

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1701

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1701

After David watched Mick leave, he stood there for about ten minutes. He noticed no one was entering the auction venue.

'Maybe it's too early!'

After all, there were three more hours before the auction.

He did not want to go in initially, but if he entered now, he would be all alone.

It was not that David was scared of being lonely, but when the people participating in the auction arrived later, they would immediately see him and remember him.

This was not in line with David's low-key personality.

Thus, he followed Mick's instructions and left the auction venue to wander on the streets outside.

As one of the top five trading companies in the Central Sacred Continent, Treasure Trove's headquarters would naturally be the most flourishing and central location at the super-large trade zone. There were always people walking around on the streets.

David wandered on the bustling streets, but his mind was on the auction that would start in three hours time.

This auction was very important to him.

His strength would depend on this auction. He did not know how long he would need to wait if he missed it.

He randomly found a tavern that looked slightly more high-end and walked in.

Welcome!"

Two tall and sweet-looking attendants bowed and welcomed him.

After he entered the tavern, David saw a lot of people drinking, chatting, and boasting loudly on one floor.

Soon, a beautiful waitress walked over.

Sir, how many of you?"

Just me. Get me a quiet place. I don't like the noise," David answered.

Do you have a VIP card?"

No

I'm sorry, Sir. If you don't have a VIP card, you can only dine at the dining hall on the first floor. You will need a different tier of VIP card for every floor," the beautiful waitress explained

David thought, 'All service industries will use the same tactic indeed.

They always have different treatment for different consumers.

1 sdp that on Earth, and it's also the same here

Get me one then, David thought about it and cald

Abright, come with me, sir

The beautiful waitress brought David to the front deal

Which VIP tier do you want, sh

"Get me the highest one I want to all on the top floor, David cald

ir, the highest tier will cost you

A few minutes later, David spent ten million Star Dollars to get a VIP card of the highest fick

After that, he left the front desk and headed to the top floor while the beautiful waltresacs stared at him with stars in their eyes

This place was pretty spacious and there were not a lot of people therefore, there were only a few tables that were occupied

David picked a seat near the window and watched the bustling street below

"Sir, what would you like to order?" The beautiful waitress who brought David up here asked courteously

It had been a while since she met a customer who would throw away money so recklessly

When she first saw David, she knew this young man was not simple

Not only was he handsome, but he also had an amazing temperament

Based on her years of reading people, she was sure that David was a direct descendant of a major force.

Indeed, he did not even bat an eyelid when he spent ten million signing up for a member card

A promising young man like him was the target of women like them who were yearning for love

Who would not want to go from rags to riches/

“What’s your signature dish and wine? Get me one of each,” David answered casually

Even though he was not in the most to eat, since he was here, he could not occupy a seat for To the one of this tavern needed money to Hun this place Furthermore, they were located in a sin halutting street, and their coat should not be how

Moreover, how could he sign up for a VIP card and not spend any money?

Even though Bay

Wasted money, he how it was shameful to waste resources

The beautiful waitress lifted her left hand after she said that A screen appeared and she tapped on it casually with her left hand

After she did that, she looked at David and continued, “sh, I’ve ordered them for you Do you want to check the pic

No need just bring them here,” David replied

bal,” the beautiful waitress left after she said that

Alright, please wait, in Enjoy your meal,

David watched the bustling street

He had a question in his heart this entire time

Earth was only a level of civilisation, but there were skyscrapers up to a 100 stories high everywhere

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

Read I Am A Quadrillionaire Chapter 1702

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1702–The Milky Way, a level civilization, and star Kingdom, a level civilization, were much more civilised than Earth but David did not see skyscrapers made out of reinforced concrete. All of the buildings were made from metal or strong wood. Plus, they would not be too tall.

For example, David was sitting on the 10th floor. This was already one of the highest buildings.

The other buildings would only have 4, 4, or 5 floors. The highest would probably be more than 10 floors.

David felt as if he had gone back in time on Earth. However, he was brought back by the advanced technology the waitress used when she ordered his food for him.

He never understood what was going on.

Typically speaking, the higher the civilization, the more advanced the technology.

In some cases, the Milky Way and Star Kingdom were indeed much more advanced than Earth.

However, why was it not the case when it came to buildings?

In fact, David did not know that it would take more than ten years to build a building on Earth using reinforced concrete. Then after decades, it would slowly decay.

On the other hand, the building under his feet now would last for centuries, or even millennia.

This was the difference.

How could reinforced concrete compare to the special metal and wood used to build the buildings?

There was a ten times difference in regard to their lifespan.

It was not that Star Kingdom did not have the skill to build tall buildings. In reality, they just did not need it.

Star Kingdom was enormous, so there was a lot of space for people to live.

Everyone liked to have their own place and own land, so why would they waste so much effort to build tall buildings?

Aside from some major forces who would spend a lot of money and materials to build high buildings to show off their status, no one else would do it

Not only that, the people realized during their development that the human body was the biggest treasure in the universe. They were almost endless

Regardless of how advanced technology was, it was still something external. It would never be able to help humans achieve eternal life.

Therefore, humans started researching other things.

They slowly shifted their focus from outside the human body to inside the human body

In the end, this was what happened.

Cultivation was the treasure to open up the human body

As long as they reached Eternal Realm and were not affected by any external factors, the human lifespan would reach an epoch, which was 129600 years

If they then reached Saint Realm, their lifespan would become unlimited

This was something advanced technology could not achieve.

Hence, David did not see the technology he imagined when he was in the Milky Way, a level 3 civilization, and Star Kingdom, a level 7 civilization.

Instead, they looked as if they had gone back in time.

This was the result of humans shifting their research focus as they developed further

However, this was the core secret of the human race

If David wanted to know more, he would only have the chance when he became a Saint and joined the Saints Association.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-