

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Chapter 1731

Chapter 1731

“Gotcha” Paige nodded.

Blake pulled out some cash from his casual pants pocket, “Kids, come over. One for each of you.”

“Go ahead.” Rosalynn signaled Molly and Liam

Cory and Ivy never hold back in situations like this.

The four kids lined up by height and collected the cash.

It’s quite funny that Blake’s way seemed a bit too deliberate, since the boys clearly got less money than the girls.

After the money was distributed, lunch began.

Baillie had already informed the house about each guest’s preferences.

The table was filled with everyone’s favorite dishes.

Kate loves kids and was surprised and delighted to hear that the four kids sitting at the table all ranked first in their grades.

Ivy mentioned that Liam was particularly good at math and also had a knack for chess.

That night, when Liam returned to his room, there were loads more books.

Until now, Liam hadn’t received much care and love from his parents.

For the first time, he felt exhausted from all the love and care.

After lunch, Larkin arranged for the elders of the house to diagnose Wayne.

“Your body indeed needs some time to recover, you lost too much blood from your previous injury,” the silver-haired elder said while making his diagnosis.

“As for regaining your memories, you could try crystal healing, but... you seem to be worrying too much, it’s okay if the memories don’t come back.”

Rosalynn tightly held Wayne’s other hand, “May I ask, can the medicine you prescribed help balance his body?”

“Yep.” The elder nodded. “But, Mr. Silverman needs to worry less.”

Til make sure he does!” Rosalynn quickly said.

The elder glanced at Rosalynn, “Never mind him, you have quite some issues yourself. Did you have a serious illness before?”

Rosalynn nodded.

“Take good care of yourself. You young people don’t cherish yourselves. You may not see any problems on your yearly check-up reports, but when problems do come, they’ll be huge.”

Wayne didn’t have much of a reaction to his own diagnosis.

But when the elder said this about Rosalynn, his face tightened immediately.

“Could you please check Rosalynn again? If there are any issues, let’s treat them in time!” Paige was also quite anxious on the side.

Erica also spoke up, “Sir.”

“Ah, why are you all so worried about her?” The elder waved his hand, annoyed by their fuss. “Relax, what do you think I’m here for?”

After prescribing medicine for Wayne, the elder examined Rosalynn, “The loss from childbirth was significant. Although you’ve been trying to recover, you haven’t made much progress.”

Wayne’s face filled with more guilt.

After the diagnosis, the elder wrote a prescription.

“As for Mr. Silverman’s amnesia, if you want to try crystal healing, go find Larkin. He’s got the best skills!”

“Thank you so much!”

Rosalynn nodded slightly

Then she left the courtyard.

Rosalynn glanced at the hand that Wayne was tightly gripping

“What are you doing?” she asked softly.

“I’m scared” Wayne answered sincerely. “Darling, let Mr. Carter treat me. I want to regain my memory as soon as possible so I can go to work and you can go home to rest”

“We don’t need him to treat you” Rosalynn shook her head without hesitation. She looked at Wayne gently, “Let’s just take it slow on regaining your memory. Regaining memory and you going to work, they’re not contradictory”

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Novel

Score 9.0

Chapter 1732

Rosalynn’s thought process was pretty straightforward right now.

Though the old man’s method might fast-track Wayne’s memory recovery.

But to her, it seemed a bit too much like taking shortcuts.

The old man had been vague, implying that not all of Wayne’s past memories were necessarily good ones.

So, she chose not to gamble on it anymore.

Rosalynn decided to take it slow, focus on getting healthier first. As for memory, whether it came back or not, it didn’t matter much to her anymore.

Let bygones be bygones. She cared more about the future of their family.

Wayne opened his mouth.

Seemed like he wanted to say something, but ended up saying nothing, just nodded obediently.

Ever since Paige announced that she was returning to Norhaven to have her baby, Kate had been preparing everything she could.

Despite having been preparing for a while, she still felt like something was missing.

As Paige's due date coming close, her legs had started to swell a bit.

Paige wanted a natural birth, so to ensure a smooth delivery, she'd go for a walk for an hour every evening after dinner.

While in H City, she'd stroll around in Rosalynn's garden.

But in Norhaven, she had more options.

At dusk.

Six adults and four kids would head out to the nearby river to watch the sunset.

Before they left, Newell ran out and stopped Baillie.

"Baillie, can you help me with something?" he asked.

Baillie looked at Paige.

Paige smiled and nudged him gently. "Go help Newell. I can go for a walk with Rosalynn and the others."

"Don't go too far. I'll come to you soon." Baillie's big hand softly caressed Paige's lower back, then he followed Newell.

Erica said in a low voice, "Newell seems so down-to-earth, can't believe he's running such a big company!"

Now, the Scott family's business was mainly divided into four parts.

Newell and Luke each managed one part, while Blake and Kate each handled another.

"At home, they're like this, but I've been to a shareholders' meeting with Baillie, and I couldn't even recognize those two power-players there!" Paige said proudly. "That's when I understood why Luna chose them"

Luna was also a very capable woman, she didn't work at the Scott family's company, but started her own enterprise.

Once they were outside, the kids were like little birds set free.

The usually quiet Molly also joined Ivy in a playful water fight by the riverside.

Rosalynn was momentarily distracted and found four soaking wet kids in front of her, including her own son.

Erica worried the kids might catch a cold, "Should we go back and change clothes?"

Rosalynn waved it off, "don't worry. If they get sick, they'll learn not to play like this next time."

As she was speaking, Wayne suddenly shouted, "Max!"

Just as his words fell, there was a loud splash.

Max had gleefully jumped off a small bridge and into the river.

Then he frolicked happily in the clear water.

Wayne was speechless

He and Ivy had just gone through all the trouble to give him a bath a couple of days ago!!

"Max, you're awesome!!"

Ivy was initially startled when she saw Max jump into the river, then she saw him turn around and start swimming back, and she let out a sigh of relief.

The little girl jumped up and down excitedly, shouting, "Max can swim!"

Soon, Max was back on shore.

The Secret Heir Return To Wealth And Love Novel

Score 9.0