

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1569

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1569

Chapter 1569

Compared to giving speeches at art exhibitions, this felt more rewarding for her.

Seeing her dad, Hilaria, and Calvin all come to watch her rehearsal made her super happy

When the official performance rolled around, the entire family would be there to cheer her on

Just thinking about it put a big smile on Ivy's face.

At the dinner table, the usually quiet Ivy was buzzing with excitement, chatting away with her dad, granny, and Calvin

"After seeing Ivy's rehearsal, I was finally able to relax!" Hilaria said with a laugh. I was really worried before that Calvin and Mike would affect by Mike wasn't there.

Calvin felt totally lost, having no idea what was going on.

He glanced at Wayne next to him and saw that he looked just as puzzled.

There was no point in asking Wayne. Even if Wayne didn't have amnesia, he still might not know what had happened.

But then.

"Really? Do Calvin and Mike both suck at singing?" Wayne said with a chuckle.

Calvin looked at him in surprise.

Is this what they call a shrewd businessman?

He actually realized right away that their singing sucked!

“Not only do they suck, their singing is like Ivy when she first started learning to talk. They dared to teach her singing! By the time I found out, they’d been teaching Ivy to sing for seven or eight months!” Hilaria was fuming. “Before she turned three, Ivy was always off key when she sang

It wasn’t

Just Hilaria.

Wayne was also starting to feel a bit anxious.

“Do I really sing that badly?” Calvin mumbled

“Go home, shut the door, or go to your workspace and try it out for yourself! Hilaria said mercilessly

Calvin kept defending himself in his native language, trying to convince everyone he could sing.

Hilaria responded in his language.

Ivy tugged on her dad’s pinky, and Wayne immediately leaned over to her

Ivy covered her mouth with her hand and whispered, “Calvin’s ego is hurt but Granny is scolding him again!”

Calvin teaching Ivy to sing was a sore point for Hilaria.

She wasn’t going to comfort Calvin.

She was just going to criticize him harshly!

If they were going to have more kids in the future, she needed to teach him a lesson now, or he’d make the same mistakes again!

Wayne was clearly not focusing on what Ivy wanted him to, but instead.....

Ivy, can you understand Calvin's language?" Wayne asked in surprise and pride.

"A little bit." Ivy immediately responded, a hint of pride on her pretty face.

Wayne's eyes were full of admiration and joy for Ivy

Seeing Wayne's reaction, Ivy counted on her fingers and told him, "I can also understand some French, Italian, and German because our neighbors in the M Country were from these countries. They were all very friendly, and all the women were beautiful. I really liked them".

Calvin was still trying to argue with Hilaria that he was not tone-deaf.

Ivy was happily showing off her language skills to Wayne

At this point, a woman in her twenties, dressed modestly, walked into the dining hall. She seemed to be looking for someone. After a while, her gaze landed on Ivy's family in the corner

She quickly headed over

Before she got too close, two bodyguards sitting in between two tables noticed her. One of them stood up.

The woman paused, then understood who they were. She quickly said with a smile. "I'm the mother of one of Ivy Jared's classmates. I need to talk to her" "Please wait"

The tall bodyguard quickly walked over

By now, the woman's arrival had caught Wayne and Hilaria's attention.

Chapter 1570

"Mrs. Jared, she says she's the mother of Ivy's classmate and she wants to have a chat with Ivy"

Hilaria glanced in her direction.

The lady looked quite frail and her features were gentle.

Let her come over” Hilaria nodded.

The bodyguard acknowledged and went to invite the lady over

The lady walked over.

She didn’t seem to recognize Hilaria, and she didn’t seem to know Wayne either,

She only gave a slight nod and then turned her gaze to Ivy

“Ivy, do you remember me?” The lady asked with a gentle smile, as if trying to leave a good impression on Ivy.

Ivy thought her face seemed familiar

But, she couldn’t confirm where she had seen this woman.

She had a good memory. If they had met formally, she would definitely remember who she was.

However, if it was just a passing encounter, it could have been during some group activities where she saw her.

“Are you my classmate’s mother? May I ask who?” Ivy politely asked.

“My daughter is Alison Hammer!” She quickly replied, “The one sitting three seats behind you, always with a ponytail, wearing black-rimmed glasses. She will also be joining the choir with your

Ivy remembered all the names in her class.

Of course, she also remembered who Alison was.

But Alison was one of the students who rarely played with her in class.

She was either reading or doing exercises every day.

And there was one more thing

In the last midterm exam, Ivy had made great progress and her rank even surpassed Alison’s

Alison’s ranking dropped, and the day the ranking was announced, Alison stared at her score for a while and suddenly started crying on her desk.

At this moment, it wasn’t long since the announcement of the midterm exam results.

Ivy thought, perhaps that woman came to see her because of this.

Did that woman want her to comfort Alison?

After all, Ivy was often asked by teachers to comfort her classmates.

But this was the first time a parent came to see her.

Is it because of the last midterm exam? Is she still upset? Ivy asked.

Hearing Ivy mention the midterm exam, the color on Alison's mother's face changed slightly, then a hint of disgust rose in her eyes. "Doing poorly in the midterm exam is her own problem. I clearly told her to check her work carefully before handing it in. The unsatisfactory result must be because she didn't check her answers properly, otherwise her ranking wouldn't have dropped,"

Ivy was speechless, she felt a little embarrassed

Her midterm exam scores were not much higher than Alison's.

If it's not about the midterm exam, then why are you here to see me?" Ivy dodged the topic of the midterm exam.

A smile immediately appeared on the lady's face again.

"Ivy, I know you've always been the best student in the class. You care about your friends the most, so you'll definitely help me and Alison

After hearing that woman praise Ivy, the smile on Hilaria's face completely disappeared.

Just when she was about to say something, she heard Ivy say seriously, "Ma'am, please tell me what it's about first. I'm just a kid, I can't help with everything"

Hilaria's face was filled with smiles again after hearing this by at home, would be extremely happy whenever she was praised.

Hilaria was a little worried about her just now.

She was afraid that lay this little girl, would become too friendly to others after hearing their praise.

Unexpectedly, her darling was not as naive as she looked