Chapter 1501

Zachary got up and walked up the stairs; he could not be bothered about Callum anymore.

“Zachary...”

“Get out!”

Callum was speechless.

When his eldest brother’s figure disappeared, he grumbled, “He only cares about his happy life. and doesn’t care about his brothers anymore.”

Sam came in with a bouquet of flowers. Callum had ordered Sam to cut blooms from the garden for a bouquet as soon as he arrived.

“Mr. Callum, you got the cold shoulder from Mr. Zachary, didn’t you? Why didn’t you look at the time first. Only roosters get up this early.”

A rooster needed to get up early because it had to crow.

“Mr. Callum, I’ve wrapped the bouquet for you as you ordered.”

Sam handed the bouquet to Callum.

Callum took the bouquet and looked at it, then said with contempt, “Sam, I remember the flowers blooming brilliantly in the garden. Why are the flowers in this bouquet so small? They don’t look. pretty either.”

Sam said, “The missus likes those large and flashy flowers, so I can’t cut them for you. I can only cut the smaller ones that the missus doesn’t like. You can have as many of those as you like.”

Callum was speechless.

He thought of how there were not many flowers in his villa, and the flowers did not bloom well.

That was why he came to his brother’s place to get a bouquet of flowers and ask his sister-in-law for help again.

Although Serenity promised to help him today, he was just anxious. He wanted her to put in a good word for him as soon as possible.

Then...

He ended up offending his brother.

The bouquet that Sam wrapped up for him was not beautiful either.

Although Callum disdained the bouquet for being ugly, the flower shop was not open this early in the morning, so he could not buy another one. Thus, he could only leave with this bouquet.

As for his sister-in-law, he could only wait patiently.

He did not have the guts to disturb Zachary and Serenity any longer. Otherwise, his brother would order the bodyguards to toss him out in a body bag.

That would be too embarrassing.

Not long after Callum left, Serenity woke up.

She opened her eyes to her man's handsome face in front of her. She smiled and wrapped her arms around Zachary's neck. "Morning, babe."

Zachary bowed his head and pecked her red lips, responding gently, "Good morning, honey."

"What time is it?"

"It seems to be half past seven."

"It's already half past seven?"

Serenity quickly pushed Zachary away and sat up.

Looking around, she saw that her nephew was still asleep and lowered her voice.

"Is breakfast ready? We'll send some over to my sister later."

"Don't worry, Sam will handle it."

Serenity hummed. She could rest assured with Sam handling the affairs.

She changed her clothes and washed up as fast as she could, then took Sonny's clothes and woke him up.

The little guy was still groggy when he was woken up and would fall into Serenity's arms from time to time, wanting to sleep.

"Sonny, you can sleep in the car later. Let's go downstairs for breakfast then we'll send food over to Mom later."

Chapter 1502

Sonny perked up when he heard that they were sending breakfast over to his mother.

Zachary looked at the two with a smile in his eyes and said, "Honey, when I see you and Sonny, you look like a parent who has to wake their child up for school every day."

Serenity looked at him and was just about to tell him to change his clothes, only to see that he had already changed.

"Did you get up early? You already have your suit on."

"A certain lovesick fool called me and woke me up."

Serenity guessed that it was Callum and asked, "He called so early? And you didn't ride on the radio waves to beat him up?"

"I didn't beat him up since he's my brother. He can't even solve a little problem, but he had the gall to laugh at me back then. The person who can help him the most is Nana, but he doesn't know to go to her instead."

"Speaking of, I haven't seen Nana in two days. I miss her."

Zachary picked Sonny up and went downstairs with Serenity.

"She must have gone out to pick out more granddaughters-in-law. She can't stand being cooped up at home. If she's too idle, it'll be us who suffer. Her happiness is founded on our pain."

"Would you dare say that in front of her?"

Zachary paused before he answered, "No... I'd really be in pain if I said that."

Serenity laughed at him. "Wuss."

“It’s not embarrassing to be a wuss when it comes to Nana.”

It seemed like Zachary had suffered under his nana’s hands quite often. He was completely willing to be a wuss rather than mess with her.

In his words, it was not embarrassing to be a wuss when it came to their nana.

“Nana is also irresponsible. She tossed a photo to Callum and Kevin and skedaddled. Now, Callum doesn’t know who to ask for help, so he comes to us to trouble us every few days.

“Does he think I’m very experienced? Besides, can they copy our circumstances?”

Zachary was just annoyed and grumbled for a while that Callum came over bright early in the morning and disturbed his sleep with his wife.

“People who are in love are like that. You have many younger cousins, so they’ll all come to you for help in the future. It’s bothersome, but you can just get used to it. It’s because you’re the eldest.”

Zachary said, “I’ll call Nana to ask for the psychic’s contact info to pass to Walter and tell her to be more responsible in the future. Don’t just matchmake two people and then wash her hands off the case.”

If Grandma May were here, she would say, “I’ve already given you the sheep, but you want me to cook it and serve it to you too?”

‘What’s the point of raising so many wolves?’

‘I have to worry about every single wolf.’

‘It was better to raise sheeps. Unfortunately, the York family doesn’t have sheep of their own, so I have to try my best to find sheeps from other families.’

The psychic said that Zachary and Serenity were destined to have a son and daughter.

Grandma May would have thought, ‘Once our family finally has sheeps of our own, we’ll have to build a higher fence and protect our sheeps. We have to be careful so as to not let wolves from other families catch our sheeps.’

Grandma May gleefully set up the wolves of her family with the sheeps of other families.

However, when it came to other families’s wolves coming after her sheeps, she would sharpen her knife and get ready to slaughter the wolves!

Zachary called Grandma May during breakfast.

Grandma May said, "You don't need to ask. Walter came to visit me in person last night."

Zachary paused and said, "He really acts quickly. How was it, Nana?"

"How would I know? I just gave him the psychic's contact number. If you want to know, you can move into the Bucham residence and watch the show."

Zachary felt that he still needed Julian. If he went over to laugh at Julian's expense, the latter might not help him again.

He said, "Never mind. Everyone has their own fate. There's no point in me worrying over Mr. Bucham. I have enough on my plate worrying about my brothers. Nana, you can't just matchmake them and toss them to the wind."

Grandma May immediately held the phone away from her ear and said, "Zack, the signal here is really bad. I can't hear you. What did you say? I can't hear you clearly. Anyway, I'm hanging up now."

Then, she hung up the phone.

Zachary was speechless.

Chapter 1503

Zachary placed the phone on the table and said to Serenity. "Nana is getting craftier."

He wanted to call her devious instead but was afraid that she would get back at him if word got to her.

In the end, he decided to keep to himself.

"A matchmaker is only responsible for introducing two people to each other, not to guarantee that the couple will have a child."

Serenity teased Zachary.

Grandma May was only responsible for helping her grandsons choose their wives. How they pursued their wives was their business; it was not something for her to worry about.

She still had several grandchildren at home who were still single.

Recently when Dylan and the others learned about their nana's method of choosing their wives, all of them grew nervous. In fact, they were shivering in fright.

Every day, they wondered what kind of wife their nana would choose for them.

Recently, they tried sweet-talking and coaxing their nana every day, wanting her to let them remain single for a few more years. They prayed that their nana would not move on too quickly to them.

In short, they went through all kinds of hoops to remain single.

After breakfast, Serenity did not have time to rest and had to deliver breakfast to her sister.

However, Sonny had to go to class.

Jim was already waiting to pick him up.

"I don't want to go to class. I want to go with you and see Mom."

The little guy had thoughts of quitting after a few days of class.

When Serenity brought him out of the house and he saw Jim waiting for him outside, he immediately turned and wrapped his arms around Serenity's legs.

Serenity squatted down and said to her nephew, "Sonny, we can't give up halfway. We have to stick to the end. Didn't you say that you wanted to learn self-defense so you can protect Mom and me?"

"If you don't persist, you won't be able to learn self-defense, and you won't be able to protect Mom."

"Sonny, no matter what you do, when you decide to do something, you have to take it seriously. You can't give up halfway."

Sonny pursed his lips and said pitifully, "It's really tiring. I—I just want to rest. I want to go to the hospital to stay with Mom."

Serenity knew that self-defense training was very tiring. When she learned as a child, she had wanted to quit often but she persevered.

Now, ordinary punks were no match for her.

"Sonny, I know it's very tiring, but you have to persevere. Learning self-defense is all about perseverance. You have to practice every day. Once you get the basics down, it'll be easier for you later on."

“Jim will collect you after class and send you to the hospital to accompany your mom. Follow Jim to class first, okay?”

Sonny pouted.

Serenity wrapped an arm around her nephew, kissed his cheek, and said gently, “Our Sonny is the most amazing boy.”

Sonny stopped pouting.

“I’ll go to class, Aunt Ser. I want to be the most amazing boy.”

“You can do it, Sonny!”

Serenity stood up.

Jim came forward.

“Missus, I’ll send Sonny to class now.”

Serenity hummed. “Be careful on the road.”

“Yes.”

Jim picked up Sonny, who waved his little hand to Serenity to say goodbye. Soon, Jim drove the car away and took Sonny away from the villa.

Chapter 1504

While Sonny went to class, Serenity went to the hospital accompanied by Zachary.

She asked Zachary to stop when they passed by Spring Blossoms. She got out of the car and went into the store to buy a bouquet of flowers.

Camryn was not in the store.

“Is your boss making a delivery?” Serenity asked the store assistant.

“Our boss went to get the goods early in the morning and will probably only be back at around ten o’clock. Do you have anything important to ask her, Mrs. York? I can ask her to call you when she comes back.”

Serenity hummed. "Okay, tell her to ring me when she's back."

The assistant agreed and saw Serenity out of the store..

Serenity held the bouquet and got into the car, saying to Zachary while closing the door, "Camryn isn't in the store. She went out first thing in the morning to get some goods and won't be back. until around ten o'clock. Tell Callum that I might not be able to leave at ten. I can only come over if Jasmine is at the store."

Zachary said, "Don't worry about him. He reaps what he sows. I already gave him two days off. If he still can't handle his own business, then I'll start doubting his ability."

"I promised him that I'll help put in a good word for him, so I have to keep my word. After all, I'm his sister-in-law."

Serenity thought of how Zachary had a total of eight younger cousins. If they all came to her for help, she could probably set up a marriage counseling company.

It was all because she was their eldest sister-in-law.

Zachary stopped talking and drove the car to send his wife to the hospital.

The couple bumped into Duncan at the hospital.

Duncan held a bouquet of flowers in one hand and an insulated lunch box in the other. It seemed like he prepared a tonic soup for Liberty.

He did not see Serenity and Zachary because they were behind him.

Zachary said to Serenity, "Duncan is quite knowledgeable. Even an oaf like him knows to send tonic soup to Liberty."

Serenity gave him a look.

He had never given her tonic soup to drink before.

Zachary was not dumb. He quickly caught onto the hidden meaning of his wife's expression.

He smiled and said, "I'll cook and make tonic soup for you this weekend."

"I think between you and your friends, you're the slowest when it comes to relationships. When Mr.

Lewis realized his feelings, he dove right into delivering flowers and soup. As for Mr. Bucham, his EQ is ten times yours. Before, you only knew how to pull a long face and get me to obey you 100 %.

Zachary cleared his throat and blushed slightly. "Honey, we're at the hospital. There are lots of people coming in and out. Don't embarrass me like that."

"I'm not yelling till the whole world can hear," Serenity whispered before raising her voice to call out to Duncan.

"Mr. Lewis."

Duncan heard Serenity. He stopped in his tracks and turned his head. He smiled when he saw his friend with his wife. "Zachary, Serenity, good morning. Are you here to see Liberty too?"

"Yeah, I brought breakfast for my sister. What are you doing here, Mr. Lewis?"

Zachary winked at his friend.

Duncan thought, 'Holy crap! Is that really Zachary? Did he just wink at me?'

If Zachary could read Duncan's thoughts, he would be speechless.

"I—I—I came to see Liberty and send her some tonic soup to nourish her body."

Serenity looked at the insulated lunch box he was carrying and said, "I also brought tonic soup for her, along with breakfast. Nana and my aunt also often send soup over."

Liberty was probably scared to drink tonic soup now.

After a moment of silence, Duncan said, "You send her tonic soup as a token of your sincerity, and I send her tonic soup as a token of mine. Serenity, thank you for letting your sister know about my feelings for her. I'm serious about your sister. I hope you won't stop me from pursuing her."

Serenity said, "I won't support you, but I won't stop you either. This is my sister's business, so it's up to her. I'll support her no matter what decision she makes."

"However, I do have a few words for you, Mr. Lewis. If my sister is still unable to accept you, please be the bigger person and let her go. Don't keep pestering her."

Chapter 1505

Upon hearing what Serenity said, he could not help but think, 'As expected of Zachary's wife.'

The husband and wife said almost the exact same thing.

"Serenity, I can only say that I won't give up as long as your sister doesn't remarry."

Duncan spoke solemnly.

There was nothing else Serenity could say.

Putting aside everything else, she held quite an admiration for Duncan.

The three of them entered the in-patient building together. When they arrived at Liberty's ward, they saw Hank standing by the door early in the morning.

This time, Hank came alone.

Olivia and Chelsea did not tag along..

Hank was also holding a bouquet and an insulated lunch box.

His parents asked him to do this.

Serenity was a little surprised when she saw Hank. Did her grandparents not stop him from coming out?

However, Olivia and Chelsea did not come, so it was still better than before.

Hank was a walking contradiction now and could easily be driven away.

"Hank Brown, are you here to disturb Liberty's rest again? Get lost!"

Noah walked past the trio and stormed up to Hank!

With one hand, he snatched Hank's bouquet, threw it on the ground, and lifted his foot to step on it. The flowers were flattened by his stomps.

He wanted to snatch the insulated lunch box from Hank's grasp, but Hank gripped the handle tightly. The York family bodyguards watched from the side as Noah tried to wrestle the lunch box away.

“Noah.”

Serenity walked over and called out to her youngest cousin.

—“Serenity, you’re here. This guy is really hateful. He used his parents to distract Grandmom and Granddad while he slipped away. I chased him all the way here with my car but couldn’t catch up to him and he managed to come here to disturb Liberty.”

As Noah spoke, he saw Hank distracted and finally managed to grab the lunch box.

Just when everyone thought he would throw it into the trash, he opened it up instead and drank the soup straight from the box.

The others were speechless.

“That soup isn’t for you, Hunt.”

Hank snatched back the insulated lunch box, but Noah had drunk half of the content inside.

He flushed with anger and yelled at Noah, “Did you inhale the soup? Half of it is gone!”

“You’re the stingy one for only preparing one bowl of soup. What’s strange about me drinking half of it in one go? In order to stop you, I didn’t even eat breakfast. I’m starving now. Anyway, I already tried the soup. Liberty would definitely be disgusted by it. It’s better for me to drink the rest.”

Noah grabbed Hank’s lunch box again, turned around, and finished off the soup.

Hank looked at Serenity.

Serenity said with a cold face, “Mr. Brown, my sister doesn’t want to see you. Please don’t come here again.”

“Serenity, Jessica did it because she was threatened. She…”

Serenity’s expression grew colder. “You show your face so early in the morning not because you care about my sister, but to plead for your wife, didn’t you? You really do love your wife. Not only did you forgive her for harming your own son, but you also want my sister to forgive her.

“Noah, please drag this eyesore out after you finish the soup.”

Noah responded, “Don’t worry, Serenity. I’ll take care of him for you.”

Serenity did not want to deal with Hank anymore and entered the ward as the bodyguards opened the door for her.
