

Chapter 62

In the next few weeks,

Allison focused on her studies. She tried to forget everything and concentrate on her semester.

But it was not easy to forget everything because she was zoning out inside her heart. She was unable to get Ryan out of her head. She could not speak to Teresa about him either. She knew that everyone would only warn her about him.

'Are you willing to give me your heart?'

His words wandered through her mind every day.

She encountered him in classes before the exam week, but he always avoided her, and she tried to do the same. She had also not heard anything about him going out with other girls.

In spite of her exams, she had to go to training. It was also compulsory. She met Ethan daily. He showed her how he had changed for her. He asked her daily about her feelings until yesterday.

He said he would ask her again, and if she answered no that time, he would never ask her about giving him a chance.

Allison knew her own answer. She would never give him another chance. She thought that she had lost all of her feelings for him.

Today was her last exam.

She was relieved that her exams had gone well. It was midterm, and it would have a significant impact on her final grade, so she had to give it her all.

She went out with Teresa in the entrance area.

"Your lover boy is waiting for you. Bye, Honey."

Teresa winked at her and teased her.

Allison had never taken her jokes seriously. She bid goodbye to her and headed to Ethan's car.

He was waiting for her to take her to the pack house for training.

When she got in the car, he asked her,

"How was your exam?"

"Good. What about yours?"

"Just fine. Time is ticking. Only half of the year left for my graduation."

"Are you nervous about it?" She asked.

"Not nervous. My life will be changed after graduation. I will have to take on the responsibilities of Alpha after a year. So I need to cope with it soon. Maybe I can't live like this again."

Allison stared at Ethan. She knew his struggle since she spent all of her life observing him.

She patted his shoulder, and he looked at her.

"You will be a good Alpha. Everyone wants the Alpha who would think about them first. And you are exactly what they want."

"Thank you. Your words really warm my heart."

He stared at her for quite some time. She averted his gaze and said, "Start the car. We are getting late."

He gave her a nod and started the car. The car ride was quiet until his phone rang.

Ethan received the call on the loudspeaker. Wade's voice came to be heard. He sounded desperate.

"Where are you, Ethan?"

"What's wrong? Why do you sound like this?" Ethan asked and turned his car toward the main road.

The highway was hardly crowded. On the road, a few cars were moving. It was not the same route the bus usually took. He regularly drove on this route because he took his time getting to the pack house so he could spend more time in the car with Allison.

"I heard that Alpha Easton sent his men after you." Wade replied.

"Alpha Easton? Isn't he a powerful Alpha from the East side? Why does he want to hurt me? I have never met him in my life."

Allison was listening to the conversation since the phone was on the loudspeaker.

"It's not time to talk, Ethan. Where are you? Tell me. I am coming to you with our pack fighters."

You are our future Alpha, you need protection."

"I am on the highway close to our house."

"I am coming."

"No. I will reach the pack house in ten mi-"

A car came from behind and pushed his car before he could finish his sentence.

Allison was shocked, and her head nearly collided with the front glass.

Ethan glanced at the side mirror and noticed two cars following his car.

"Fuck! They are following me."

"Wait. I am on my way." Wade said.

However, it was too late. Two cars from both sides attacked Ethan's car.

Ethan wanted to pull over and fight the people inside the cars. But he was not alone. He was scared for Allison.

He looked at her and pulled her to his chest. "Don't worry, nothing will happen to you."

Allison was in shock. She was puzzled by what was happening around them.

Those cars kept pushing Ethan's car out onto the highway.

He whispered as he tried to balance his car,

"This is why I was afraid to make you my Luna."

She heard him clearly and lifted her head to look at him. His head was bleeding, yet he was trying his best to save her.

Her eyes welled up with tears. She thought she was going to die when one of those cars shoved their car from behind, and their car rolled upside down on the road.

She felt Ethan's hands pressed on her knees, and his arms wrapped tightly around her body.

She felt pain in her left hand as she sought to steady herself when the car rumbled.

Her ear nearly bled from the loud noise when the car came to a halt with a scratch.

She saw those cars driving away. She looked at Ethan, and her eyes widened.

"ETHAN!"

She screamed. His face was splattered with blood. His two hands were protectively wrapped around her body. One of his hands was cold, and blood was oozing from it.

She attempted but failed to open the car door.

What would she do now?

"Ethan, nothing will happen to you. Don't worry." She said and patted his cheeks, which were full of blood. He rested his head on his seat and turned his head slowly to face her.

"I think my time is coming to leave." He smiled at her sadly.

She shook her head and cupped his face.

"W-What are you saying? Nothing bad will happen to you. You heard Wade. He is coming."

He took a deep breath and held her hands.

"I am sorry, Allison. I did so much wrong to you. Forgive me."

"I forgave you a long time ago. Stop saying this. Nothing will happen to you."

She repeated the same words while crying. She could not see him die.

His grip tightened a little, and asked,

"If I come back alive, will you give me another chance in your life?"

She was stunned by his question.

"Promise me you will be with me. This incident won't happen again, I will protect you from every danger in the future. I promise you. Will you be with me? Will you give me another chance in your heart?"

Allison closed her eyes, more tears rolled down her cheeks. She did not know what to say.

The man who almost gave up his life to save her, to protect her, would be the best man for her.

She always wanted him anyway.

When she opened her eyes, she found him closing his eyes.

"I promise, I will. Please don't close your eyes."
