The Ex-Husband's Revenge Chapter 30

Smack!

Leon clutched his face when he felt the burning pain on his face. He was furious. He knew that Joseph did that on purpose!

However, he was already used to being ridiculed and humiliated while he was with the Mansons. The Mansons also made him meek.

Facing Joseph's actions, he chose to swallow up his anger.

"What are you looking at?! Hurry up and pick up the pieces. Clean this up!" Joseph berated.

Leon held back his fury as he knelt down to pick up the shattered mug.

"Trying to fight me? You need to grow a pair of eyeballs, dog. You're still too young for that!" Joseph laughed coldly and he stepped on Leon's hand, pushing his feet down.

Sharp shards were beneath Leon's palm. He felt a surge of pain as those fragments immediately pierced through his palm, causing him to bleed.
