

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 2307

Chapter 2307

"The thing is," began the Southern Boss, his tone measured. "Arthur and August have now firmly concluded that Leon is the one responsible for plotting Yonas's demise. In three days, they will undoubtedly kill Leon to avenge Yonas. My suggestion is to wait those three days and let them tear each other apart. Wouldn't that be better?" The Grand Apostle hesitated, his face showing doubt.

The Southern Boss shook his head. "I won't wait any longer! Leon is no fool and if he senses danger, he might very well escape from the Southern region. I can't let him get away."

He did not want to wait three days, mainly because he feared Leon would flee in fear.

Moreover, the true culprit behind Yonas's murder was Rodney, not Leon.

Although Rodney's plan to frame Leon was flawless and left no clues, nothing in this world was absolute.

If Leon were to discover even the slightest trace of evidence during these three days, it would be detrimental to Rodney and the Spears. In that case, it was better to act pre-emptively, taking advantage of the division within the Thompsons, eliminating Leon, Angus, and Yuri in one fell swoop. By doing so, not only would they successfully seize Cynthion Group, but they would also plunge the Thompsons into chaos, leading them to their downfall.

"But," The Grand Apostle began to speak, but before he could utter another word, the Southern Boss interrupted him.

"That's enough," the Southern Boss said sternly with a deadly look on his face. "Grand Apostle, rest assured, I have everything under control.

Regardless, I will make proper arrangements. This time, I must eliminate Leon and Angus at all costs to prevent any future trouble."

"Well, alright," the Grand Apostle conceded, seeing that the Southern Boss made up his mind, and abandoned any further attempts to dissuade him.

"Very well, everyone, go back and get ready," the Southern Boss commanded. "We will commence our operation tomorrow morning."

With his orders given, everyone dispersed.

The following morning, after Leon and Iris, along with the other women, finished breakfast, hurried footsteps echoed through the air.

Suddenly, Angus and Yuri burst into the room, accompanied by several Thompsons' martial artists with anxious looks all across their faces.

"Mister Wolf, we're in trouble," Angus blurted out hastily.

"Uncle Angus, what's the matter? What happened?" Leon quickly approached Angus in confusion, wondering what could have caused Angus, known for his composed and capable demeanor, to appear so frantic.

"Well, I've just received a message from the fourth elder. The Southern Boss has gathered a large group of martial artists and is approaching the Heavenly Waters Estate. It seems he intends to harm you," Angus spoke solemnly as he provided a brief account of the situation.

Last night, Angus arranged for the fourth elder to keep an eye on the Spears and the Fourth elder instantly alerted Angus upon finding out that the Southern Boss was gathering his men to launch an attack on Leon.

"What?!" Leon was stunned by the news.

He planned everything and was prepared to kill Rodney and declare war against the Southern Boss if he could not find Fiona in time to prove his innocence. However, to his bewilderment, the Southern Boss was ahead of him and intended to eliminate him before he had the chance to do anything.

It completely caught Leon off guard and he was shaken to the core.
