I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1826—How would they tolerate the Fellows family transferring the assets?

“Mr. Valerio, I don’t think you understand what I mean. I’m not asking you to sell the branches to East League Trading Company, but to me.”

‘What does that mean?’

Valerio was still confused.

‘Isn’t East League Trading Company David’s?’

‘What’s the difference between selling the branches to East League Trading Company and David?’

‘Even if David starts another trading company, the Palmore family won’t allow Treasure Trove to transfer their assets.’

“To put it bluntly, aside from its normal operation, Treasure Trove can’t sell any of its fixed assets under the watchful eyes of the Palmore family.”

“Master David, please make yourself clearer. I don’t understand what you’re trying to say. Just tell me what you need our family to do. As long as we can do it, we will do it as best as we can. After all, you’re our only hope,” Valerio said solemnly.

“I’ll just say it then. Mr. Valerio, you’re the head of Treasure Trove, so you can make decisions for Treasure Trove, right?” David asked.

“Sure! As long as I am still the head, I am the decision-maker for Treasure trove,” Valerio said confidently.

Even though someone in the family was asking to oust him, they still needed the approval of the Saint Realm grandmasters.

However, the order had not been issued, meaning Valerio was still the head of Treasure Trove.

As long as he was still in this position, he still had the right to make decisions.

“Alright then. Treasure trove belongs to your family and East League Trading Company belongs to me, so what does the Palmore family have to do with any of this? Who are they to stop us and how can they stop us? As long as we sign the contract, the transaction will be completed. We don’t need to care about them.”

“No! Master David, we’ll be going against TSA’s rules if we do this. All trading companies on the Central Sacred Continent are managed by the TSA and the Palmore family is using their influence to sequester East League Trading Company. Even if we sign the contract, it will not be recognized. The Palmore family can also deny it when the time comes,” Valerio said with a bitter smile.

“You are the owner of Treasure Trove. It’ll be fine as long as you recognize it. I don’t need the Palmore family to recognize what I do. They don’t have the right to do this.” When David said that, he sounded a little overbearing.

The Palmore family was one of the six top forces in Star Kingdom. David would need certain courage to look down on them like this.

Alba had been quiet the entire time, but she was starting to look at David a little dazedly.

David did not care about the Palmore family, who even the grandmasters of the Fellowes family would look scared when talking about.

Alba figured that David was too amazing

‘This man is the true genius.

‘He is a Saint at such a young age, but he doesn’t have the arrogance of a Saint.’

Alba had no idea he was one even after spending so much time with him.

If it was someone else, they would be dying to let everyone in Star Kingdom know that they had broken through.

That arrogant guy Anders was so pitiful.

He only broke through to partial Saint and he was so pleased with himself. He even wanted to hold a party.

How ridiculous.

They had no idea that someone had surpassed them a long time ago and was so exceptional. They had no chance of even catching up to David.

‘I wonder how the Star Kingdom Six will feel after they find out someone broke through to Saint Realm. before they even reached a thousand years old.

“They will surely suffer a huge blow.

“This is a truly devastating opponent!”
