

Chapter 1217 Election For The President

Even though the elders spoke plainly, Liam understood that their words were born out of genuine care.

However, it was clear to him that they didn't grasp the full extent of his current powers.

Reflecting on the elders' care for him, especially in the face of the president's long absence and Orlando's betrayal, Liam felt a profound sense of gratitude. Despite these challenges, the elders' loyalty to the Salvation Society remained steadfast. They even offered Liam the chance to leave, ready to confront the Saint Society's threats on their own.

The elders, like the guiding pillars of the Salvation Society, showed deep concern for Liam like they were his parents.

Determined not to add to their worries, Liam softened his tone and said, "Everyone, you don't need to be so concerned. In fact, my master is still alive! And today, as I arrived on Genesis Island, so did he."

As Liam's words sank in, the elders' faces lit up with shock and amazement.

Sensing their impending exclamations, Liam quickly urged, "Please keep this a secret! We cannot afford for anyone else to know. The members of the Saint Society will also be here today, hidden among us. My master and I have already crafted a plan. When the Saint Society's members reveal themselves, you can strike together! Genesis Island is our stronghold, and we must not let outsiders from the Saint Society defile it!"

The elders all nodded, their expressions turning resolute.

From Liam's revelation, they also sensed a larger implication.

It seemed that today's battle would cause a great stir!

Yet, the elders felt no fear. Instead, they bristled with righteous anger and declared one after another, "Okay! Don't worry, Liam. Even if it means breaking every bone in our bodies, we will fight valiantly against the Saint Society! We'll show them that the Salvation Society isn't to be trifled with!"

Moved by their resolve, Liam nodded. "I will stand and fight beside you!"

After sharing the president's plan and the news of his survival, Liam quietly prepared for the imminent battle.

Meanwhile, the Saint Society's high-ranking members also began their journey toward Genesis Island.

This time, even the Holy Lord of the Saint Society joined the journey, accompanied by nine formidable protectors, including Carlden.

For the Holy Lord of the Saint Society, the Salvation Society had always been a major obstacle on his path forward.

Today, the Holy Lord embarked on his mission with unparalleled confidence. He was determined to crush the Salvation Society once and for all. With its fall, Blue Star would be firmly under the Saint Society's control, and no other power would dare challenge them again.

This triumph would not only solidify the Holy Lord's dominion but also serve as a testament to his achievements, earning him rewards from the higher echelons of power!

However, the Holy Lord was unaware that, on Liam's advice, Lancy had already blocked any signal from the Blue Star.

The Saint Society's forces from the Cosmic realm and the Blood Clan would be unable to send reinforcements to Blue Star.

With Blue Star's signal cut off, the Saint Society here stood isolated and unsupported.

One day later.

The selection ceremony for the Salvation Society's president officially began.

Although the battle was described as a competition among the Salvation Society's most capable members, it was actually a showdown between Orlando, the War God House's Lord, and Liam, the direct disciple of the former president!

Today, all eyes on Genesis Island were fixed on Liam.

But most of those gazes were filled with skepticism and derision.

Most of these people had been corrupted by the Saint Society, while the rest didn't know the full story.

But they all shared one sentiment: disbelief in Liam's chances to win.

After all, Liam was an inexperienced young man, while Orlando was a seasoned and revered leader, known as the Lord of the War God House and the most formidable Confidence in Orlando's victory was widespread, even among those who did not favor him personally.

Soon, a respected elder stepped forward to announce the rules of the battle.

"The selection for the position of the president is straightforward. It consists of two vital parts. First, a vote by the Salvation Society's elders and members. Then, the chosen candidates must participate in a decisive battle. Finally, a comprehensive decision will be made to elect the next president of the Salvation Society!"
