

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 14 Are You Afraid I'll Cling on to You?

Christian looked at her silently. His eyes were sharp...

“Are you afraid? Are you afraid that I will cling onto you?”

Sarah quickly shook her head. “No... No... that’s not what I meant.”

Christian retracted his gaze and looked at the scene in front of him with a cold gaze. “I can understand you. No one wants to marry a paralyzed person. No matter how strong a love is, it will not be able to withstand a single blow from my legs. In this world, there is no true love!”

Sarah heard his words and felt a little sad and desperate. She quickly comforted him, “Don’t say that. Although Vivian betrayed you, you will definitely meet a girl who loves you in the future.”

Christian’s lips curled into a cold smile and looked straight into her eyes.

“If you don’t divorce after three months, will you be willing to live with someone like me for the rest of your life?”

Sarah did not expect him to say such a thing and was at a loss for words for a moment.

“So, I will not hope for any more love...”

Sarah looked at him apologetically, “I am sorry.”

Christian looked at her indifferently and blinked his eyes. “I have never done anything to deceive myself. But this time, I can help you.”

“Really? That’s great! Thank you! Thank you!”

When Sarah heard him agree to her request, she even forgot about her relationship with him. She looked at him and nodded gratefully.

“But your mother will definitely meet the people of Cooper Family...” Christian reminded her again.

Sarah thought for a while and looked at him hesitantly. She asked, “Can you take me to Cooper Family now?”

Christian frowned and looked at the girl. He said, “You should have received the apology from the Cooper family because they owe you not only Julian’s betrayal but also his eyes. Now tell me, you want them to put on a show for you and you will be satisfied?”

Sarah looked at his face and finally had a strange expression. When she thought of her mother, she smiled with relief.

“Julian and I will never be able to together again in this lifetime. I have already lost my love and cannot lose my mother again. She is now the whole world to me. As long as my mother is fine, I’ll do anything!”

Christian looked at the smile on her face calmly. He thought of his deceased mother and understood what she was doing. “I understand...”

When Julian received the call from his father, he more or less understood what was going on. He knew that he would have to face this sooner or later. He arranged all the work and sent Vivian to her apartment. Seeing that she was fine, he prepared to leave.

“Julian!” Vivian saw that he was about to walk to the door. She ran over from the living room and hugged his waist from behind. After what happened today, she could not remain calm.

Julian held her hand and gently patted it. He gently comforted her. “Don’t worry! I will take care of this matter.”

After saying that, he took her hand away and turned around. He smiled and rubbed her face. “You are pregnant now. This is our child. No matter what happens now, to me, you and the baby are the most important, understand?”

Vivian nodded obediently and heaved a sigh of relief in her heart but she still was a little worried. “But the day after tomorrow is the wedding day. Everything has been prepared. Your Big Brother is a very stubborn person. His legs are now paralyzed. What if he doesn't mind the child in my womb and insists on marrying me?"
