

Ex Wife 1344

Chapter 1344

Francine glared at Stefan.

"I'll beat him up if he cancels the marriage!" Meanwhile, Quinton was recovering in another hospital.

It was now time to remove the gauze on his face.

Renee waited in the ward with her two children and Margaret.

Adie and Abby were extremely excited, and couldn't stop asking questions.

"Did they remove the scar on Uncle's face?" "Did he become a handsome man?" "Is he as handsome as Daddy?" "Will we get a beautiful aunt soon?" Renee's head was starting to ache, and she shushed them exasperatedly.

Stop it, you two.

He needs rest, so don't disturb him." Quinton leaned back against the bed and smiled at the kids tenderly.

"It's fine, I feel better after listening to them.

It's more effective than any medicine." Abby walked to Quinton and held his hand, asking gently, "Uncle, have you ever been in love?" "Ahem!" Renee quickly stopped Abby.

"Abby, don't be rude.

He's your uncle." "Of all the things she could ask him, why that?!" Abby was baffled.

"I'm sure he has a lot of girlfriends since he's so good." "No, that's not it." Adie chimed in, "I don't think he's ever dated anyone before." Renee held her head and groaned.

'Do these kids realize the dangers of asking the infamous Night Demon that? Nobody else would dare to!' However, Quinton was surprisingly calm.

He smiled and said, " Adie, why would you say that I've never dated anyone?" "It's because you're very picky and want only the best.

Those women don't deserve you, and that's why you've always been single!" Adie declared as he rubbed his chin thoughtfully.

"Hmm, that makes sense." Quinton nodded.

Abby became more curious and asked, "Uncle, have you ever dated anyone?" "1..." Quinton unconsciously clenched his fists when he recalled that person.

In the past, he would have lost his temper when thinking about it, but now...

it didn't seem to affect him as much.