

Chapter 1207 Call The Police

Indifferent to Doris' uncle and aunt, Trevor only slightly raised his gaze.

The old couple were trying to get Doris married off to Wade. One might fathom their evil nature.

Gritting her teeth, Doris' aunt grimaced and uttered, "Doris, please ask your boyfriend to help us! I won't hide it from you anymore. We gave Wade your deceased parents' effects to generate money for the investment. Your parents' effects will be lost if he doesn't give them back!"

"What?" Doris stood up in shock and gazed hopelessly at her aunt and uncle. "How can you do that?"

Her uncle and aunt flinched away awkwardly and dared not look at her.

Doris sank back in the chair with a defeated expression.

The carefree and mischievous Doris now looked so frail and helpless.

Trevor sighed in disbelief before comforting her. "I will ask the police to pay more attention to this matter."

After all, Doris was an informer of Klein. Trevor wouldn't stand by since she couldn't lose her parents' effects.

He told Kermit about the situation right away.

Kermit, the police director, grinned and said, "What a coincidence! The patrolmen just reported to me that they arrested a man acting suspiciously on the street. They questioned him and brought him back to the police station. I believe he is the fraudster you mentioned. Please wait a moment in the cafe. I'll ask the nearby police to take you to the police station."

Unfortunately, Edlin, the mole, was the one who arrived.

Trevor arched his brows and kept quiet.

Edlin, however, was still furious with Trevor.

The informant caused trouble again.

He didn't have to be nice because the police director wasn't there.

Edlin pretended to cough while purposefully ignoring Trevor since he believed he had everything under control.

He asked Doris's uncle and aunt, "Did you run into any fraudster? A fraudster that we just caught is currently being questioned."

"Yes!" Doris' uncle replied, leaping to his feet in response to Doris. "We did encounter a fraudster. Our money was stolen. Sir, please help us!"

When Doris' aunt noticed Edlin's disregard for Trevor, she commented sarcastically, "What a foolish joke! Someone just bragged that he knew a friend from the police station. He is such a boaster. How can the police not care about you if you have a friend working there?"

Edlin was delighted to see someone disparaging Trevor. He acted like he was watching a play while crossing his arms.

When Doris' uncle realized this, he changed his tone and asked Edlin for assistance.

"Sir, please help us. We have no one to trust. All this guy could do was boast and bluff. Totally useless! Please help us get our money back!"
