

Chapter 844 The Wolf Gang

After witnessing what Liam was capable of, the hooligans didn't dare to fight him. But one guy spoke up. "Don't be afraid! No matter how good this guy is, he is only one person. Let's pounce on him together," he urged.

Hearing this, the gang shouted in unison and charged towards Liam with their weapons held high.

Liam skillfully shuffled through the crowd like a superhero, and not even one of the steel rods or daggers touched him.

With a few hard punches and sharp kicks, the hooligans were knocked down one by one.

Liam hadn't used his full strength yet, and even then, none of them were able to fight back anymore. They lay on the ground, whimpering in pain with no strength left in their bones for a counter-attack.

Satisfied that the Wolf Gang was taken care of, Liam didn't bother to turn back for a second look. He picked up Asher in his arms and walked away.

Just then, Ruth caught up with him and said gratefully, "Thank you."

Just then, Ruth caught up with him and said gratefully, "Thank you."

"How did you wind up being involved with these hooligans?" Liam asked curiously.

Ruth looked embarrassed. After fumbling for a while, she finally replied, "Their leader has a crush on me, but after I refused him, he sent these men to intimidate me. And not just once or twice, they have been repeatedly doing this. The harassment has increased recently."

"If you know that these people are out to hurt you, why don't you change your job to avoid them?" Liam couldn't help but ask.

Ruth smiled bitterly. "It's not so simple for me. I'm an orphan. It wasn't easy for me to get this job in the first place. I can't leave even if I have issues or complaints. My only option is to endure them," she said helplessly.

With a sigh, Ruth thanked Liam again and walked away sadly.

Ruth's story struck Liam hard. He reflected on his argument with Julie. It suddenly dawned on him that he had gone too far today.

Like Ruth, Julie must have gone through the same thing all these years, too. She had endured so much for her child with no other way out.

Having figured out how to make things right, Liam was relieved and decided to rush home to apologize to Julie immediately. He turned to his son and said gently, "Asher, let's go home to mom."

Liam and Asher waited at the foot of the mountain for a long time.

It was late at night and only a few cars were passing by, so it was not easy to hail a taxi.

Suddenly Liam heard the roar of engines breaking the silence of the night. A horde of motorcycles thundered towards Liam.

One of the riders threw a sack down at Liam's feet, while the other motorcycles surrounded him. There were at least a dozen riders. They trapped him in the middle and hopped off their motorcycles, brandishing steel rods. They were all staring at him menacingly.

It was obvious that they were hostile.

The leader finally spoke. "You brat! How dare you attack our Wolf Gang! If you make my job easier by breaking your legs yourself, I might let you live!"

Liam glanced at the sack on the ground and guessed that it must be Ruth inside.

It looked like he had to put an end to this thing today!

"I'm standing right here before you. If you think you can, come and try to break my legs," Liam challenged the leader.

The leader gave his subordinates a signal, and they started attacking Liam with their steel rods. But Liam fought them hard, and one by one they fell down and passed out.

The ease with which Liam knocked down his men enraged the leader. "You think you're invincible? I'll show you what real power is!"

The leader and his crew pulled out large bags from the backpacks on their motorcycles. The bags contained shotguns, which were immediately aimed at Liam.

Smiling indifferently, Liam took off his shirt and used it to tie Asher to his body. Then he whispered in his son's ear, "Close your eyes. I'm taking you on a roller coaster ride."

What happened next happened so fast that Liam was almost a blur. Like a ghost, he swooped from one thug to another as their screams resounded in the night sky.

In just a few seconds, all the members of the Wolf Gang were brought down. They didn't even have a chance to retaliate. There were only two people still standing: Liam and the terrified leader who was currently being strangled by Liam.

"This is your last warning. If you make trouble again, none of you will live to tell the tale!" Liam warned.

"Now, get the fuck out of here!"

The thugs, who were only good at bullying people by outnumbering them, were scared to death now. They rushed to their motorcycles one by one and fled.

Liam bent down to untie the sack. Ruth was indeed inside. She was unconscious.

He shook his head and took her to the hospital. On the way, he learned all about the Wolf Gang from the governor.

It turned out that the Wolf Gang was just a small fish. It was what behind the gang that Liam was interested in: the Kingland Group!

Liam's expression turned grim. If the Kingland Group was involved, he was going to ensure he would make
