

Chapter 1231 Wake Up

The president's eyes were clouded with worry; he sensed that something was terribly amiss.

The power of the Saint Society members had surged by twenty percent.

Though this increase in strength might not seem substantial, in a battle of this scale, it was devastating.

Such a shift could lead to a drastic change.

Moreover, the Holy Lord had let the Saint Society members take the concoction devised by the Blood Clan that had severe repercussions.

The president had not anticipated that the Holy Lord would possess such a drug.

This drug, after its effects wore off, would inflict excruciating pain on its users for a month, during which their strength would diminish.

It was clear now that the Holy Lord was prepared to battle to the very end this time.

Yet, at this juncture, the Salvation Society had no contingency plan in place.

Despair filled the president's eyes.

Could this be the end of the Salvation Society?

He had dedicated years of his life to Blue Star, striving for a better outcome, yet it seemed it wouldn't end well.

The president could not come to terms with this harsh reality.

Then, like a beacon in the darkness, the image of Liam flashed across his mind.

The urgency of the current situation was evident.

This caused the president to pin his hopes on Liam, who was still in a coma.

Remembering how Liam had once defeated the level-nine three-star Unbroken Cloud with a single sword strike, he held onto the belief that Liam could still alter the course of the battle.

But despair deepened in his eyes when he saw Liam show no signs of awakening.

Meanwhile, the battlefield dynamics had drastically shifted due to the Burning Blood Drug supplied by the Blood Clan.

The Salvation Society's advantage started to disintegrate quickly after their first level-eight elder perished in a fierce battle!

This loss dramatically shifted the balance of power.

The death of the Salvation Society's elder allowed a guardian from the Saint Society to engage freely in the conflict.

This guardian moved with purpose and speed, weaving through the battlefield chaos to reach the opposite side.

Now, the situation looked grim for the Salvation Society!

Meanwhile, Liam, lying unconscious, began to perceive faint, indistinct sounds within his mind.

It appeared that these sounds were trying to wake him up.

A frown formed on Liam's face, though he was still deep in a coma and unaware of the Salvation Society's dire predicament.

Then, unexpectedly, a radiant blue light burst forth from Liam's heart!

This light washed over his entire body, lingering until his depleted primogem energy and physical vitality were fully replenished.

With his energy and strength restored, Liam abruptly opened his eyes and came to his senses.

He was startled to find the Salvation Society in such a perilous state.

Liam quickly examined himself and noticed that his body was back to its optimal condition, although the light from the World Power of Blue Star inside him had noticeably dimmed.

Realizing there was no time for contemplation, Liam knew he had to act swiftly.

The potential loss of another elder he was familiar with hung heavy with each ticking second.

Driven by urgency, Liam leaped to his feet and joined the battle.

Liam's presence on the battlefield provided a crucial opportunity for the members of the Salvation Society to regroup.

With Liam's reputation for the devastating sword attack fresh in their minds, the adversaries from the Saint Society were wary of confronting Liam directly.

When previously battling Unbroken Cloud, Liam had advanced to become a level-eight Primogem Warrior. Moreover, his profound strike had greatly enhanced his understanding of primogem energy and the mysterious forces within him.

As a result, the elemental giant that Liam summoned this time was significantly stronger than before.

Liam then furrowed his brow and used his special power of the light element.

The next moment, a brilliant beam of light burst forth from Liam's body, enveloping every member of the Saint Society.

Using the special power of the light element, along with his life-draining ability, Liam began extracting primogem energy and life force from those caught within the light's glow.

Liam's combat skills had improved significantly.

As a result, those enveloped in the radiant power of the light element found themselves unable to break free.

As soon as Liam took action, the members of the Salvation Society felt the overwhelming pressure they had been under diminish significantly.

They had not anticipated that it would be Liam who would turn the tide in this fierce conflict between the Salvation Society and the Saint Society.

For a brief moment, a mix of gratification and surprise flickered in the eyes of the Salvation Society's elders.

Liam had surpassed their expectations!
