Chapter 1250 Legendary Level

At the moment Liam was hurled backward by a strike from the alien, his test concluded.

Stepping back into the testing hall, Liam reflected on the battles earlier.

Given his current strength, if he were to encounter a Primogem Expert, it would be wiser to flee.

While he pondered, Liam hadn't hidden his test results, leading to an extraordinary occurrence. A dazzling golden light burst from the Stardust Crystal, filling the room and the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign with a brilliance reminiscent of a deity's descent.

The spectacle left everyone wide-eyed and in disbelief.

Astonishing!

Everyone present at the talent test understood the significance of the illuminated colors.

Accordingly, they knew that the golden light indicated an "A" level test ranking.

While the Human Clan boasted several "A" level talents, such a vivid display was exceptional.

Liam's brilliance was truly dazzling.

Even the pinnacle of the "A" level had never radiated such brightness!

Standing in the hall of the Sanctuary of Human Sovereign, Lindy was astonished.

Her own test results were also "A".

However, her light, though significant, paled in comparison to Liam's.

As astonishment took hold, Lindy remembered Sheldon mentioning that the "A" level wasn't the zenith.

There were even more formidable talent levels, though she didn't know their names.

Yet, her awe was undiminished.

She suspected Liam's talent might exceed the "A" level.

Regaining her composure, Lindy approached Liam with a congratulatory smile.

After all, the greater Liam's talent, the larger the rewards for her.

Following Lindy, Christos joined, his face alight with appreciation toward Liam. "Young man, congratulations! Your talent is truly exceptional. With you, our Human Clan has gained yet another prodigy!"

Christos, overseeing the testing hall, had been privy to Liam's results as soon as the Stardust Crystal ignited.

Despite the high praise, Liam responded with humility.

Christos chuckled, his satisfaction growing as he observed Liam's humility.

He handed over the test results to Liam, who examined them intently.

His test result was.

Bone Age: 28 years old;

Rank: Level Ten With One Star;

Spiritual Power: Peak Level Ten;

Potential Evaluation: Legendary;

Planetary System Access: Level Two;

Points: 1000;

Overall Strength: Peak Level Ten!

Liam was primarily focused on his potential evaluation.

When he saw the "Legendary" level displayed, he was taken aback.

He had never even heard of a "Legendary" level before.

Noticing Liam's bafflement, Christos explained with a chuckle, "Liam, 'Legendary' isn't a standard part of our potential grading system. It signifies that your potential surpasses even the 'A' level! Thus, it's categorized as "Legendary". This designation isn't about specific tiers but rather a general indicator. Achieving a Legendary level of potential does not guarantee that you will reach the pinnacle in the future, but it suggests the possibility of you becoming a legendary figure."

After a pause, he added, "For instance, figures such as the Human Sovereign from our Human Clan possess this Legendary level of potential! However, not every Primogem Warrior with Legendary potential will necessarily rise to become a Human Sovereign. It is, after all, simply an estimation of a Primogem Warrior's potential. So, young man, remember that cultivation offers no shortcuts. It demands diligent effort to truly reach the peak!"

Liam understood that Christos' detailed explanation served both to clarify the 'Legendary' level and to ground him.

In other words, Christos was mentoring him.

Liam carefully stored the evaluation. He bowed in gratitude, responding, "I understand. Thank you for your guidance."

Christos highly valued Liam.

To achieve the Tenth rank as a Primogem Warrior at such a young age and receive a 'Legendary' potential evaluation was extraordinary. Moreover, what set Liam apart was his humility, a stark contrast to other geniuses who often carried an air of arrogance and self-proclaimed superiority as the best in the world.

Christos felt assured that if Liam maintained his current mindset and diligently advanced in his cultivation, he might not reach the exact stature of a Human Sovereign but would certainly come close.

Emboldened by the recognition of his potential, Liam felt a surge of confidence.

This evaluation was not just a number; it was a profound acknowledgment of what he could achieve.

With this in mind, he mentally prepared himself to focus intensely on his cultivation.

His resolve was clear: to advance swiftly and rescue Julie and Asher!
