

Chapter 819 Hope For Mercy

The governor, experiencing a scolding from a subordinate, maintained an incredulous expression.

Having occupied his position for a significant period, this was the first time he faced such an outrageous situation. He remained dazed for a while, then when he regained his composure, fury consumed him.

Swiftly, the governor decisively reached for the red phone on his desk, a direct line to the Salem SWAT team.

"Hello, this is the governor. I'm issuing an emergency directive. Go immediately to Hawthorn Kindergarten and bring back all the Salem police officers!"

Inside Hawthorn Kindergarten.

Chief Ethan Hewitt, observing Liam's lack of reaction after his call, gradually grew impatient. He ordered his officers, "Don't waste time! Apprehend him. If he resists, use lethal force."

Upon receiving Ethan's command, the armed officers proceeded cautiously toward Liam. They had firsthand knowledge of Liam's capabilities. Thus, none of the officers dared to be negligent. Their confidence stemmed from the firearms they held, even though they remained vigilant due to their prior experience with Liam's abilities.

Liam stood unmoved, just observing them.

Even highly trained military personnel couldn't pose a threat to him, not to mention ordinary police officers. If they approached nearer, Liam would act decisively.

Suddenly, a deafening roar pierced the sky.

All eyes turned upwards, spotting an armed helicopter swiftly approaching. As it neared, a mounted Gatling gun swept the ground.

People paled in shock, seeking cover without understanding the situation.

However, the helicopter seemed uninterested in causing harm. Bullets were fired along the officers' path, compelling them to retreat before ceasing fire.

More helicopters arrived, forming a formation with the first.

Ropes were thrown down, and heavily armed special forces descended. The helicopter's loudspeaker blared, "All police officers, cease action immediately, or we'll open fire!"

Bewildered, all officers, including Ethan, sought cover without daring to expose themselves.

With the ground team's protection, the helicopters landed slowly.

The head captain of the special forces dashed toward Liam and saluted. "General Hoffman, the special forces are ready for your orders."

Liam nodded, gestured casually. "Follow the governor's commands."

The captain saluted and directed the team, "Detain all officers. Use force if necessary!"

Upon hearing these directives, Chief Ethan was thrown into a state of complete panic. Simultaneously, he came to the stark realization that the individual who had just called him, was in fact, the governor!

Filled with remorse, Ethan pleaded, "General Hoffman, I was blind to my actions. I offended you, and I acknowledge my mistake. Please forgive me. I assure you I won't repeat this mistake."

Liam ignored him, watching silently as the special forces took away all officers.

Given Liam's current status as a five-star general, the governor was unlikely to simply overlook or pardon the actions of the police chief, Ethan.

Besides, Ethan directly offended the governor himself just now. Despite the governor's apparently amiable demeanor in Liam's presence, attaining such a position implied he wasn't someone easy to deal with.

Ethan and the others found themselves in a situation

Chapter 819 Hope For Mercy

 +120 Points at most where hoping for mercy was their only recourse.

 I want no ads >