Married at First Sight Chapter 2523-After listening to Shiloh's complaint, Matriarch Farrell said to her, "Shiloh, did you hit Kathryn's car on purpose? Her car was a new luxury car. I went out of my way to coax her last time. If you hit her luxury car and don't pay her for the repairs, it's normal for her to freeze your bank card.

You always do the wrong things and don't face up to your mistakes. You always feel that others are at fault, and you don't look for reasons for yourself.

If you were Kathryn, your new car was hit, and the other party didn't pay to repair the car for you, would you be angry? With your character, if someone hits your car and refuses to pay you for repairs, you will be so angry that you tear down other people's homes."

Matriarch Farrell was scolding Shiloh for being ignorant. Kathryn was her biological daughter and the successor of the Farrell family. People have the power to freeze the bank cards of anyone in the Farrell family and also have the power to reduce the pocket money of anyone in the Farrell family.

Of course, she was still the one in charge, and Kathryn currently does not dare misuse this power to financially attack the Farrell family.

It was during this half month that Kathryn froze Shiloh's bank card when Matriarch Farrell was not in Jensburg and Shiloh went too far.

Shiloh on the other side of the phone pouted and said, "Mom, I just accidentally scratched her car, and it wasn't intentional. The repair fee doesn't cost much; it's only tens of thousands of dollars at most. That's it.

Is she so short on money? Mom, my pocket money was reduced by half, but she has a lot of money."

If Kathryn had not been lucky enough to become the daughter of the Farrell family, the Farrell family would have given Kathryn the monthly pocket money that even Kathryn would not have been able to earn in five years.

Kathryn claimed that she previously held a dead job earning between three and five thousand dollars per month, and the team leader frequently had to reprimand her.

But she didn't dare to resign, because if she resigned and went out to find a job, it would still be the same.

Shiloh also got confirmation of this from her own mother, which proved that Kathryn's previous income was indeed not high.

After the two people exchanged their identities, Shiloh still stayed in the Farrell family as the daughter of the Farrell family, while Kathryn became the eldest daughter of the Farrell family. After all, she was the real daughter of the Farrell family, and she had to be ranked first to take over the Farrell Group in the future.

Then the pocket money of the two people changed drastically in an instant.

Kathryn used to earn three to five thousand dollars a month. After deducting various expenses every month, it would be good to have a thousand dollars left.

After regaining her status as the daughter of the Farrell family, her monthly pocket money was 300,000 dollars, which was equivalent to 10,000 dollars a day.

In the past, Kathryn had to work for four or five years without eating or drinking to earn this amount of pocket money.

Shiloh's monthly pocket money was reduced from 300,000 dollars to 150,000 dollars.

Shiloh's pocket money was half as much as her brothers', despite being more. Shiloh still felt uncomfortable, but there was nothing she could do about it. Who said she was not the real daughter of the Farrell family?

In the Farrell family, there was no restriction on Matriarch Farrell's spending. After all, she had the power. As long as the money she spent had a clear destination, no one could say anything.

This was the treatment she could enjoy as a family member.

Then the successor's pocket money was the highest, at 300,000 dollars per month.

The sons of Matriarch Farrell receive $100,000 a month. As for Holden Janzen, who is the son-in-law of the Farrell family, although he also had a share of $100,000 in pocket money every month, his money was all managed by Matriarch Farrell, and the regulations were also just for a look. Holden did not enjoy the treatment of $100,000 in monthly pocket money.

The money he had on him did not exceed five hundred dollars a day.

He didn't dare to cheat out of concern that his wife, Matriarch Farrell, would ask him where the money went if he spent too much.

At first, Holden was not used to being controlled like this by Matriarch Farrell. He once attempted to cheat, but Cody Jenkins, the assistant working next to Matriarch Farrell, quickly caught him.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2524-After that, even if Holden was very dissatisfied, he did not dare to cheat on Matriarch Farrell again.

Fortunately, his children were pretty good to him as a father and would secretly give him some money to spend, so he lived a comfortable life.

As long as his children were filial, Matriarch Farrell would not care about them.

Of course, if he dared to flirt with women outside, Matriarch Farrell would not be polite to him.

Matriarch Farrell once warned him that if he dared to flirt with women outside, he would be destroyed.

Holden believed that his wife could do what she said.

For decades, no matter how many flowers outside came to him, he did not dare to pick a petal.

"This is not a question of having money or not, but a question of who is right and who is wrong." Matriarch Farrell said it seriously.

Shiloh didn't dare to complain. After a long while, she said again, "Mom, even if I am at fault, Kathryn can't freeze my bank card. What qualifications does she have to do this? She is not the head of the family yet, but she treats me like this. When she really becomes Matriarch Farrell, Mom, do I still have a way to survive?"

As she said that, Shiloh sobbed again. “Mom, I have grown up by your side since I was born, and I can also feel your love for me. Well, I have always thought that I am a member of the Farrell family. I was not aware of the bad things my biological father did, so I am innocent.

Mom, you also told me that I will always be a child of yours, but after being on a business trip for half a month, Kathryn took me for an operation and frozen my bank card. If Kathryn becomes the boss in the future, how can I still live?”

“Don’t you have assets in your name? Do you still need some pocket money?” Matriarch Farrell said calmly.

Shiloh’s money was not actually pocket money. Her daily quota of $5000 was not enough for her to spend. What she spent was a credit card given to her by Matriarch Farrell. She could use whatever she wanted.

Shiloh said: “I don’t have many assets in my name, just a few houses, two or three cars, and two shops, and my savings are not even nine figures.”

Her savings were just over $10 million.

For someone who was used to spending money like water, she said that a deposit of just over $10 million couldn’t be spent easily.

It’s hard to sell her luxury goods now, and she couldn’t sell them now. When Kathryn came to power, her life would be difficult, and she could resell them for money.

In addition to buying luxury goods, Shiloh also wanted to invest to ensure her future.

She used to be the young mistress and successor of the Farrell family, and the entire Farrell family would become hers. She didn’t have to bother investing in private properties at all; she just bought a few apartments and shops.

God was kidding her. Now she wanted to invest, but she didn’t have enough funds.

Matriarch Farrell: “Has Kathryn frozen your personal bank card?”

“That’s my personal bank card. What qualifications does she have to freeze mine? It’s the card I used to receive my pocket money, and the credit card you gave me to use was frozen.”

Matriarch Farrell said, “Since your personal bank card has not been frozen, then you can spend the money in your personal bank card.”
