Chapter 116

Stefan opened his eyes, and impatience flashed in them. “Woman, you can play hard to get, but don’t push me. A little bit keeps things fun, but don’t go overboard.”

After saying that, he started moving closer to Renee.

He believed Renee was playing hard to get and trying to make him jealous. After all, she loved him so much in the past, so how could she have moved on so easily?

Renee was completely speechless. She took her phone out and started taking pictures of Stefan’s face. “Stefan, I think you need therapy. Is this your idea of revenge because I was in the news? I suggest you leave, or I’ll take you to court tomorrow!”

Stefan stopped moving and squinted at the phone in her hand. “What are you doing?” L

Renee didn’t answer him. After taking the pictures, she immediately called the police. She pretended to cry while she spoke, “Officer, please help me! I’m at Sunup Residence. A stalker followed me home, and he’s trying to harass me. I can’t get him to leave. Please hurry!”

Stefan was speechless. He was about to retort that the police wouldn’t care about a married couple’s quarrel, but he suddenly recalled that they were already divorced.

From a legal perspective, his behavior could definitely be classified as sexual harassment!

Renee noticed Stefan hesitate, and was pleased with herself. “Mr. Hunt, the nearest police station is less than a mile away. If you don’t leave, the police will soon have you in cuffs and you to prison.”

She began reciting something she learned from Zack. “According to Article 237 of Criminal Law, offenders who sexually harass women, in serious cases, will be sentenced to a fixed-term imprisonment for more than five years. Zack is an expert in this field. Try it, if you dare.”

Stefan’s gaze was cold. There was a dangerous emotion brewing inside him. So, Renee wasn’t playing hard to get... she was actually so annoyed by him that she wanted to put him in prison!

Women were always crazy about him, so this was something totally foreign to him. Suddenly, he felt a sense of defeat and humiliation.

Even if she wasn’t doing it intentionally, Renee actually did make him feel possessive.

“Sexual harassment, serious cases...” Stefan muttered furiously.

He stared at Renee like a starving wolf, and then grabbed her chin to lift her face to his. “In that case, I’ll show you what a serious offense looks like!”

Before Renee could protest, he leaned down and kissed her deeply.

“Mmph!” Caught off guard, Renee looked up at Stefan with wide eyes. She felt like a lamb caught in the claws of a hungry predator. She clenched her fists, and started pushing against his shoulders to make him stop. Unfortunately for Renee, this only made Stefan more excited, and he kissed her even harder.

Stefan was certain that he didn’t feel any romantic love toward his ex-wife, and was only possessive of her. However, ever since he had a taste of her feminine allure, he yearned for more. If it wasn’t for his rational mind holding him back, he’d have done this ages ago...

The air was thick with tension, and Renee found it hard to breathe. ‘What’s wrong with this man?!’

When she was still his wife, he treated her indifferently and was never intimate with her. Now that they were divorced, he was openly flirting with her. Did he really think she was the kind of woman who would succumb to his every whim? Did he think she was that easy to manipulate?

As soon as these thoughts occurred to her, she gathered all her strength and stepped on Stefan’s foot roughly. Stefan winced from the pain, and reluctantly let her go.

Renee’s eyes were blazing and she was bristling like an angry kitten, but that only seemed to make her more attractive. “Stefan, you crossed the line! Just you wait... It’s over for you!” Stefan still wasn’t satisfied. He looked at her swollen lips and smirked. “I look forward to it.”

Chapter 117

Stefan didn’t take Renee’s warning seriously. He figured that the most she could do was make him jealous by being with other men.

The next day.

Stefan arrived at Golden Tea House according to plan. He had a business meeting with Jeremy Sunder, the chairman of Sunder Group.

Sunder Group was one of the four major distributors of electronic products in the country. South Group, which used to have a close business relationship with H Group, was on the same level as Sunder Group. However, now that South Group had been pried away by Renee, Stefan had to quickly find a new partner so that H Group’s electronic products wouldn’t experience a drop in sales.

Jeremy had been waiting for a long time in the VIP room of the tea house. As soon as he saw Stefan, he stood up and shook Stefan’s hand with a smile on his face. “Stefan, it’s been a long time. Do you finally have time to sit down for a cup of tea with your uncle?”

“I’d be delighted, Jeremy.” Stefan had an undeniable aura of authority and aloofness. After shaking Jeremy’s hand, he sat down.

“Stefan, try this oolong tea from the west. It’s very fragrant; I’m sure you’ll like it.” Jeremy poured a cup of tea for Stefan. He was obviously trying to play the good host.

Although Jeremy had a greater negotiating power from a business point of view, H Group was far more established. Stefan was at least twenty years younger than Jeremy, but his authoritative manner put him in a superior position. Most importantly, electronic products manufactured by H Group were top-notch. They had an enormous customer base that was loyal to the brand. Anyone who became their distributor would have direct access to the largest market of electronic products in Aeos.

South Group had reaped all the benefits over the past few years. Now, it was finally Sunder Group’s turn. Naturally, Jeremy didn’t want there to be any mishaps.

“I didn’t expect Jerome to end their partnership with H Group. He said he wanted to work with another company that’s barely known in the industry. Such a stupid move...” Jeremy sighed, sipping his cup of tea.

“Well, it’s his loss, and Sunder Group’s gain. I’m looking forward to our partnership,” he added chirpily. “Likewise.” Stefan nodded indifferently, seeming a little distracted.

Although Jeremy was old, he was still as cunning as ever. He secretly observed Stefan for a while, then coughed softly. “Since you and I have made up our minds, why don’t we sign the contract today? For the next three years, H Group will distribute 80 percent of their electronic products to Sunder Group. In return... Apart from the basic purchase price, Sunder Group will also distribute 10% of our profits to H Group every quarter. What do you think?”

Jeremy was being nice, but Stefan still showed no expression. To be honest, he was still hesitant about working with Sunder Group.

It wasn’t because he had any particular dislike of Sunder Group, but his grandfather had, for some reason, forbidden the Hunt family from having any sort of relationship with the Sunder family. Hence, even if Sunder Group had given a much better offer four years ago, H Group had still chosen to work with South Group.

Jeremy began to feel a little anxious when Stefan still didn’t respond. “What’s the matter, Stefan? Do you have something else on your mind?”

Stefan looked at Jeremy with a piercing gaze. “Jeremy, to tell you the truth, Grandpa forbade H Group from cooperating with Sunder Group. Naturally, I’m curious, so I’d like to know... What exactly happened between the two of you?”

Chapter 118

When Jeremy heard this, he squinted a little before smiling. “Stefan, it has to be a misunderstanding. Your grandfather is a great wartime hero, and I admire him. Why would there be any bad blood between us?”

“Is that so?” Stefan asked slowly. He took a sip of his tea, wondering whether Jeremy was telling the truth. In reality, he had already carried out a thorough investigation on Sunder Group before deciding to work with them, and the results hadn’t given him any reason to think that there was any bad blood between the Sunder family and the Hunt family.

However, Stefan also hadn’t had the best relationship with his grandfather. The latter had refused to see him for a long time, so Stefan couldn’t ask him about this in person.

“Of course, it’s true,” Jeremy said firmly. However, he seemed a little guilty. After hesitating for a moment, he decided to be frank. “Back then, I used to be a young and energetic man, so I deceased father-in-law.” might have had a bit of conflict with your “Renee’s father?” Stefan’s eyes turned cold. “What happened between you two?”

“What else could happen between two grown men? It’s either business... or women!” Jeremy replied with a sigh.

“That was a long time ago. At the time, your father-in-law wasn’t in a relationship with your mother-in-law yet. He and I had been business rivals for many years, but we also ended up falling for the same woman, and fought over her big time. In the end, that woman had us both fooled. She ended up not choosing either of us and just disappeared...” Jeremy’s eyes glazed over in disappointment as he talked about his past.

The thing that upset him the most wasn’t what happened between him and Renee’s father – was the woman who had played both him and Renee’s father for fools.

“Stefan, you might not know it, but women are good at pretending to be weak and vulnerable. They can drain you dry with their lies if you’re not careful. Don’t ever let a woman control you, otherwise...”

For some reason, Jeremy’s words instantly reminded Stefan of Renee. Renee was a completely different woman now compared to when they had gotten married.

Stefan felt that no truer words had been said... Women were indeed creatures who were good at pretending.

“Don’t worry, Stefan. The Sunder family and the Hunt family don’t have anything against each other. Even if there’s bad blood between your father-in-law and I, that happened many years ago. Your father-in-law has been gone for four years now, so there’s no point in holding a grudge against the Sunder family, is there?” Jeremy sounded rather disappointed.

“Besides, our families have not been in touch for years. You’re being considerate towards your wife, but has your wife ever been considerate towards you? I heard that your wife was the one who pried away South Group and linked them up with the Osborne family. She seems to have a much more complicated relationship with Geronimo’s son than we might think. Why should you care about a traitor like that?” The older man scoffed.

Stefan’s expression turned even colder after hearing what Jeremy said, and the atmosphere became tense.

Jeremy raised his brows and decided to go all out. “Stefan, don’t be mad. I’m not trying to sow discord between you and your wife because I want the partnership with H Group. It’s just that I think women shouldn’t be given too much respect, or else they might stab you in the back! We don’t have to sign the contract today, but you must take in what I said,” he added.

After that, Jeremy started packing his things to leave.

Stefan frowned. He didn’t plan to stay either. He could sense that the bad blood between Jeremy and his father-in-law wasn’t as simple as Jeremy described. He needed to investigate this further before deciding to work with Sunder Group.

Suddenly, Stefan received a call from Elijah.

“Mr. Hunt, something’s happened! Are you in front of the television? Hurry up and switch it on ... Has

Mrs. Hunt gone mad?!”

Chapter 119

Elijah's voice was loud and panicked. Stefan frowned and immediately ended the call. 'What is that woman up to this time?' He thought wearily.

“What’s the matter, Stefan? Did something happen to your wife?” Jeremy asked. He had stood up and was getting ready to leave, but after hearing Elijah’s voice over the phone, he sat down once more.

Naturally, the tea house had a television, which he asked a waiter to switch on.

Renee appeared on the television screen. She was wearing plain clothes and had no makeup on, but she was surrounded by over a hundred media companies as she made an announcement sadly.

years of “I’m sorry for using up public resources, but today, I want to announce that the four marriage between Mr. Hunt and I have officially come to an end. We’ve chosen to go our separate ways in a peaceful manner. I’m thankful for having known him for the past four years, and I hope he can find his true happiness.”

Reporters below the stage frantically raised their hands and fought to ask Renee questions. “Mrs. Hunt, did you and Mr. Hunt get divorced because of an extramarital affair?”

“Mrs. Hunt, you mentioned on a livestream broadcast that Mr. Hunt has a child with another woman. Did that really happen?”

“There were also rumors that you and the sixth son of the Osborne family, Liam Osborne, frequently spent nights together outside. Did you and Mr. Hunt both have extramarital affairs?

Renee looked down and sobbed softly. She seemed sad and pitiful. “I can only say that Mr. Hunt and I are from two different worlds. There are many things that make us incompatible, so it’s better for the both of us to go our separate ways. As for the rest... I’m afraid I can’t tell you, and I don’t have the courage to do so either.”

Although she didn’t answer the questions, the aggrieved look on her face said it all. Without a doubt, as soon as this press conference was over, negative comments would come pouring in for H Group and Stefan.

In reality, even if Renee didn’t say anything, a divorce case among the rich would still go when the media became involved. It was obvious that Renee was doing this as payback for what viral

Stefan did to her last night!

It suddenly felt very awkward.

Jeremy expressed his deepest sympathies for Stefan, and quickly told the waiter, “This news is rubbish. Switch it off!” The waiter frantically switched off the television, and everything was normal again.

Stefan kept his mouth shut. His gaze was frigid, and he didn’t utter a single word. Though nobody could tell what he was thinking, his aura was very intimidating.

Jeremy let out a long sigh, and said sadly, “Stefan, don’t let it get to you. Women are all like this. Which of us hasn’t been cheated on before? You’ll get used to it over time. Back then, your game and father-in-law and I were both fooled by that woman. She was good at playing the disappeared without a trace. Otherwise, I’d have...”

Jeremy was about to start ranting when he caught sight of Stefan’s cold gaze, and quickly got back to his point. “Stefan, since you and this woman are divorced, and she even cheated on you, let’s not bother about the bad history between our families. It doesn’t affect you anyway. Why don’t we sign the contract now?”

Stefan remained silent for a moment, then nodded. “Let’s sign it.”

He’d long wanted H Group to work with Sunder Group, but it never happened because Grandpa forbade it. Since that woman had eagerly announced to the world that they were divorced, and she didn’t care about salvaging his reputation, why did he have to hold back? Even if Jeremy killed Renee’s father, it now had nothing to do with Stefan.

From today onwards, Stefan and Renee would go their separate ways!

In less than half an hour after the contract was signed, Stefan received a barrage of calls from Old Mr. Hunt.

“You fool of a child! How dare you work with Sunder Group? Do you know what atrocity Jeremy has committed? Come back and receive your punishment right away!”

Chapter 120

Stefan sighed helplessly and drove back to the Hunt family’s residence. He knew Grandpa would be against his decision of working with Sunder Group, but he didn’t expect the old man to find out about it so quickly. He figured that he’d receive harsh punishment for what he did a lot later.

Oh, well. He could use this opportunity to find out what exactly the Sunder family did.

Before Stefan could even walk in, he could already hear Grandpa yelling.

“That kid has gone astray... He’s willing to do anything for money! I’ll beat the crap out of him today, so don’t you get in my way!”

The wounds on Stefan’s back had yet to fully recover, and he felt a tightness in his chest as he walked forward. It couldn’t be helped, though. Grandpa had grown up in the military, so his way of disciplining the younger generations had always been harsh. That was why all his children had upright personalities, and even Stefan himself rarely went against his word.

Stefan only lost control when Renee was involved....

“Grandpa.” Stefan straightened his posture and walked into the living room.

The housekeeper was overjoyed. "Old Mr. Hunt, please calm down. Master Hunt is here!"

Old Mr. Hunt looked up angrily at Stefan, then hurled a tea cup at him. "You disgrace! How can you still face me?" Stefan felt speechless. "Didn't you ask me to come back?"

"So, you've learned how to talk back! Your wings have grown strong, haven't they? You don't respect me anymore. I should never have raised you!" The old man was furious, and he kept yelling at Stefan.

Stefan was used to this. He obediently listened with his head hung low. Was it any wonder that Grandpa's children never disobeyed him? Even Stefan's father would never fight back. Whenever Grandpa got angry, he behaved like a child that didn't care about reason. If he believed somebody was wrong, there was nothing that person could do to change his mind.

"Didn't I tell you that H Group should never work with Sunder Group, and that people in the Hunt family should never come into contact with Jeremy?!"

"Yes, you did."

"In that case, why did you still do it? You need to be taught a lesson!"

"Go ahead and hit me. My wounds from the last time haven't recovered anyway," Stefan replied nonchalantly, then said sarcastically, "Grandpa, where ever did you find your heart? I have to commend you on its excellent quality."

"Y-You..." Old Mr. Hunt was furious. He had no idea what to do with Stefan. After all, Stefan was the only son in the family, so he couldn't actually kill him.

The housekeeper quickly stepped in. "Old Mr. Hunt, why don't we let bygones be bygones? Sunder Group made a very generous offer, and they're also one of the four major distributors for electrical items. It's a win-win situation if we work with them."

Old Mr. Hunt sighed. "I just don't want Ren to feel bad. If she found out her own husband was working with her father's enemy, how do you think she'd feel?"

Stefan sneered. "So what if she finds out? We're already divorced. She wouldn't even care!"

"How could you say that?" Old Mr. Hunt lifted his walking stick to hit his grandson.

The housekeeper quickly stopped him. "Old Mr. Hunt, calm down. I think Master Hunt is right. She wouldn't mind... Otherwise, she wouldn't have set up a press conference to announce their divorce."

"A press conference? What do you mean? Show me!" Old Mr. Hunt demanded.

Only then did the housekeeper realize he'd made a mistake. "Umm... Just forget what I said. It's nothing."

Old Mr. Hunt was still hoping for Renee and Stefan to get back together, which was why nobody told him about the global press conference Renee set up.

Once the conference was held, the entire world would find out that the two of them were divorced. They would have nothing to do with each other anymore, and it'd be difficult for them to work together in the future.

Stefan's gaze was steely. "Stop trying to keep it from Grandpa. If he wants to see it, show him. He'll know the truth about Renee after watching it."
