

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2489

Married at First Sight Chapter 2489-Callum was not satisfied with her fleeting kiss, so he hugged her and gave her a passionate and deep kiss in return.

After a kiss, Callum said trustingly, "I know you won't be a virgin. I like your way of doing things. Just like me, we are a perfect match."

Camryn: "You are getting thicker and thicker."

Callum: "Even if I'm not thick-skinned, I won't be able to catch you."

Camryn: "..."

Only when they heard footsteps did the two let go of each other.

The butler walked in, walked up to the two people, and said respectfully, "Miss, I have sent someone to follow the second young lady secretly. After the second young lady left, she borrowed the security guard's mobile phone outside to make a call."

After saying that, he handed the mobile phone number to Camryn.

"The second lady called this number. After the call was connected, the second lady didn't chat with the other party for too long and hung up the phone quickly."

Camryn took the small note with Mrs. Janzen's new mobile phone number and read it. Looking at the number, she said, "Whose number is this? No one in the Newman family uses this number."

She raised her head and said to the butler, "Keep an eye on Carrie's whereabouts; see where she goes and who she comes into contact with, and don't be fooled."

As for who was the owner behind this new number, she would find out.

The butler responded respectfully. Then he quietly exited without disturbing the couple.

Callum took the note from Camryn and said, "Let me help you check who this number belongs to."

Camryn blushed slightly, scolded him for a few words, and then let him help.

Wasn't he just afraid that she would ask Brother Dal for help?

She never thought of asking Brother Dal for help with such a small matter; she could solve it by herself.

Camryn: "Didn't you tell Dr. Carden that you would cook a table of delicious food for her in the evening? Come on, let's go back to the villa."

Callum asked her, "Don't you take a rest?"

Camryn: "On the way back, I'll sleep in the car for a while. Wake me up when you get there."

Callum smiled and said, "That's okay."

He picked up a small snack, fed it into her mouth, and asked her, "Is there anything you need to take back? I'll help you clean up."

Camryn: "I have everything at home; what else do I need to bring?"

She had not yet married Callum. Since their engagement, she has moved into all of Callum's properties. In addition to her daily necessities, she also had a room at Wildridge Manor.

Callum laughed again. "I sent a message to my mother and told her that every time you come back with me, my mother is very happy, and then she puts aside me, her biological son, and only sees you, the daughter-in-law."

Camryn smiled when she mentioned her future parents-in-law. Both her parents-in-law were very good to her.

Everyone in the York family was very kind to her.

Callum said, "Oh, by the way, I have some news for you. The Stone Family's eldest mistress has given birth to a son. If you are free tomorrow, we will go to the hospital to visit and see the little baby. Grandma said the baby is very cute."

