Under Lindy's guidance, Liam soon reached the entrance of the No. 97 meteor secret realm.

At the entrance, Lindy turned to Liam with a smile. "Liam, I've fulfilled my part. From now on, you must rely on yourself. Remember, within the protection of the Human Clan forces and the Network of Human Sovereign, you're safe."

Liam nodded appreciatively. Lindy added, "I know you're eager to rescue your wife and child. I hope you achieve success quickly and become a formidable man of our Human Clan!"

Touched by her words, Liam responded earnestly, "Lindy, I also wish for you to reach the City of Divinity soon and make your mark as a strong woman of our Human Clan!"

Lindy's smile widened at his words. Her spirits lifted, she replied, "You might have a better shot at entering the City of Divinity than I do. But since you've wished it for me, I'll give it my all. Liam, I'll see you in the City of Divinity!"

"See you there." Liam smiled back.

After sharing a light-hearted moment, Lindy turned and departed.

Liam then approached the entrance, observing the crowd gathered there, all on missions for the secret realm.

A quick scan revealed that the group consisted primarily

Liam, a level-ten five-star Primogem Warrior, felt out of place among such formidable peers.

He stood silently, listening as those around him shared experiences from various secret realms.

However, Liam soon realized their discussions held little value to him. Disinterested, he turned away and ventured into the secret realm alone.

At that moment, someone noticed Liam's solitary entry into the realm.

Many sneered at his audacity.

"This guy, only a level-ten, five-star warrior? How dare he venture here?"

"Does he really think he can complete the task with that kind of strength? Quite the ambitious one!"

"Don't say that. Isn't he here to entertain us with his actions?"

"You're right!"

The group laughed openly at Liam, but Liam, having already entered the secret realm, was oblivious to their mockery.

Inside, Liam was immediately captivated by the breathtaking vista before him.

The landscape was bathed in a light golden glow, with meteorites streaking frequently across the sky, lending the impression of a whole new world.

However, Liam quickly sensed something amiss.

The meteorites seemed to be targeting him, hurtling towards him with such velocity that evasion was impossible!

A flicker of fear crossed Liam's mind, prompting him to assess the power of the oncoming meteorites.

He soon realized that this secret realm, being part of the Network of Human Sovereign, was designed not to pose a lethal threat.

Bolstered by this knowledge, Liam resolved to confront the meteorites head-on.

He wanted to test the resilience of his body, now enhanced by the Human Body Refinement Technique, against these attacks.

As soon as he made the decision, the meteorites struck him in rapid succession.

Liam grunted under the impact, but to his relief, he found the meteorites caused no significant damage to him.

It seemed his defensive capabilities had indeed been enhanced by his training of the Human Body Refinement Technique.

Yet, this initial barrage was just the beginning.

More meteorites appeared, each following unpredictable trajectories as they surged towards Liam.

The relentless meteor attacks left no chance for Liam to think about anything else.

But he still kept calm and thought quickly.

He was here on a mission, and his priority was to pass the test of this secret realm.

However, aside from the stunning backdrop and numerous meteors, there was nothing else within this secret realm.

As Liam pondered the relentless meteor shower of the realm, an idea came to mind.

Could these meteorites be the key to passing the test of the secret realm?
