

Chapter 962 Your Father's Money

Cyril's revenge came swiftly.

He sold off the shares of Glory Company, which resulted in the resignation of some executives.

Many suppliers had worked with Glory Company because the Ramos family was the shareholder of Glory Company.

The Ramos family's revenge saw many of the suppliers pulling out of the partnership with Glory Company.

"Damn it! Cyril is such a bastard!"

Glory Company was in a terribly bad state.

Zakai could be heard shouting out curses in his office.

Trevor watched in silence.

He was well aware that Glory Company would face difficulties within a day. It would be a crisis in terms of the capital chain, talents and the supply chain.

Even business elites who had solved a lot of business problems might be incapable of handling the current dilemma, not to mention Zakai, who did nothing but pleasure-seeking.

"What do I do? Or do I just declare the company bankrupt?"

Zakai flung a stack of documents at the wall in anger.

Trevor just raised his eyebrows and said, "I don't think you should do that. If you still want Sally, you'd better not give up easily."

Stunned, Zakai asked, "What does any of this have to do with Sally?"

"Women prefer strong men, and the greatest way for men to demonstrate their exceptionality is to successfully navigate a variety of challenges," Trevor said with a smile. "If you give up when you encounter difficulty, I'm afraid it'll be difficult for you to win her heart."

Zakai saw the sense in what Trevor said. Frowning, he said, "But the crisis Glory Company is battling now is enormous. How do we solve it?"

Trevor pretended to analyze it attentively while grinning inwardly. "Which is more urgent and significant, the supply chain, the talent pool, or the capital?"

"Money?" Zakai said with uncertainty.

"Yes. Money! You are the president of Glory Company. You should focus on the most important problem. Leave the rest to the other executives of the company," Trevor explained patiently.

Trevor's explanation confused Zakai even more. He frowned and said, "But the problem is that the financial gap is too big. I can't take out so much money in a short time."

Trevor replied, "You may not have enough money on your own, but what about your father's money? As a member of the Sanderson family, your father must have his own company, and he must be rich!"

Zakai was shocked. He waved his hand in refusal and said, "I can't use his money. He is not home, and he won't agree..."

Trevor sneered inwardly and responded, "Think about it this way. You are the only child of your father. His properties are yours to inherit in the future. Thus, his money belongs to you, right? The reason you need the money is not to squander it but to solve the crisis your company is facing. Besides, your father is away from home now. He is probably having fun, spending the money that will be yours in the future."

Zakai thought Trevor's words made sense, but he was still skeptical. "But..."

Trevor interrupted him and said, "It will be better if the money is used to fix the company's issue than for your father to waste it. Besides, you'll make a lot of money again once the company overcomes these difficulties. You won't have to worry about money then."

Zakai was suddenly convinced.

He rubbed his hands. He was going to make use of his father's money.

His father was probably spending the money that would be inherited by him.

Besides, it was quite reasonable for him to save the company by using his father's money.

Zakai was convinced by Trevor's words. A look of determination flashed on his face.

Looking at the change in Zakai's expression, Trevor sneered inwardly.