

Read I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2642

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2642-Once the guards were exhausted, who would fight the enemy?

As the leader of this escort mission, Captain Himmel quickly realized the enemy's ploy.

They were using the Soul Fracturing Arrows to tire everyone. Once they were physically drained, the enemy would easily win this battle and it would end in bloodshed.

Very clever of them!!!

A cold look flashed in Captain Himmel's eyes.

The enemy had money.

Soul Fracturing Arrows were expensive weapons.

Each arrow cost a lot of money.

Moreover, every arrow could only be used once.

Hundreds of them were probably used in just a short while!

It looked like the enemy had pumped a lot of money into this to ensure they did not stand a chance.

A normal robber would not be able to afford a weapon like the Soul Fracturing Arrow.

Whoever was attacking must be someone of status.

Captain Himmel knew that this situation could not continue.

They had maintained the array for only a while.

That had exhausted 10% of their energy.

If this continued...

It would not be long before everyone's energy was depleted and the array would disappear.

When that happened, they would not even have the chance to fight. They would be like fish in a barrel.

"Listen to me, everyone. The enemy this time is someone you should not underestimate. They are different from those we have faced before. These people have poured in a lot of money. They are using the Soul Fracturing Arrows like they are nothing. Hundreds of those arrows have been shot at us. I have a feeling they won't stop there. They plan to use the Soul Fracturing Arrows to exhaust us physically. Once our energy is depleted, we will be easily annihilated," Captain Himmel said loudly.

Everyone heard what he said.

The guards began to tense up.

If what Captain Himmel said was true, it would be terrible.

"What should we do, Captain Himmel?" someone asked.

"The only way out of this is to stop the array and fight the enemy to the death. We might have a surviving chance this way," Captain Himmel replied.

"But we have no idea of what the enemy's combat skills are like. Wouldn't it be even more dangerous to risk ourselves out there?"

"If the enemy is willing to invest so much into using Soul Fracturing arrows to exhaust our energy, it means that they are afraid of going head-to-head with us, which is why they came up with such a plan. We can't be sitting ducks in here. If we exhaust our energy, we won't even have the chance to fight back," Captain Himmel explained loudly.

Ding, ding, ding...

Those in the array began discussing a plan.

The arrows continued hitting the light screen from the outside.

There was no sign of the Soul Fracturing Arrows slowing down.

“I think it would be best to play it safe. I don’t believe the enemy would have so many Soul Fracturing Arrows. They have used almost thousands of them. Once they have used up the Soul Fracturing Arrows, the normal arrows they have left won’t be able to hurt us at all, and it won’t affect our energy.” The one offering a different opinion was one of the deputy captains of the guards.

This involved their safety.

Everyone was forced to consider their options carefully.

They were hoping to stand their ground until the enemy had used up all of their Soul Fracturing Arrows.

That way, they would be able to rotate amongst themselves to conserve their energy and maintain the array.

Without impactful capabilities, no one could destroy this array’s defense.

Some of the guards supported Captain Himmel while others supported the deputy captain.

Everyone had their own opinions.

Each had their reasons.

After all, everyone has different characteristics.

Some were open to risk, while others preferred certainty.

Captain Himmel was unable to make the ultimate decision at that moment.

He might be captain of the guards but this does not mean he could decide the life and death of others.

The consequence would be disastrous if he made the wrong move.

“Since our opinions differ and we aren’t able to come to a consensus, let’s ask for the opinion of Madam. We’ll do whatever Madam says,” said Captain Himmel.

“Agreed!!!”

“Agreed!!!”

“I have no opinions against this!!!”

The dozens of guards shouted out one after the other.

Even if the guards had come to a consensus, they would still need the agreement of the madam to go ahead with it.

After all, whoever was inside the luxury carriage was the legitimate decision-maker.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2643-David returned to reality.

At the edge of Level 4 civilization of Boundless Galaxy, on Planet Brechen.

He calmly removed the array he had set up and stood up to chase after the convoy.

David was curious about the identity of the person inside the carriage. They looked like important people, and yet they did not seem to be as arrogant or extravagant as other VIPs.

He began to contemplate them from the point of view of a robber.

It was probably not easy robbing them. Those people might have been forced into this situation.

This was something he would not do.

To him, such an action was too benevolent.

David was someone who would take revenge if given the chance.

He was determined to repay those who had helped him and seek revenge on those who had harmed him.

It would not make any difference if he delayed arriving at Leila for another day or two.

David decided to meet this person.

From how cautious the convoy was acting, their journey might not be a smooth one.

There was no harm in giving them a hand now that he had bumped into them!

They were probably fated to meet.

As time passed, David had become stronger.

Now, he had begun to believe in destiny.

He was not supposed to have any interaction with any of the living souls on this planet.

Yet, he couldn't bear the loneliness of being constantly on the road, so he decided to make a stop on this planet.

This might be what destiny had in mind for him.

On the battlefield.

Captain Himmel had gotten everyone's consensus.

He was about to leave the array to get the opinion of the Madam when a voice came from inside the luxury carriage.

"We'll go with your plan, Captain Himmel! You were right when you said these people had come prepared. They're not ordinary robbers. If we continue exhausting our energy this way, we won't stand a fighting chance. Taking a risk when everyone still has energy is the best chance we've got. We might have a slim chance of surviving. If we end up unable to defeat them, make sure to save yourselves instead! Their target should be me. As long as I'm here, they won't go after any of you."

It was evident that the woman in the luxury carriage had an idea of who the enemy was.

"Don't worry, Madam. We'll make sure you reach your destination in one piece," Captain Himmel promised.

"Sigh! I'm the one who got everyone into this. I had never wished to see so many people die along the way." A lament could be heard coming from the luxury carriage.

"Madam, it's our duty to protect you and the Young Master. Even if all of us have to die, we will ensure the safety of you both."

“Thank you, everyone. I’m really grateful to all of you. If Zion and I manage to reach our destination safely, I’ll make sure to reward everyone who has given their all. I promise that you will all enjoy unlimited riches in your later life and will never need to go on another mission. Even if you end up dying, fortune will be promised to your family for three generations.”

‘Thank you, Madam. Thank you, Young Master!’ Captain Himmel thanked her gratefully.

‘Thank you, Madam. Thank you, Young Master!’ The rest of the guards got pumped up as well.

They did not doubt the Madam’s words at all.

That was because the Madam had never broken any promises she made before.

It was not difficult to imagine it.

If they were able to ensure the safety of the Madam and the young master to their destination.

Their remaining days would be guaranteed.

They would have money, women, and resources.

It would be aplenty and it would be endless.

The most important thing they would be given was their freedom.

It was true when they said that reward comes to those who have courage.

The Madam’s words were encouraging.

All the guards were filled with energy, as if they had just been given stimulants.

They swore to escort Madam and Young Master safely to their destination.

After that, all of them would be guaranteed a life of fortune and leisure.

“Everyone! You’ve heard what Madam said. I believe we don’t doubt her words, am I right?” Captain Himmel asked in a loud voice.

“No, we don’t!!!” The guards answered in unison.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2644-“Freedom and unlimited riches. Do you want them?”

“Yes, we do!!!”

“Do you want to live in luxurious mansions?”

‘Yes, we do!!!”

“Do you want your bed warmed by several beauties?”

‘Yes, we do!!!”

“Then, kill the enemy! Send all those bastards who dare take our riches away from us to hell “

“Kill them!!!”

Captain Himmel had ignited the spirit of all the guards by asking a few questions.

The energy among the guards flared up to the highest point.

Every one of them seemed to have been given a strong stimulant.

People would always die for money.

A promise of fortune from the Madam was enough motivation for everyone.

After that, Captain Himmel began strategizing.

“We’ll give up the array when I countdown to one. We’ll leave some men behind to protect Madam while the others will conduct an attack on the enemy who is some distance away from us. Victory will be ours. Fortune will also be ours. Anyone who dares stand between us shall die.”

Captain Himmel was the strongest among the guards. He had to stay behind to protect the Madam.

After all, her safety was the most important of all.

If anything happened to her, what would be the point of annihilating the enemy?

Failing would only end up with all of them having a fate worse than death.

That was also the reason no one was convinced to save themselves when Madam told them to escape should they be defeated.

The moment they accepted this mission, they were all aware that they either had to die during the mission or succeed in escorting the Madam and the Young Master safely to their destination. They would be given their freedom and enjoy unlimited riches for the rest of their lives.

This was not the first time they had faced an attack. They began with hundreds of people in the team, but many had died after numerous attacks from the enemy. Now they were left with only dozens.

Of course, those who survived were the elites of the team.

Any one of them would be able to hold their own individually.

“Get ready!!!”

“Three, two, one... Attack!!!”

“Attack!!!”

Dozens of guards rushed out, red-eyed. They looked like dozens of wild beasts who were not afraid of death.

They rushed out to attack the moment they gave up the array.

Apart from Captain Himmel and a handful who stayed to protect Madam, the rest ran out in separate directions as they fell to the ground and crawled toward the enemy, who was quite some distance away.

Those who were picked for this mission were the cream of the crop.

Each of them was strong and capable.

They were also not afraid to die in battle.

A chill overcame the enemy who was hiding in the dark far away.

The guards who rushed out knew they had to quickly disrupt the enemy's attack and prevent them from shooting more arrows.

Captain Himmel and the rest who stayed back, however, were crucial to this battle.

They were about to face numerous ordinary arrows, mixed with Soul Fracturing Arrows.

The ordinary arrows were not an issue as they were not much of a threat to these elites.

It would not do them much harm even if they end up getting shot.

However, it was a different matter when it came to the Soul Fracturing Arrows.

If they got hit by one, even Captain Himmel, the strongest among them, would be seriously injured. He might even lose his life with one lethal blow from it.

This was part of the enemy's cunning plan.

Blending the Soul Fracturing Arrows into the sea of ordinary arrows would throw them off their guard.

A slight loss in focus could end with a lethal blow.

The light screen defense from the array vanished. Captain Himmel took the lead as he leaped into the air. A powerful force emanated all around him.

He swung the saber in his hand at the arrows coming at them.

A bright force radiated from his saber and collided with the arrows flying through the air.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2645-Clang, clang, clang!!!

The bright force and the arrows clashed.

A thunderous sound emanated from it.

It managed to stop the enemy's attack temporarily.

The others began to do the same.

However, the force from their blades and swords was much smaller than Captain Himmel's.

Dozens of forces from their blades and swords kept clashing with the arrows that kept coming at them.

Ordinary arrows were no match for these forces.

However, it was a different situation when it came to the Soul Fracturing Arrows.

All of a sudden, a Soul Fracturing Arrow pierced through a guard's sword force and punctured his chest.

Squelch!!!

It was the sound of the arrow penetrating his flesh.

"Ah!!!"

The immense force of the Soul Fracturing Arrow hitting the man pushed him downwards as he fell.

Boom!!!

The man hit the ground, creating a huge crater.

Not only was the guard hit by the arrow, but his body was torn apart as well.

This was the power of the Soul Fracturing Arrow.

Compared to an ordinary arrow, its power was dozens of times stronger.

One guard's death did not seem to affect the others.

Everyone was putting up a solid defense in their respective areas. They did not allow even one arrow to break through their defense.

Two more Soul Fracturing Arrows mixed among the ordinary arrows shot toward them once more.

Another guard was shot to the ground. This time, no trace of his body was left.

One guard was lucky enough to avoid the Soul Fracturing Arrow that hit the guard beside him. However, he was spooked by the close call and his forehead was covered in cold sweat.

He had almost died.

It was so close.

That was when a Soul Fracturing Arrow appeared in front of Captain Himmel. It was about to hit him.

However, he was the captain of these guards and had a lot of experience in battle.

He was not one to be trifled with.

Captain Himmel was prepared for the Soul Fracturing Arrow.

He swung his sword at it.

Ding!!!

A sharp sound rang out as his blade collided with the arrow.

Captain Himmel felt the tremendous force from his blade, causing his arms to numb, and he struggled to maintain his grip on his weapon.

It was lucky that he was able to stop any further damage from the Soul Fracturing Arrow despite almost dropping his blade.

That swing of his blade was almost unable to stop the Soul Fracturing Arrow's attack.

The battle continued.

It was not long before five of the guards died.

All were hit by the Soul Fracturing Arrow and did not stand a chance at surviving.

A guard was shot in the left arm.

His entire arm was rendered useless, but at least he managed to keep his life, which was considered a blessing.

Time passed, and the arrows grew scarcer.

It was clear that the guards who had charged toward the enemy had reached the source of the arrows, disrupting the enemy's ability to continue the attack.

However, everyone remained on high alert, anticipating any further threats.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2646-No one dared to let down their guard because there were still more Soul Fracturing Arrows.

However, because there were fewer arrows now, everyone was able to spot the Soul Fracturing Arrows easily, giving them time to prepare for it.

This helped lower the threat of the Soul Fracturing Arrows.

It was then that they heard the sounds of killing and screams coming from the forest around them.

"Focus, everyone, and try to stall for time. We've located where the enemy is. Just hang on for a little longer and we'll be able to garner victory in this battle. A life of riches is waiting for us. Freedom, money, women, mansions. We'll have it all." Captain Himmel encouraged everyone in a loud voice.

They had just been through a battle.

Everyone had exhausted quite a lot of energy.

He had to motivate his people.

They could not let down their guard when victory was near.

There were three luxury carriages to protect in the middle. The first and last carriages were occupied by maids in charge of their employer's daily life.

The carriage in the middle contained the people Captain

Himmel had to protect.

Inside the carriage.

A beautiful middle-aged woman was hugging a young boy of about ten tightly in her arms.

She was the madam Captain Himmel had been referring to.

“Are we going to die, Aunt Leticia?” The young boy asked.

“What nonsense is this?! You’re not going to die, Zion! You’re meant to do great things. The place we’re heading to is where you’ll be destined to do good. We will be safe once we’re there. No one will dare ambush us like this again,” Aunt Leticia smiled as she consoled him.

However, there was bitterness in her smile.

They were considered safe for now.

However, she had no idea if they were able to reach their destination safely.

When they had started their journey, there were hundreds of people in their convoy, but now, only dozens were left.

There was still some distance to go before they reached the location.

Fate would decide if they would arrive in one piece.

Aunt Leticia looked at the little boy in her arms and got determined.

This was Zion’s destiny.

All of these were just heaven’s little test for them.

Zion would be able to pass the test and later make a big name for himself.

“Why do so many people want us dead, Aunt Leticia?” The little boy asked again.

“That’s because you’re meant for big things. Anyone destined for great things will be tested by heaven. If you pass the test, you’ll end up at the top and do great things. These people were sent here by heaven to test you,” Aunt Leticia explained.

“Are they bad people?”

“Not exactly. They’re just serving another master. There is no such thing as good or bad. History is written by the victor. If we die here today, history may record you as a dictator and a rich bully who tormented men and women, and you’ll be hated by the world.”

“I’m not that kind of person! I’m a good person! I will never do something like that,” the little boy immediately objected.

“I know you’re not like that, which is why we must hang on, no matter what. Once we reach our destination, the future will be decided by us.”

“Alright! Don’t worry, Aunt Leticia. I’ll pass this test. I will be the master of the future,” the little boy said with determination in his eyes.

David would have been surprised to hear those words.

This boy was only about ten but his words contained the power to convince others and harmonize with the Heavens of this planet.

Of course, this kind of power was nothing to David.

Every living planet had its own Heaven’s Consciousness, and so did Planet Brechen.

However, a borderline level 4 civilization living planet could easily be destroyed by someone like David, who was almost a Heavenly Overlord.

He could even destroy a planet’s Heaven’s Consciousness.

‘This is the right attitude, Zion. If we get to our destination in one piece, those guards out there will be considered our saviors. It doesn’t matter what reason they have to protect you, you still have to remember what they did and never forget it. I’ve already let everyone know that fortune will be given to three generations of their family. You will need to be the one to execute that promise,’ Aunt Leticia said seriously.

“Don’t worry, Aunt Leticia! I will do what you say and I’ll never go against anyone who has helped us,” the little boy replied sincerely.

However, he also made himself another silent promise.

He would never allow anyone who wanted to hurt them to get away with it.

