not suffer any injury and the Feaks were sincere when they apologized, he decided to not press the matter further.

"That's great."

"Thank you for being so forgiving, Mister Wolf," The Feaks were overjoyed that Leon was willing to forgive them.

Though Leon did not exactly say those words, it was clear that he did not intend to press further, which meant he forgave them.

Relieved, they all stood.

"I knew that this was a misunderstanding. I was right after all!" Fletcher laughed.

He did not believe that Leon would commit such terrible crimes, and was relieved that the misunderstanding was cleared.

"Damn it!" Contrary to Fletcher's reaction, Howard's expression darkened.

"Elder Feaks, what's wrong with you all? How can you seek help from us before confirming the truth and accusing an innocent person? This is way out of line. If Fletcher didn't stopped me in time, I would have taken an innocent life!" he snarled.

Due to what the Feaks said, Howard mistook Leon for a criminal and tried to eliminate Leon twice.

Upon learning that Leon was not the culprit, he felt misled and shot the Feaks a dark look.