

Chapter 89 Counterattack (Part Two)

Nina was shocked for a while. Her eyes filled with rage and disdain, she responded, "Annabelle, you're a murderer. How dare you show up here?"

The reporters gazed at Annabel as they heard her voice, worried about missing information. And focused their cameras on her.

Nobody expected Annabel would show up.

Many internet users cursed her. They thought that she would be hiding.

On the other hand, the arrival of Annabel would make things more exciting for the media.

The conflict between the two would make their live interview more enjoyable and appealing to the public, and viewership would increase.

One reporter stepped forward and asked Annabel, "Nina and Cathy have told us what happened at Lover Lake. They all claim that you pushed Nina into the lake. Is that true?"

"Cathy, did you honestly see me push Nina into the lake?" Annabel chuckled. 1

"Yes. My classmate and I witnessed the incident," Cathy replied firmly.

"Are you sure?" Annabel then looked at Nina and sneered. "What about you, Nina? Did you see it clearly? Did I push you into the lake?" 1

"Yes! You're so wicked that you wanted to murder me. How could I possibly be wrong? You were the one who pushed me into the lake!" Nina shouted furiously, her pale face distorted and her eyes filled with hatred.

"Well, Nina, you claimed I pushed you into the lake, intending to kill you. But you're still alive, aren't you? Who rescued you?" Annabel inquired abruptly. 1

Nina was astounded. She was well aware that Annabel was the one who rescued her and gave her CPR.

But there was no way she was going to tell the truth. 1

She stared at Annabel angrily and replied, "I passed out at that time. How could I know?"

"What about you, Cathy? Since you saw me push Nina into the water, you must have seen who rescued her, right?" Annabel stated indifferently, crossing her arms over her chest.

Cathy hesitated for a second before responding, "It was... Rory."

"Rory, were you the one who rescued Nina?" Annabel raised her voice and inquired, looking at the ward's door.

Rory?

The reporters were ecstatic. They couldn't believe that Rory also came.

Rory stepped in and removed his hat and sunglasses, revealing his beautiful face.

"Oh, my goodness! It's indeed Rory, the movie star!"

Everyone knew Rory was a low-key guy who rarely accepted interviews from the media. Many reporters would follow him all night to take a photo of him.

But now Rory showed up there.

"Rory, were you also present when the accident happened at Lover Lake that day?" a reporter asked. 1

"Yes." Rory nodded.

The reporter continued, "Did you see what happened at that time? Was Annabel the one who pushed Nina into the lake?"

Rory cleared his throat and replied gently, "No. That day, we went to Lover Lake to shoot an advertisement. Annabel went in search of the perfect shooting location. When I arrived at the scene, I saw Nina in the lake. I quickly jumped into the water to rescue Nina but almost drowned since I'm not a good swimmer. Thankfully, Annabel jumped into the water and rescued both of us."

The reporters exchanged shocked glances after hearing Rory's statements.

Annabel was the one who saved Nina.

Why would Annabel jump into the lake to save Nina if she was the one who pushed her into the water and planned to kill her?

Seeing the reporters' puzzled expressions, Rory withdrew his phone from his pocket, opened the picture library, and showed it to them. "This is the video I shot at the time. Take a look."

Annabel was skillfully conducting CPR for Nina in the video, with sweat all over her forehead.

"As you can see, if I pushed Nina into the lake, why would I bother saving her? Is there a problem with my brain?" Annabel asked sarcastically while staring at the reporters.

The reporters nodded and looked at Nina suspiciously.

When Cathy saw this, she answered quickly, "Because you thought Nina was dead at the time. You did CPR merely to prove your innocence."

"Do you think I'm as stupid as you who can't even tell the difference between the living and the dead?" Annabel sneered as she messaged the space between her eyebrows.

Some reporters burst out laughing when they heard Annabel's statement.

"Annabel, don't think you can cover up your crime of trying to kill Nina with just a few words!" Cathy's face darkened.

"Yes!" Nina crossed her arms over her chest and scowled at Annabel. "Even if you rescued me, it wouldn't change the fact that you pushed me into the lake and wanted to kill me."

"Really? Who intended to kill whom? Who attacked me with a knife in Benton Group's garage?" Annabel questioned.

Reporters, hearing Annabel's statements, questioned eagerly, "Do you mean...?"

Benton Group's underground garage was monitored. Annabel went to the monitoring room this morning to obtain the surveillance footage of that day. 1

Annabel began playing the video at this time.

In the video, Nina insulted Annabel, pulled out a knife and attempted to stab her.

Simultaneously, she yelled, "Annabel, go to hell!"

The video paused abruptly, and Annabel stated coldly, "Everyone has seen it. Nina was the one who tried to stab me with a knife and wanted to kill me. That was also the case at Lover Lake that day. She tried to push me into the lake and accidentally fell into the water."

Annabel's video was streamed live to viewers throughout the country.

At this very moment, viewers began to comment.

"Oh my God, Nina is a horrible person."

"Annabel seems to have turned the table."

"The story is becoming increasingly intriguing. Keep on!"

"Rory is quite attractive. Is there anyone who wishes to see him like me? I will always stand for Rory and Annabel!"

Nina's face hardened. "Annabel, stop talking nonsense! You were the one who pushed me into the lake."

"Nonsense?" Annabel sneered. "Didn't you try to stab me with a knife? Didn't you yell that I should go to hell?"

Everyone present nodded and looked at Nina curiously.

Nina was too agitated to think clearly. "Even if I wanted you dead at the time, it didn't mean anything. It was not like what happened in Lover Lake."

Annabel laughed. "You've finally admitted it. You wanted to kill me, didn't you?"
