

Chapter 944 Truth Will Come To Light

---

Rumors about Liam and Julie swiftly swept through Salem, propagated feverishly by reporters.

Those unaware of the truth indulged in ceaseless gossip.

Bowen caught wind of the news and, upon learning its contents, was immediately seized by fear.

Liam carried significant weight in their community.

How dared those wretched reporters spread such rumors?

Anxious that Liam might unleash his wrath on him, Bowen hastily reached for his phone and called Liam, seeking guidance.

"Liam, do you want me to confront these reporters? I can issue a statement to clarify the truth for you," he said.

Meanwhile, at Nightingale Villa Area, Liam detected the panic in Bowen's words. He sneered and replied, "No need. By the end of tonight, the truth will come to light!"

With that, he ended the call and proceeded to Julie's dressing room.

Clad in a white, low-cut dress, Julie resembled a breathtaking hibiscus flower. Liam smiled, remarking, "Julie, you look absolutely stunning! Tonight, you'll be the highlight of the party!"

Elated by Liam's praise, Julie chuckled with delight.

Then, Liam escorted Julie to the lavishly decorated Heaven Star.

Meanwhile, Yesenia remained at home, taking care of Asher.

The Heaven Star was adorned with opulence, the floor blanketed in exquisite red carpeting. The banquet's waiters and waitresses, a blend of handsome men and beautiful women, gracefully carried glasses filled with expensive red wine.

Hundreds of these prized bottles were meticulously arranged at the heart of the lavish hall, each valued at no less than a staggering one hundred thousand dollars.

Scattered discreetly throughout the gathering were sentries and plainclothes soldiers, marking this place as the most heavily guarded in history.

The venue was already teeming with an array of people.

All kinds of powerful people gathered here and kept valuable information-exchange. And their eyes gravitated towards the stage, eagerly anticipating the commencement of the evening's events.

Soon, Liam and Julie arrived.

Liam gallantly assisted Julie out of the car.

Julie's natural beauty was already breathtaking, further accentuated by her graceful poise, akin to an angel from an immortal realm—truly astonishing!

Observing their arrival in a car valued at merely a hundred thousand dollars, some attendees swiftly categorized Liam as belonging to a lower class.

A few even sought to catch Julie's attention and flirt with her.

However, recognition struck as someone exclaimed, "Isn't she Julie, the governor's mistress?"

The individuals who had intended to flirt with Julie were taken aback and promptly retreated upon hearing the revelation.

As Liam escorted Julie gracefully across the red carpet, a familiar trio appeared among the crowd.

Casper, Lenny, and Elian.

Recognizing them, Liam's expression shifted.

The faces of the three men bore expressions of disdain.

"Liam, you are such an asshole! I never expected you'd sacrifice your wife to Bowen for resources and favor!" one of them mocked.

"I didn't expect you to be such a cuckold! In my opinion, you're the biggest cuckold in all of Salem!"

"You are right! And Julie, she once sought my help after seducing me. Now that she's Bowen's favorite, I'm cast aside! What a heartless couple!"

"Look at Julie's provocative attire! What kind of woman dresses in such a manner? She must aim at seducing more men at the party!"
