

Chapter 1410 Your Design Is Excellent

As the preceding designer's models finished their performance, it was Brandon's turn to take to the runway.

Janet gulped nervously before putting her thumbs up to Brandon and saying, "Go for it!"

"Don't worry," Brandon replied with a confident smile.

Taking a deep breath, Janet nodded as she watched Brandon walk up the runway.

Though he was not a professional model, his physique and looks were so exceptional that he was certainly comparable to a top model. Especially in the black suit designed by Janet, his intoxicatingly charming aura burst out, surpassing most of the models present.

The moment Brandon stepped on the runway, he was welcomed with a roar of applause and cheer.

"Oh my god! Who's this model? I've never seen him before! He's so attractive!"

was welcomed with a roar of applause and cheer.

"Oh my god! Who's this model? I've never seen him before! He's so attractive!"

"Is he a newbie? He's even surpassed the other supermodels here! So dapper!"

"That suit he's wearing is exquisite! It perfectly accentuates his handsome features!"

"Quick, find out which designer made that suit, I want her to design my clothes!"

The audience showered Brandon with cheers and praises, but he remained impassive and composed, maintaining his manly gait as he walked the runway. He seemed skilled and not like someone walking the runway for the first time in their life.

Janet was both satisfied and surprised by her husband's excellent performance.

"I never thought he could be so amazing on his first show," she whispered to herself, hearing the audience's cheer. "His talent would be wasted if he did not pursue a modeling career!"

However, Janet was relieved that his performance was so well received, because it meant that they appreciated her work as well.

At that moment, Draco and Mandy arrived backstage and were also amazed at Brandon's professional gait, not inferior to that of the supermodels.

Draco looked at Brandon with deep admiration and exclaimed, "I never imagined Mr. Larson to be such an exceptional model on top of being a successful businessman!"

Upon hearing that, Janet's lips curved into a proud smile. Indeed, her beloved husband was incredible!

Mandy stood beside Janet with a faint glimmer of appreciation in her eyes.

However, she was a haughty woman and would never express it out loud despite marveling at someone. She raised her chin and said arrogantly, "Not bad. At least he didn't embarrass all the designers in our country."

Janet shook her head helplessly and said, "Thank you for your praise, Miss Hamilton."

Mandy snorted coldly and retorted, "Who said I was praising you? Don't flatter yourself."

"Janet, your design is excellent," Draco blurted out, his eyes fixed on the suit Brandon was wearing.

Janet looked at Draco in astonishment and asked, "Mr. Wesley, what did you just say?"

She couldn't believe that great Mr. Wesley had given her such high praise.

Draco smiled at Janet, feeling emotional. "Janet, you have made great progress. If you keep this up, you will soon surpass me."

When Janet first arrived at W Marks, she was a rookie with little knowledge of design. But in less than a year, she had made great strides and was even able to compete with Draco.

Janet blushed and said gingerly, "No! I still have a long way to go, and I still have a lot to learn from you, Mr. Wesley."

Draco shook his head and argued, "There's nothing more that you could learn from me. You have your style and your insights, and they're outstanding."

Draco's gaze turned to Brandon. "In a critical situation like this, you handled everything effortlessly and knew how to choose the model that suited your design style. To be honest, I may not be as good as you in that regard."

Janet stared at Draco in amazement, not knowing what to say.

At that moment, Brandon finished his walk and headed toward Janet.
