The Ex-Husband's Revenge Chapter 711

"The Westpraise Group only controls twenty percent of the sales channels, so they are hardly comparable to Wick Group. If the Westpraise Group is being unreasonable, why don't you try striking a deal with Wick Group instead?" Leon asked.

"Well, I don't really know." Janice shook her head.

It was the company's board that decided which distributor to work with and as a department manager, Janice did not know much about the internal operations.

"Let me explain! The fashion line we produce can be considered semi-luxury, while Wick Group focuses on high-end brands and products. I've represented our company in the past to speak with someone from Wick Group in the past, but they didn't see a point in working with us and rejected me straight away," Ava sighed.

The Wicks were one of the most powerful families in all of Springfield City with a total assets of over billions. Jensen, as the future leader of his family, was almost as mighty as a god to people in Springfield City and could not possibly know an ordinary man like Leon in Ava's point of view, so she could not bring herself to believe what Leon said.

"I'm not joking. I meant it-" Leon tried to explain himself, but was immediately interrupted by Ava.

"Enough! I don't want to hear any more of your lies! Whether you meant what you said or not, Wick Group focuses on working with high-end brands and our brand does not fit into that category, so they will never work with us!" Ava dismissed him.

It would not have been realistic.

"I'm telling the truth," Janice wanted to explain, but was interrupted by Leon before she could finish her sentence.

"Janice, that's enough. I've parted ways with the Youngs," A sharp pain pierced through his chest as he thought of Iris.

He was frustrated from being judged by Ava and now that Janice mentioned Iris, he felt even more depressed.

His longing for Iris stung him and he was forced to realize how much he struggled to forget about Iris once again.

"Leon, what's wrong?" Janice muttered in confusion.

"You're finally here, Mister Lynch!" Ava forced a smile and stood to welcome him.

"Miss Addice, I'm a busy man. I'm sure you'll forgive me for being late," remarked Mister Lynch casually, knowing that Acme Group would be willing to wait since they were the ones begging for his help.

Ava, though frustrated, could not let it show. "Have a seat, Mister Lynch."

They all took their seats, and Ava called the waiter in to prepare drinks and snacks.

"Miss Addice, who is the beautiful lady next to you? What's her name?" Mister Lynch's eyes lit up at the sight of Janice.

"Eight percent is still too high. Mister Lynch, we make a very low profit and can only pay an extra three percent. Please help us out here. If you can help us with this, we'll repay your kindness with everything we have!" Ava said sincerely.

"Three percent is impossible! Eight percent is the lowest we can accept! Miss Addice, I can't make the call if that's how low you're going... Why don't we head back to our respective companies to check and reschedule the meeting for another day?" replied Mister Lynch before standing to leave.

'This sly fox! He's still not telling the truth! This is so troublesome!' Ava swore inwardly, knowing that Mister Lynch was merely acting and that eight percent could not be his last deal. However, she had to compromise as she relied on his help.

Mister Lynch had made a point to be late for over an hour precisely to intimidate them, and if they reschedule the meeting, she would only end up in a more unfavorable position.

"If you come to dinner with me alone, I can lower the rate to five percent!" continued Mister Lynch.

As Ava predicted, Mister Lynch did not dare to do anything to Ava or Janice since Leon was present, and since he failed to get what he wanted, he decided to put all the cards on the table.

"What? No way!" Both Ava and Janice shot up from their seats.

None of them were naive enough to think that Mister Lynch wanted only a dinner with Janice.

"Miss Lynch, you better think this through before refusing. Eight percent and five percent might not seem to have a big difference between them, but a difference in billions is involved! If you save the company billions, forget a raise—

I'm sure you'll receive a lot more benefits from them! Beautiful women ought to utilize their gifts and for just one night with you, you'll save yourself decades worth of hard work..." Mister Lynch said, proudly, feeling confident that Janice would cave before the temptation of money.

Mister Lynch had assumed that Leon was an employee working for Janice and Ava, so he would no longer consider Acme Group a business partner since Leon injured him, even if Acme Group agreed to paying an extra ten percent of their total profit.

"Mister Lynch, please calm down. It's not like that. Please let me explain..." said Ava hastily.

The collaboration meant everything to Acme Group, and if the partnership came to an end, she did not know how she could explain herself to the company's board.

"I don't want your explanation! This isn't over! Just wait; I will make you three pay for this!" Mister Lynch declared before turning to leave.

"Where do you think you are going? Did I give you my permission to leave?" Leon sneered and kicked Mister Lynch down to the ground.

He was the vice president of Westpraise Group and had never been humiliated in such a manner. He swore to make Leon pay for the humiliation that he felt and toy with Ava and Janice as he pleased to vent his anger.

Ava snapped out of the initial shock after Mister Lynch left and slammed her palms against the table. "Look at what you've done! Are you trying to get us killed or something?!"

"Jensen, there's something that I need your help with..." Leon proceeded to explain the situation briefly and informed Jensen of the name of the hotel along with their room number.

"What a coincidence, Mister Wolf," remarked Jensen, chuckling.

"Coincidence?" Leon was confused.

“I’m in the same hotel on the floor above, having lunch with my friends! Just give me a minute and I’ll be there,” explained Jensen before hanging up.
