

Chapter 1026 The Hacker

When Bain heard Trevor ridicule him, he felt very embarrassed. He almost exploded with anger.

But when he saw the excitement on Nicolas' face, he didn't dare to offend Trevor again. He could only stand aside aggrievedly.

After the treatment, Nicolas was so delighted that he asked Trevor to stay for dinner.

Trevor agreed without hesitation.

While having dinner, a young man who looked like a student caught Trevor's attention.

The man with glasses was a little thin and taciturn. And he seemed a little uneasy sitting at the dining table.

But when he heard that Trevor's treatment had cured Nicolas, he was the first to express his sincere gratitude.

"This is Antoni Ballard. He is still in college, and I sponsor his studies. I like him because he is a very self-motivated child. He's just a little introverted, but he studies very hard." Nicolas introduced the young man to Trevor with a smile.

Trevor looked at Antoni and nodded as a greeting.

After dinner, Nicolas put his hand on the controller of his electronic wheelchair and said to Trevor, "Young man, I have trouble walking, so I can't see you off. I'll let Antoni do it on my behalf."

Antoni stood up but hesitated. Then he nodded silently and stood stiffly beside Trevor.

Trevor smiled and said goodbye to Nicolas.

When he and Antoni walked out of the luxurious villa side by side, Trevor asked in a low voice, "Do you have something on your mind?"

Antoni was stunned for a moment before denying, "No, there's nothing."

The corners of Trevor's mouth curved into a smile. Although he was about the same age as Antoni, he was more experienced than the latter.

So he could see through Antoni's mind at a glance.

"When Nicolas asked you to see me off, you hesitated for a while. But out of respect for him, you agreed. I guess you are resistant to going out," Trevor said slowly, putting his hands in his pockets.

With an unnatural expression, Antoni looked around, sighed, and said, "Yes, it's a little troublesome."

Seeing that Antoni didn't want to continue talking about the topic, Trevor didn't ask about it anymore. Instead, he asked, "What's your major?"

"Information technology." And when he said this, Antoni became excited. He pushed his glasses and added, "I'm interested in electronic information technology and electronic products. Nicolas told me that the country needs talents in this field. Maybe I can join the army after I graduate. I am now a professional hacker."

Trevor was intrigued.

He turned his head and looked at Antoni in surprise.

Sure enough, a person couldn't be judged by his appearance. Who would have thought that an ordinary-looking and introverted college student was actually a professional hacker?

Trevor couldn't help praising him. "Great! A bright future surely awaits you."

Antoni didn't say anything and just smiled shyly.

At this moment, several people walked out of the corner in front of them.

"Hey! Isn't that Antoni?"

"The coward finally dares to go out."

"Antoni, don't leave in a hurry this time. We have been waiting for you for so long."

The three dandiacal young men surrounded Antoni and Trevor, laughing wildly.

Antoni looked nervous at once. His face even turned pale.

Trevor now understood why a thin college student like Antoni didn't want to go out at night.
