

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 1720

• • •

Chapter 1720

‘Start the auction now!’

A few minutes later...

“I’ve said too much today, so please forgive me. I know you can’t wait, so let’s start the auction now!”

Valerio got off the stage after his speech.

Then, a veiled woman walked on stage. Even though her face was obscured, she had curves in all the right places. She was tall and had an amazing figure.

David was stunned.

‘Isn’t that Miss Alba Fellowes?’

‘No wonder there’s been no news from her recently.’

‘It seems that she was busy preparing for the auction.’”

“Hello, my name is Alba Fellowes and I’ll be hosting the auction today. I hope you all can get the item you desire.”

After Alba said that, everyone started talking again.

“Damn, isn’t that Miss Alba Fellowes, the one with the looks and the skills? Why is she wearing a veil? I remember that she didn’t wear one before.”

“I know about this. I heard after she got engaged to her fiancé, her fiancé’s family requested her to wear one because she’s too beautiful.”

“Miss Fellowes is engaged? When? Why haven’t I heard about it? Who’s her fiancé? How dare he ask Miss Fellowes to put on a veil? He’s stripping us from our right to appreciate the view!”

“So what if you find out his identity? Will you have the guts to fight back? You will wet your pants if I tell you who her fiancé is.”

Archimedes heard the last sentence.

His face turned pale and dark simultaneously.

He looked so malevolent that it was scary.

‘Wet his pants?’

Not long ago, he just wet his pants because of an unknown brat.

When Archimedes heard that, he felt as if those people were mocking him.

However, there were so many people at the scene that he could not do anything.

“I’ll wet my pants? You must be joking. I’m not scared of you.”

“Listen closely then. Miss Fellowes’ fiancé is Mr. Anders Palmore from the Palmore family. At the same time, he’s also the first in line heir of the Palmore family and the future head of the family. How’s that? Is he prestigious enough?”

“M-Mr. Anders P-Palmore?”

The guy who looked disdainful just now was shaking from fear after hearing that name.

The Palmor family was one of the six top forces of Star Kingdom.

Who did not know or had not heard of him?

The first-in-line heir of a force like this would have a high status. He was possibly even among the top-ranked in Star Kingdom.

When Archimedes heard Anders’ name, he would be lying if he said he was not jealous.

Even though his status was not low, he was still miles apart from Anders.

To put it bluntly, if he told everyone at the tavern he was Anders, they would not be shocked. Instead, they would be shivering from fright like that person just now. Moreover, that kid would not dare to attack him. When could he become like Anders? When could he suppress everyone with just his name?

This was Archimedes' ultimate goal.

“Settle down, everyone. Now, we will start the auction. First, we'll ask the staff of Treasure Trove to take out the first treasure.”

After Alba said that, a beautiful woman in a red dress walked on the stage with a wooden tray.

There was a red cloth covering the tray.

The thing under the cloth must be the first item today.

After the woman walked to Alba's side, she stood there quietly.

• • •