

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 1913

Chapter 1913

"Snap!"

Seth's legs broke following the crisp sounds of bones snapping.

He wailed in agony and saw stars as he was about to lose consciousness.

"Leon, you little bast*rd! Just wait! Once I have you at my mercy, I'm going to skin you alive and make you die screaming!" Seth cursed as his face twisted in pain.

"You talk a great deal! But I love teaching scums like you a lesson!" Leon narrowed his eyes and raised his arm.

"Wh- What are you doing?" An ominous feeling overwhelmed Seth.

"It's simple. I'm going to destroy your power once and for all. Let's see how you're going to hurt others from now on!" Leon said fiercely

Though he already decided to spare Seth's life for the time being, Seth must be punished for plotting with Joel against Leon repeatedly and kidnapping Iris.

After all that he did, Leon had no intention of letting Seth go unpunished.

Ancient lineages of martial artists like the Golans valued power above all and if Leon destroyed his power, he would be abandoned by his family.

Not only would he lose his identity as the family heir, but he would also lose everything he ever had and Seth could not bear to think of it.

"Don't! Leon, you can't destroy my power! I'm begging you, just spare me this one time!" Seth broke down and pleaded for mercy.

"It's too late to beg for mercy now! Spend the rest of your life in a wheelchair and reflect on your mistakes!" Leon sneered and was about to slam his fist against Seth's Energy Sea Point.

"Don't!" Seth fell into despair.

"Stop!" An angered roar echoed in the air.

An intimidating old man in his seventies arrived with dozens of Golans and he was none other than the leader of the Golans, Eliam.

Behind him were the other three elders and core members of the family.

They were all in a family meeting and hurried over when they heard the alarm going off.

"Grandpa! Help me!" Seth saw hope once again and shouted for help in joy.

"What's going on?" Eliam's expression darkened when he saw all the people Leon defeated laying sprawled across the ground and noticed that Seth was pinned to the ground.

"This kid is the chairman of Elegante Group, Leon Wolf!" The Fifth Elder, who suffered the least severe injury, fumbled to get up and explained the situation.

"So that's him!" Eliam said darkly.

He knew about the conflict between Elegante Group and Hiltons Corporation, so he immediately had a general understanding of what happened.

The only thing that surprised him was that Leon dared to storm into the Golans Mansion on his own and managed to injure both the Fourth and Fifth Elder.
