

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 2391

Married at First Sight Chapter 2391-“Here we are, this is my home.” Kiera led Julian into a self-built house with a small yard.

Julian knew the location of the Caron family, and he knew the future Caron family from the bottom up.

The Caron family was not considered very rich in Yonsburg, but their martial arts gym was very famous in Yonsburg. Their family background was not comparable to that of real wealthy families, but it was better than many ordinary families.

In addition to owning a house on this street, they also had several houses in other places.

The place occupied by the Caron family martial arts gym was also bought by the Caron family.

Mr. Caron’s plan was to build his own house for the eldest son. The eldest son would hold up the house and take over the Caron family martial arts gym in the future, and the suites would be distributed to the youngest son and daughter Kiera.

If Mr. Caron made enough money to buy a house again, he would buy land and build his own house, which he and his son would share. In addition to giving Kiera a set as a dowry, the rest of the suite could be rented out, allowing the elderly couple to generate income through rent.

The Caron family’s self-built house was built with three facades, which was much more spacious than its neighbors.

A gatehouse was built at the gate of the courtyard. As soon as Julian entered the gate, he first saw a screen wall with a big blessing character pasted in the middle of the screen wall.

Julian followed Kiera into the courtyard, saw the big word “Ca”, and said, “I thought there would be a big word “Ca” posted in your house.”

Kiera: “My mother tore it up. My father posted it once, and my mother tore it once. It was full of stickers in the martial arts gym, and my mother didn’t care, but my father couldn't post those related to learning martial arts at home. Later, he would not post it.

My mother is up to the arrangement of the house, My father doesn't interfere, so as not to cause conflicts between the husband and wife. My father is very skilled, but he will be chased by my mother for several blocks. Everyone knows that my father is a wife Strict."

Kiera shared it with Julian; that is, she had witnessed the way her parents get along and witnessed her father pampering her mother for decades.

Her mother wasn't worried about her husband's domestic violence against her, and her father wouldn't think that way either. Before they met, she thought about the fight between husband and wife in the future, and she had to think clearly about who would win and who would lose.

Besides, she had practiced martial arts since she was a child, but she was not an unreasonable person. As long as the other party did not strike first, she would not commit domestic violence.

"Dad, Mom, we have guests at our house." Kiera shouted loudly as he walked in.

Mrs. Caron was still cooking in the kitchen, and Mr. Caron heard his daughter's yell, and walked out of the house while responding.

"Who's here?" Mr. Caron asked curiously.

When Mr. Caron saw a strange man next to his daughter, that man was handsome and handsome, exuding a dignified aura from all over his body, but his aura was particularly domineering, he was not a simple person at first glance.

Mr. Caron was a little dazed. Because he didn't know Julian.

"Dad."

Kiera walked quickly to her father, then introduced Julian to her father, and said, "Dad, this is Mr. Bucham, came from Wiltspoon, and I helped him solve a small problem in Wiltspoon. He heard that our family opened a martial arts gym, and You're very skilled, so he wanted to come and learn martial arts from you."

Mr. Caron: "...to learn martial arts from me?"

The students in their martial arts gym were all children, they started practicing from a young age, and some people continued to practice until they reached adulthood, but no beginners in their thirties had been accepted yet.

Julian was well maintained. In Kiera's eyes, he looked like he was in his twenties, but Mr. Caron had sharp eyes, and he could guess that Julian was in his early thirties.

"Dad, let's talk in the house." Kiera saw her father's expression, and knew that her father was unlikely to accept Julian.

Not to mention that her father was surprised, she was even surprised when Julian said that.