

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 2347

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2347-Half a year later.

The Spirit Cage, Wier.

A man in his twenties, and a 15 or 16-year-old girl, were sitting side by side at the top of a big tree on a high mountain near Wier.

The two looked into the distance, both silent.

They seemed to be enjoying the tranquility of the moment.

They were, of course, David and Pebbles.

Now, Pebbles was no longer the little girl she was when she first met David, but a 15 or 16-year-old girl.

She had also started to develop the feminine characteristics that she should have.

Her chest was also beginning to develop.

This was what David was most troubled about.

The little girl had become a teenager and her personality had also changed. She was not as cheeky as before, but she still had not changed her habit of nuzzling against him.

This made it impossible to avoid certain physical contact.

David had repeatedly reminded Pebbles of this and even had a serious talk with her about the boundaries between men and women. He told her that girls should respect themselves and she could not nuzzle against a man so casually or she would become a joke if she was seen by others. It was all in vain.

Pebbles was still stubborn.

She refuted David righteously.

'I'm going to marry you when I grow up so what if we have physical contact?'

David was speechless after hearing that.

In some impoverished areas on Earth, a 15 or 16-year-old would have been married.

Of course, David did not dare to let Pebbles know, otherwise, she might marry him immediately.

Not to mention, as Pebbles grew, her originally round and adorable face gradually matured.

Her baby fat was gone.

She was an absolute beauty.

When she turned 18 and had another transformation, her devastating beauty would damage the country and cause suffering to the people.

Moreover, Pebbles was not soft-spoken or weak. As she grew, she looked a little valiant and formidable-looking.

Although she did not look very old and looked only about 15 or 16, she had an extraordinary personality.

At first glance, one could tell she was born into a noble family.

This could not be cultivated by ordinary forces at all.

Even if the little girl was not from the top power in level 9 civilization Leila, her family would probably be one that was about the same level.

The nobility emanating from her body was innate and it came from the depths of her soul rather than deliberately expressed.

Recently, Pebbles often took David to the highest place around Wier. Then, she would sit quietly on the top of the tree and it was not known what was going on in her mind.

David felt that the little girl might have recalled some of her past.

He wanted to know but he had promised Pebbles that he would not ask again unless she took the initiative to tell him.

Every time they came here, David could only accompany her quietly.

Then, they would go back together when the girl was satisfied.

While he was feeling bored, David turned on the system. Nothing else changed.